I. BACKGROUND

A. Procedural Background

Plaintiffs Alec Fisher, Matthew Townsend, and Connor Rucks<sup>1</sup> (collectively, "Plaintiffs"), on behalf of themselves, and putatively, others similarly situated, bring this action against Monster, seeking redress for Monster's allegedly "unfair and deceptive business and trade practices on behalf of anyone who purchased for personal consumption any of the Monster-branded energy drinks sold under the Monster Rehab® brand name and the original Monster Energy®." (Second Amended Complaint ("SAC") ¶ 1 (Doc. No. 51.))

Plaintiffs allege six claims: (1) violations of California's Unfair Competition Law, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200, et seq. ("UCL Claim"); (2) violations of California's False Advertising Law, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500, et seq. ("FAL Claim"); (3) violations of California's Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code § 1750, et seq. ("CLRA Claim"); (4) breach of express and implied warranty ("Breach of Warranty Claim"); (5) violations of the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act, 15 U.S.C. § 2301, et seq. ("MMWA Claim"); and (6) unjust enrichment ("Unjust Enrichment Claim").

<sup>1</sup>Connor Rucks is no longer a Plaintiff in this Action.

1 Plaintiffs filed their First Amended Complaint on 2 March 7, 2013. (Doc. No. 20.) Defendants filed a Motion
3 to Dismiss, and on July 9, 2013, the Court granted
4 Defendants' Motion to Dismiss the First Amended Complaint
5 with limited leave to amend. (July 9, 2013 Minute Order
6 Granting Defendants' Motion to Dismiss ("MTD I Order") 7 (Doc. No. 48.)) The Court dismissed the Complaint on 8 several grounds, including: (1) Plaintiffs Fisher and 9 Rucks did not allege Article III standing sufficiently; 10 (2) the allegations failed to meet Federal Rule of Civil 11 Procedure Rule 9(b)'s specificity requirement; (3) 12 Plaintiffs' consumer protection claims (UCL, FAL, and 13 CLRA) based on Monster's failure to label and warn 14 adequately were preempted; (4) failure to state a claim 15 under the UCL, FAL, and CLRA; (5) failure to allege any 16 representations constituting an express warranty; (6)
17 allegations supporting the breach of implied warranty 18 were preempted; and (7) failure to allege a quasi-19 contractual theory in support of their unjust enrichment 20 claim.

22 The Court granted Plaintiffs limited leave to amend, 23 instructing that Plaintiffs "may not pursue consumer 24 protection claims that are preempted, i.e., that seek to 25 impose requirements 'not identical' to the FDCA or those 26 required by the FDA. Plaintiff is also instructed to 27 comply with FRCP 8 ('a short and plain statement of the 28

1 claim') and FRCP 9(b) ('fraudulent conduct must be 2 alleged with particularity.')." (MTD I Order at 25.)

4 Plaintiffs filed their Second Amended Complaint on 5 July 26, 2013. Defendants filed their Motion to Dismiss, 6 or in the Alternative, Motion to Strike, along with 7 Appendices A and B on August 30, 2013. Defendants also 8 filed a Request for Judicial Notice in Support of their 9 Motion to Dismiss Second Amended Complaint ("RJN"), the 10 Declaration of Purvi G. Patel, and Exhibits 1-8. (Doc.
11 Nos. 59, 60-60-8.) On September 25, 2013, Plaintiffs 12 filed their Opposition to Defendants' Motion to Dismiss 13 the Second Amended Complaint ("Opp'n.") (Doc. No. 63) and 14 Opposition to Defendants' Request for Judicial Notice
15 ("Opp'n. to RJN.") (Doc. No. 64.). On October 7, 2013, 16 Defendants submitted their Reply in Support of 17 Defendants' Motion to Dismiss Second Amended Complaint 18 ("Reply") (Doc. No. 65.) Defendants also filed (1) a 19 Reply in support of its RJN ("RJN Reply") (Doc. No. 66); 20 (2) a supplemental request for judicial notice (Doc. No.
21 67); (3) the Declaration of Eva Lilja in support of the 22 supplemental request (Doc. No. 68); (4) the Declaration 23 of Purvi Patel in support of the Motion to Dismiss (Doc.
24 No. 69).

