Re: Keurig's Deceptive "Recyclable" K-Cup Pod Campaign

Dear Attorney General Ellison and Special Assistant Attorney General Heegaard:

A recent Truth in Advertising, Inc. ("TINA.org") investigation has found that Keurig Dr Pepper Inc. ("Keurig") is deceptively labeling and advertising its K-Cup single use beverage pods as "recyclable" despite the fact that a substantial majority of consumers are not able to recycle them. Due to their small size, irregular shape, multi-material construction, frequent contamination issues and unfavorable economic considerations, K-Cup pods are not recycled by the vast majority of existing recycling centers across the United States.

Despite these facts, Keurig markets its K-Cup pods as "recyclable" because they contain polypropylene #5 plastic, but in so doing, the company relies on a purely theoretical definition of recyclability. This deceptive marketing strategy allows Keurig to exploit consumer demand for environmentally responsible products, disadvantage honest competitors and undermine fair competition, all in violation of Minnesota law.<sup>1</sup>

TINA.org has filed a complaint regarding Keurig's marketing with the Federal Trade Commission (attached), but we bring this matter to your attention as well not only because Minnesota consumers are being impacted by Keurig's deception but also because of Minnesota's dedication to addressing greenwashing.<sup>2</sup>

We urge your office to open an investigation into Keurig and take appropriate enforcement action.<sup>3</sup>

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact us.

Sincerely,

Laura Smith, Esq.