1 B. Request for Judicial Notice

2 Monster filed a RJN requesting the Court to take 3 judicial notice of eight exhibits, and a Supplemental RJN 4 asking the Court to take judicial notice of two 5 additional exhibits. The Court finds it appropriate to 6 take judicial notice of exhibits (1) a public letter from 7 the Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") to Congress
8 regarding the FDA's investigation into energy drinks 9 (Doc. No. 59-1); (2) a public notice from the FDA 10 announcing the FDA's investigation regarding the safety 11 of caffeine in food products, available on the FDA's 12 website (Doc. No. 59-2); (3) a letter from Monster to 13 Margaret A. Hamburg, FDA Commissioner of Food and Drugs, 14 in response to FDA's request for further substantiation 15 (Doc. No. 59-3); (4) a letter from the American Beverage 16 Association to Margaret A. Hamburg, FDA Commissioner of 17 Food and Drugs, in response to the FDA's investigation 18 regarding the safety of caffeine as an ingredient in 19 energy drinks (Doc. No. 59-4); (5) a public notice from 20 the Institute of Medicine of the National Academies 21 ("IOM") announcing its two-day public workshop to discuss 22 potential health impacts stemming from the consumption of 23 caffeine, available on IOM's website (Doc. No. 59-5); and 24 (6) an excerpt from the "Agenda Book" for the Institute 25 of Medicine (IOM) Workshop on Potential Health Hazards 26 Associate with Consumption of Caffeine in Food and 27 Dietary Supplements (Doc No. 59-6).

1 Exhibits 1-4 are judicially noticeable because the 2 information "was made publicly available by government 3 entities [], and neither party disputes the authenticity 4 of the websites or the accuracy of the information 5 displayed therein." Daniels-Hall v. Nat'l Educ. Ass'n., 6 629 F.3d 992, 998-99 (9th Cir. 2010) (courts may take 7 judicial notice of information posted on an official 8 government website). The Court has taken judicial notice 9 of the existence of these documents, and does not accept 10 as true the facts or contents of the documents. (See 11 Opp'n. to RJN at 6.)

13 Exhibits 5 and 6 are judicially noticeable because 14 they are "not subject to reasonable dispute [and] can be 15 accurately and readily determined from sources whose 16 accuracy cannot reasonably be questioned." Fed. R. Evid.

18 19 The Court GRANTS Monster's RJN with respect to 20 exhibits 1-6. The Court finds no need to rely on the 21 additional exhibits (7-10) in the disposition of this 22 Motion, and DENIES Monster's RJN for these exhibits.

24 C. Relevant Factual Allegations

25 1. Common Factual Allegations

26 In their Opposition, Plaintiffs divide their claims 27 against Monster into "on-label" and "off-label" claims.

1 (Opp'n. at 1.) "On-label" claims are specific 2 misrepresentations on the labels and packaging of the 3 Monster Drinks.<sup>2</sup> (Id. at 1.) The "off-label" claims 4 concern Monster's false and deceptive marketing campaign
5 targeting children. (Id. at 2.)

7 Plaintiffs allege three specific misrepresentations
8 on the labels of the Original Monster and Rehab Varieties 9 cans. Plaintiffs allege the Rehab Varieties contained 10 the following two misrepresentations: (1) "quenches 11 thirst, hydrates like a sports drink, and brings you back 12 after a hard day's night"<sup>3</sup> ("Hydrates Like A Sports 13 Drink Statement") (Id. at 5); (2) "RE-FRESH, RE-HYDRATE, 14 REVIVE" or "RE-FRESH, RE-HYDRATE, RE-STORE" ("Re-Hydrate 15 Statement"). (Id.) Plaintiffs allege these statements 16 are misrepresentations because, in fact, Rehab Varieties

18 <sup>2</sup>It is unclear from the SAC and the Opposition 19 whether Plaintiffs allege that "Consume responsibly - Max 20 1 can per four hours, with limit 3 cans per day. Not 21 recommended for children, people sensitive to caffeine, 22 pregnant women or women who are nursing" ("Consume 23 Responsibly Statement") is an "on-label" 24 misrepresentation. Although it appears the SAC alleges 25 the Consume Responsibly Statement is a misrepresentation (see SAC ¶¶ 24-25, 42-45), the statement is not listed in the Opposition as one of the "three on-label misrepresentations." (Opp'n. at 5-6.) Relying on Plaintiffs' arguments and interpretation of their SAC, the Court has not considered the Consume Responsibly Statement an alleged misrepresentation for the purposes of this Motion.

27 <sup>3</sup>In March 2013 Defendants changed the language on the 28 label to: "quenches thirst, fires you up, and is the perfect choice after a hard day's night." (SAC ¶ 5)

1 do not hydrate like a sports drink, and actually could 2 cause dehydration. (SAC ¶ 6.) The elevated levels of 3 caffeine in energy drinks can act as a diuretic and lead 4 to dehydration. (SAC ¶¶ 36-37.) To the extent the 5 Monster Drinks do hydrate, they do not hydrate like a 6 sports drink. (SAC ¶ 36.)

8 Plaintiffs allege the labeling for Monster Original 9 drinks contains the following misrepresentation: "It's 10 the ideal combo of the right ingredients in the right 11 proportion to deliver the big bad buzz that only Monster 12 can" ("Ideal Combo Statement") (Id. ¶ 7.) Plaintiffs 13 allege this statement is false and misleading because "it 14 is not the ideal combo of the right ingredients in the 15 right proportion" and the statement omits "material facts 16 regarding the potential health risks associated with the 17 frequent consumption of Monster Drinks." (Id. ¶¶ 7, 41.)

19 Plaintiffs also allege "off-label" claims related to 20 Monster's advertising strategy. (Opp'n. at 1-2.)
21 Plaintiffs allege that Monster specifically targets youth 22 between the ages of 9 to 24 despite the high caffeine 23 levels in Monster Drinks and the evidence of serious 24 health risks these levels may pose. (SAC ¶ 12.) In 25 addition, Monster fails to include specific warnings for 26 teenagers and youth. (Id. ¶ 46.) Plaintiffs argue that

28

1 targeting young people without including any warnings
2 directed at them is deceptive. (Id. ¶ 50.)

4 Plaintiffs allege that Monster targets adolescents
5 and youth through a variety of strategies including, free 6 samples and other promotions at high schools (SAC ¶ 9), 7 references to sex and alcohol (id. ¶¶ 51-54), prize 8 promotions (id. ¶ 55), pages on the social networking 9 site, Facebook (id. ¶ 56), and sponsoring extreme sports 10 events and concerts (id. ¶ 48). Monster has sought 11 endorsements from music celebrities and popular sports 12 figures. (Id. ¶ 57.) Few of these celebrities, however, 13 actually consume Monster Drinks. (Id.) Rather, Monster 14 invented "Monster Tour Water" for celebrities to consume, 15 which is water packaged in the same cans as Monster 16 Drinks. (Id. ¶¶ 58-60.)

18 Monster's misrepresentations and deceptive 19 advertising campaign has caused serious bodily injury to 20 consumers and continues to pose a danger. (Id. ¶¶ 62, 21 66.) Consumption of Monster Drinks "can raise one's 22 heart rate" and increase blood pressure. (Id. ¶ 65.)
23 Consumption of energy drinks may also result in "heart 24 palpitations." (Id.)

26 Plaintiffs allege Monster has profited immensely and 27 has been unjustly enriched from its "false and 28

1 misleading" marketing, advertising, and labeling. (Id. ¶ 2 15.)

4 2. Allegations Specific to Individual Plaintiffs

5 i. Plaintiff Alec Fisher

6 Plaintiff Fisher ("Fisher") first consumed a Monster
7 Drink in or around 2007 at the age of sixteen. (Id. ¶ 8 23.) Monster sent trucks to park outside Fisher's high 9 school and hand out free Monster Drinks. (Id.) The 10 Monster employees did not ask people their ages before 11 dispensing the free cans of Monster Drinks. (Id.)
12 Fisher believed that the Monster Drinks were safe for 13 consumption and saw nothing on the label of the Monster 14 Drink can to believe otherwise. (Id.) Fisher most 15 frequently consumed the Original Monster and Monster 16 Energy Assault.<sup>4</sup> If Fisher had known of the health risks 17 of Monster Drinks he would not have consumed or purchased 18 the drinks. (Id.)

20 ii. Plaintiff Matthew Townsend

21 Plaintiff Townsend ("Townsend") has been purchasing 22 and consuming a variety of Monster Drinks for the past 23 six years, since he was 37 years old. (Id. ¶ 24.)
24 Townsend first tried an Original Monster drink in June

26 <sup>4</sup>Monster Energy Assault is not a variety of Monster 27 Beverages included in this action.

1 2007, which he purchased from a vitamin store. (Id.)
2 Townsend read the label on an Original Monster drink and 3 decided to buy it because the label indicated that the 4 drink had 100 percent of daily values of vitamins B2, B3, 5 B6, B12 and supplements. (Id.) A few days later, 6 Townsend bought and consumed a Monster Drink instead of 7 coffee because he believed it was better than coffee 8 because of the vitamins. Over the past six years, 9 Townsend has "tried every variety ever created," 10 including Monster Original and the Rehab Varieties, and 11 frequently purchased multi-packs of Monster Drinks. (Id.

14 Plaintiff Townsend read the Monster Drink label and 15 made sure never to drink more than three cans a day as 16 prescribed on the label. (Id.) Townsend also read and 17 relied on the Rehab Varieties product label Hydrates Like 18 a Sports Drink Statement.<sup>5</sup> (Id.) Townsend believed 19 _____

20 <sup>5</sup>Monster contends the Court should disregard this 21 allegation because it is "inconsistent" with FAC ¶ 32, 22 where Townsend alleged he was "amused by Monster's 23 comments on the back of the can, which he thought were 24 very clever." (Mot. at 8.) An "amended complaint may 25 only allege other facts consistent with the challenged 26 pleading." Reddy v. Litton Indus., Inc., 912 F.2d 291, 27 297 (9th Cir. 1990) (citations omitted.) Townsend's 28 statement that he relied on the Hydrates Like a Sports Drink Statement on Rehab Varieties is not necessarily inconsistent or contradictory to his statement he was generally amused by Monster's comments on the back of the cans. Monster has a variety of different products, with different labels that contain multiple "comments".
Furthermore, it is conceivable a person could both rely on and be amused by a single comment.

1 Monster Drinks were safe for consumption, and he did not 2 see anything in the product labels to contradict this.
3 (Id.)

5 Plaintiff Townsend's addiction to Monster Drinks 6 resulted in serious health issues, beginning in the 7 summer of 2012. (Id. ¶ 24(b).) Townsend's heart 8 frequently pounded too fast, and he had chest pains and 9 trouble sleeping. (Id.) He attempted to stop drinking 10 Monster Drinks, but without the drinks, he experienced 11 severe headaches. (Id.)

13 In September 2012, Townsend became faint and 14 feverish, and had a heightened heart rate. (Id.)
15 Townsend went to the emergency room at a local hospital.
16 (Id.) His blood pressure was registered at an average of 17 225 over 139, which is "critically high". (Id.)

18 19 iii. Plaintiff Ted Cross

20 Plaintiff Cross ("Cross") began purchasing and 21 consuming Monster Drinks in or around 2008. (Id. ¶ 25.)
22 For approximately two years, he consumed one can of 23 Original Monster per day. (Id.) After approximately two 24 years Cross increased his consumption to two cans per 25 day, a few days per week. (Id.) He frequently purchased

1 Monster Energy Absolutely Zero and Java Monster Mean
2 Bean.<sup>6</sup> (Id.)

4 At a 2011 dental appointment on a morning when 5 Plaintiff Cross had consumed two Monster Drinks, Cross's
6 blood pressure registered at 260 mm Hg systolic. (Id.)
7 In October 2012, Cross experienced vision problems, 8 dizziness, nausea, and a severe headache after drinking 9 two Monster Energy Absolutely Zero drinks. (Id.) He was 10 transported by ambulance to a hospital and operated on 11 for a bleeding blood vessel in his brain. (Id.) At the 12 time he was admitted to the hospital his blood pressure 13 was 280 mm Hg systolic. (Id.)

15 Plaintiff Cross relied on the Consume Responsibly 16 Statement that Monster Drinks were safe to consume if 17 limited to three cans per day. (Id. ¶ 25(a).) He also 18 relied on the Ideal Combo Statement on the Original 19 Monster label. (Id.) Cross understood this to mean that 20 "Monster Drinks were safe (or not unsafe) for consumption 21 and would provide energy without exposing people to 22 health risks." (Id.) If he had known the "true facts," 23 Plaintiff Cross would not have purchased and consumed 24 Monster Drinks.

II. LEGAL STANDARD

2 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6) allows a 3 party to bring a motion to dismiss for failure to state a 4 claim upon which relief can be granted. Rule 12(b)(6) is 5 read in conjunction with Rule 8(a), which requires only a 6 short and plain statement of the claim showing that the 7 pleader is entitled to relief. Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a)(2); 8 Conley v. Gibson, 355 U.S. 41, 47 (1957) (holding that 9 the Federal Rules require that a plaintiff provide "'a 10 short and plain statement of the claim' that will give 11 the defendant fair notice of what the plaintiff's claim 12 is and the grounds upon which it rests." (quoting Fed. R.
13 Civ. P. 8(a)(2))); Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S.
14 544, 555 (2007). When evaluating a Rule 12(b)(6) motion, 15 a court must accept all material allegations in the 16 complaint – as well as any reasonable inferences to be 17 drawn from them – as true and construe them in the light 18 most favorable to the non-moving party. See Doe v.
19 United States, 419 F.3d 1058, 1062 (9th Cir. 2005); ARC
20 Ecology v. U.S. Dep't of Air Force, 411 F.3d 1092, 1096
21 (9th Cir. 2005); Moyo v. Gomez, 32 F.3d 1382, 1384 (9th 22 Cir. 1994).

24 "While a complaint attacked by a Rule 12(b)(6) motion 25 to dismiss does not need detailed factual allegations, a 26 plaintiff's obligation to provide the 'grounds' of his 27 'entitlement to relief' requires more than labels and 28

1 conclusions, and a formulaic recitation of the elements 2 of a cause of action will not do." Twombly, 550 U.S. at 3 555 (citations omitted). Rather, the allegations in the 4 complaint "must be enough to raise a right to relief 5 above the speculative level." Id.

7 To survive a motion to dismiss, a plaintiff must 8 allege "enough facts to state a claim to relief that is 9 plausible on its face." Twombly, 550 U.S. at 570; 10 Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 677-78 (2009). "The 11 plausibility standard is not akin to a 'probability 12 requirement,' but it asks for more than a sheer 13 possibility that a defendant has acted unlawfully. Where 14 a complaint pleads facts that are 'merely consistent 15 with' a defendant's liability, it stops short of the line 16 between possibility and plausibility of 'entitlement to 17 relief.'" Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 678 (quoting Twombly, 550 18 U.S. at 556). Recently, the Ninth Circuit clarified that 19 (1) a complaint must "contain sufficient allegations of 20 underlying facts to give fair notice and to enable the 21 opposing party to defend itself effectively," and (2) 22 "the factual allegations that are taken as true must 23 plausibly suggest an entitlement to relief, such that it 24 is not unfair to require the opposing party to be 25 subjected to the expense of discovery and continued 26 litigation." Starr v. Baca, 652 F.3d 1202, 1216 (9th 27 Cir. 2011).

1           Although the scope of review is limited to the 2 contents of the complaint, the Court may also consider 3 exhibits submitted with the complaint, Hal Roach Studios, 4 Inc. v. Richard Feiner & Co., 896 F.2d 1542, 1555 n.19 5 (9th Cir. 1990), and "take judicial notice of matters of 6 public record outside the pleadings." Mir v. Little Co.
7 of Mary Hosp., 844 F.2d 646, 649 (9th Cir. 1988).

III. DISCUSSION

10           Monster has moved to dismiss, pursuant to Federal 11 Rules of Civil Procedure 8, 9(b), 12(b)(1), and 12(b)(6), 12 on the following grounds: (1) Plaintiffs lack standing; 13 (2) Plaintiffs fail to satisfy basic pleading standards 14 and the heightened pleading standard for the purported 15 deliberately deceptive conduct they allege; (3)
16 Plaintiffs fail to state a claim for relief; (4) 17 Plaintiffs' claims are preempted or subject to the FDA's 18 primary jurisdiction; and (5) Plaintiffs' SAC is not a 19 "short and plain statement" of facts showing Plaintiffs 20 are entitled to relief.

1 A. Standing<sup>7</sup>

2 Monster argues that Plaintiffs Fisher, Townsend, and 3 Cross do not satisfy Article III standing requirements.
4 (Mot. at 10.) If a plaintiff lacks standing under 5 Article III of the U.S. Constitution, then the Court 6 lacks subject matter jurisdiction. See Fed. R. Civ. P.
7 12(b)(1). Defendants make a facial attack on Plaintiffs'
8 standing, and when evaluating a facial attack, the Court 9 "must accept as true all material allegations in the 10 complaint, and must construe the complaint in" 11 Plaintiffs' favor. Chandler v. State Farm Mut. Auto.
12 Ins. Co., 598 F.3d 1115, 1121-22 (9th Cir. 2010).

14 Article III of the Constitution gives federal courts 15 jurisdiction over "cases and controversies." U.S. Const.
16 Art. III § 2, cl. 2. "In essence the question of 17 standing is whether the litigant is entitled to have the 18 court decide the merits of the dispute or of particular 19 _____ 20 <sup>7</sup>In the SAC, Plaintiffs narrowed the definition of 21 "Monster Drinks"; the FAC included 28 different 22 beverages, but the SAC only included the original Monster 23 Energy product and the products under the Monster Rehab 24 brand name. In the Opposition, Plaintiffs argue that 25 they continue to represent mislabeling claims concerning 26 all varieties of Monster-brand energy drinks. (Opp'n. at 27 12 n. 11.) Plaintiffs mention this argument in a 28 footnote, and have not sufficiently alleged facts showing that all Monster-branded energy drinks are sufficiently similar to support standing for all Monster-branded energy drinks. See Astiana v. Dreyer's Grand Ice Cream, Inc., 2012 WL 2990766, *1, 11 (N.D. Cal. July 20, 2012) ("the critical inquiry seems to be whether there is sufficient similarity between the products purchased and not purchased."); Colucci v. ZonePerfect Nutrition Co.,

1 issues." Warth v. Seldin, 422 U.S. 490, 498 (1975).
2 Standing, therefore, is a threshold issue in every 3 federal case. Elk Grove Unified Sch. Dist. v. Newdow, 4 524 U.S. 1, 11 (2004); Warth, 422 U.S. at 517-18. Claims
5 brought under California's UCL, FAL, or CLRA must satisfy 6 federal standing requirements under Article III as well.
7 See Cantrell v. City of Long Beach, 241 F.3d 674, 683 8 (9th Cir. 2001) (parties asserting state claims in 9 federal court must meet Article III standing 10 requirements).

11 12 A plaintiff must satisfy "the irreducible 13 constitutional minimum of standing" by demonstrating: (1) 14 he has suffered an "'injury in fact' -- an invasion of a 15 legally protected interest which is (a) concrete and 16 particularized, and (b) actual or imminent, not 17 conjectural or hypothetical"; (2) there is a causal 18 connection between the injury and the conduct complained 19 of -- that is, the injury is "fairly traceable" to the 20 challenged action of the defendant, and not the result of 21 the independent action of some third party not before the 22 court; and (3) it is "likely," as opposed to merely 23 "speculative," that the injury will be redressed by a 24 favorable judicial decision. Lujan v. Nat'l Wildlife 25 Fed'n, 504 U.S. 555, 560-61 (1992). "At the pleading 26 stage, general factual allegations of injury resulting 27 from defendant's conduct may suffice . . . ." Id.

28

1 For the purposes of Article III standing an injury
2 may be physical or economic. See Sierra Club v. Morton, 3 405 U.S. 727, 733-34 (1972) ("[P]alpable economic 4 injuries have long been recognized as sufficient to lay 5 the basis for standing.") In order to assert the type of 6 economic injury that Plaintiffs are alleging, they must 7 demonstrate they were allegedly deceived, and either 8 purchased a product they would not have otherwise 9 purchased, paid a premium or overpaid for the product, 10 or would have purchased an alternative product. See 11 Pirozzi v. Apple Inc., 2012 WL 6652453, *1, 4 (N.D. Cal.
12 Dec. 20, 2012) ("Overpaying for goods or purchasing goods 13 a person otherwise would not have purchased based upon 14 alleged misrepresentations by the manufacturer would 15 satisfy the injury-in-fact and causation requirements for 16 Article III standing"); Lanovaz v. Twinings N. Am., Inc., 17 2013 WL 675929, *1, 6 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 25, 2013) ("The 18 alleged purchase of a product that plaintiff would not 19 otherwise have purchased but for the alleged unlawful 20 label is sufficient to establish an economic injury-in-21 fact for plaintiff's unfair competition claims."); Boysen 22 v. Walgreen Co., 2012 WL 2953069, *1, 7 (N.D. Cal. July 23 19, 2012) (an economic injury is sufficiently alleged if 24 plaintiff would have purchased an alternative beverage 25 "had defendant's [beverage] been differently labeled.");
26 Chavez v. Blue Sky Natural Beverage Co., 340 F. App'x 27 359, 360-61 (9th Cir. 2009) (unpublished) (Article III

28

1 standing where Plaintiff "purchased beverages that he 2 otherwise would not have purchased in absence of the 3 alleged misrepresentations." ).

5 Although Article III standing may be satisfied with 6 either a physical or an economic injury, standing under 7 the UCL, FAL, and CLRA requires an economic injury. In 8 re Sony Gaming Networks & Customer Data Sec. Breach 9 Litig., 903 F. Supp. 2d 942, 965 (S.D. Cal. 2012). To 10 have standing under the UCL and FAL, a Plaintiff must 11 allege he "has suffered injury in fact and has lost money 12 or property as a result of the unfair competition." See 13 Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17204, 17203; Kwikset Corp. v.
14 Superior Court, 51 Cal. 4th 310, 320 (2011). Similarly, 15 the CLRA requires Plaintiffs to allege a "tangible 16 increased cost or burden to the consumer." Meyer v.
17 Sprint Spectrum L.P., 45 Cal. 4th 634 (2009).
18 Accordingly, the Court evaluates standing both under 19 Article III and the UCL, FAL, and CLRA statutory 20 requirements.

22 1. Plaintiff Fisher

23 In the MTD I Order, the Court dismissed all claims 24 brought by Fisher because he failed to plead an "injury 25 in fact" for the purposes of Article III standing. (MTD 26 I Order at 10.) In the SAC, Plaintiff Fisher again fails 27 to allege an injury.

1 Fisher alleges he suffered an economic injury because 2 he relied on specific misrepresentations in purchasing
3 Monster Drinks. (Opp'n. at 16.) As in the FAC, the SAC 4 does not allege Plaintiff Fisher relied on any specific 5 misrepresentations by Monster, and only states that 6 Fisher "had no reason to believe" that Monster Drinks 7 were "not safe or posed a health risk", and that if he 8 had known of the health risks he would not have continued 9 to purchase Monster Drinks. (SAC ¶ 23.) As before, 10 Fisher is not alleging Monster made any 11 misrepresentations or deceived him; rather, he alleges 12 only that Monster failed to label their products in a way 13 that would lead Plaintiffs to "believe" that the Monster 14 Drinks "could" be injurious to their health.<sup>8</sup> The Court 15 finds Plaintiff Fisher has not alleged Article III 16 standing sufficiently, and accordingly the claims brought 17 by Plaintiff Fisher are DISMISSED.

20 <sup>8</sup>Plaintiffs acknowledge this deficiency, and argue 21 that "to the extent Plaintiff Fisher did not rely upon a 22 specific misrepresentation, he also has standing by 23 virtue of being a Member of Monster's target group - 24 young adolescent males - when he began purchasing and 25 consuming Monster Drinks." (Opp'n. at 17 n. 15.)
26 Plaintiff's membership in the target group does not 27 constitute a "concrete" or "actual" injury as required by 28 Article III. See Johns v. Bayer Corp., 2010 WL 476688, *1, 5 (S.D. Cal. Feb. 9, 2010) ("Plaintiff does not allege exposure to a long-term advertising campaign . . .
He cannot expand the scope of his claims to include a product he did not purchase or advertisements relating to a product that he did not rely upon".).

1           2. Plaintiff Townsend

2           Plaintiff Townsend has alleged sufficient facts to 3 support standing. Townsend frequently purchased "Monster 4 Drinks", which as defined in the SAC, includes Original 5 Monster and the Rehab Varieties.<sup>9</sup> (SAC ¶ 8.) Townsend 6 alleges he read and relied on the "Monster Drinks" 7 Consume Responsibly Statement and the Rehab Varieties'
8 Hydrates Like a Sports Drink Statement. (Id.) 9 "Purchasing goods a person otherwise would not have 10 purchased based upon alleged misrepresentations by the 11 manufacturer" satisfies the injury in fact and causation 12 standing requirements. Pirozzi, 2012 WL 6652453, at *4.
13 Townsend alleges that he relied on these representations 14 in purchasing Monster Drinks, and would not otherwise 15 have bought the drinks. (SAC ¶ 24.) Townsend has 16 adequately pled an economic injury.

18           In addition, Townsend alleges that as a result of his 19 consumption of Monster Drinks, he suffered physical

20 21           <sup>9</sup>Defendants argue that the SAC does not specifically 22 allege that Townsend purchased any of the products from 23 the Monster Rehab variety. Although Plaintiffs' use of 24 "Monster Drinks" is confusing and at times inconsistent, 25 the Court must make all inferences in favor of the 26 Plaintiffs. When the Plaintiffs' definition of "Monster 27 Drinks" is applied, the SAC sufficiently alleges Townsend 28 purchased all of the five Rehab drink varieties. This is consistent with other statements in the SAC that Townsend has consumed "every variety of energy drink created by Monster, including every Monster Rehab product and Monster Energy." (SAC ¶ 24(a).)

1 injuries, including his heart frequently pounding too 2 fast, chest pains, trouble sleeping, high blood pressure, 3 and a visit to the emergency room. (SAC ¶ 24(a).) This 4 injury is also sufficient to meet the Article III injury, 5 causation, and redressability requirements. Accordingly, 6 Plaintiff Townsend has adequately alleged Article III
7 standing and UCL, FAL, and CLRA statutory standing.

8 9 3. Plaintiff Cross

10 Plaintiff Cross has alleged sufficient facts to 11 support standing for claims related to the Original 12 Monster drink label. Cross frequently purchased multi-13 packs of Original Monster.<sup>10</sup> (Id. ¶ 25.) Cross alleges 14 he read and relied on the Consume Responsibly and Ideal 15 Combo Statements on the Original Monster label. (Id. ¶ 16 25(a).) Cross understood the Ideal Combo Statement to 17 mean that "Monster Drinks were safe (or not unsafe) for 18 19 <sup>10</sup>Defendants argue Plaintiff Cross does not have 20 standing for claims related to the Rehab Varieties 21 because the SAC does not allege he ever purchased the 22 Rehab varieties. (Mot. at 10.) Here, the Court agrees 23 with Defendants. The SAC uses the term "Monster Drinks" 24 to describe drinks purchased by Plaintiff Cross, but also 25 states specifically that Cross drank a can of the 26 "original Monster Energy" per day, and that Cross "bought 27 and consumed Monster Energy Absolutely Zero and Java 28 Monster Mean Bean." (SAC ¶ 9.) Here, it would not be fair to read the term "Monster Drinks" to include the Rehab variety, as defined in the SAC, since that reading is explicitly contradicted by other statements in the SAC. In paragraph 25, it seems that "Monster Drinks" only refers to the types of Monster beverages Plaintiff Cross consumed, which does not include the Rehab Varieties.

1 consumption and would provide energy without exposing 2 people to health risks" and he would not have purchased 3 Original Monster otherwise. (Id.) In other words 4 Plaintiff Cross has alleged he would not have purchased 5 the product but for the alleged misrepresentation.<sup>11</sup> (Id.
6 ¶ 25.) Accordingly, Plaintiff Cross has adequately 7 alleged an economic injury in fact in relation to the 8 claims involving the Original Monster sufficient for 9 Article III standing and UCL, FAL, CLRA statutory 10 standing.

12 B. Fed. R. Civ. P. 9(b) Particularity Requirements and 13 Fed. R. Civ. P. 8 Plausibility Requirements

14 Monster argues Plaintiffs fail to meet Rule 9(b)'s 15 particularity requirement. The heightened pleading 16 standard of Rule 9(b) applies to state law claims 17 sounding in fraud that are brought in a federal action.
18 Vess v. Ciba-Geigy Corp. USA, 317 F.3d 1097, 1102-03 (9th 19 Cir. 2003). The fraudulent conduct must be alleged with 20 particularity under Rule 9(b). Kearns v. Ford Motor Co.,

22 <sup>11</sup>Plaintiff Cross also alleges he suffered high blood 23 pressure, a physical injury, after consuming two "Monster 24 Drinks." It is unclear, however, whether the "Monster 25 Drinks" consumed were among the varieties involved in the 26 instant action because Plaintiffs' use of the term 27 "Monster Drinks" is confusing and inconsistent in SAC 28 paragraph 25. Plaintiff Cross also alleges that after drinking two Monster Energy Absolutely Zero drinks, he was hospitalized and underwent surgery for a bleeding blood vessel in his brain. (SAC ¶ 10.) Since Monster Energy Absolutely Zero is a variety of drink not included in this action, Plaintiff Cross does not have standing based on this injury.

1 567 F.3d 1120, 1125 (9th Cir. 2009). To meet the 2 particularity requirement, Plaintiffs must allege 3 adequately, "the who, what, when, where and how" of the 4 purportedly misleading statements. Vess, 317 F.3d at 5 1106. "[A] plaintiff must set forth more than the 6 neutral facts necessary to identify the transaction. The 7 plaintiff must set forth what is false or misleading 8 about a statement, and why it is false." Decker v.
9 GlenFed, Inc. (In re GlenFed, Inc. Sec. Litig.), 42 F.3d
10 1541, 1548 (9th Cir. 1994).

12 1. Plaintiff Fisher

13 Plaintiff Fisher does not allege he was exposed to or 14 relied on any specific misrepresentations by Monster.
15 Fisher alleges he was exposed to Monster's marketing 16 strategy, part of Plaintiffs' "off-label" claims, when he 17 received a free Monster Drink at his high school when he 18 was sixteen, and that Monster employees were not asking 19 people their ages before dispensing Monster Drinks. (SAC 20 ¶ 23.) Fisher does not allege what was false or 21 misleading about this transaction, except to state that 22 he "had no reason to believe that Monster Drinks were not 23 safe or posed health risks." (Id.) This is not 24 sufficient to support a fraud claim. Accordingly, all 25 claims by Plaintiff Fisher are DISMISSED for lack of 26 particularity under Rule 9(b).

1           2. Plaintiff Townsend

2                   i. Original Monster

3           Plaintiff Townsend alleges purchasing an Original 4 Monster drink in early June 2007 in a vitamin store, and 5 subsequently purchasing multi-packs of "Monster Drinks", 6 which as defined by Plaintiffs includes Original Monster 7 and Rehab Varieties, "frequently" (SAC ¶ 25(a).) In the 8 SAC, Townsend seems to allege he read and relied on the 9 Consume Responsibly Statement on the Original Monster and 10 Rehab Varieties (Id.) In their Opposition, however, 11 Plaintiffs explicitly limit the "on-label" 12 misrepresentations at issue to three statements, which do 13 not include the Consume Responsibly Statement. (Opp'n.
14 at 5, 13.) Following Plaintiffs' interpretation of their 15 Complaint, the Court finds Plaintiff Townsend has not 16 alleged a specific misrepresentation in relation to 17 Original Monster, and therefore fails to meet the Rule 18 9(b) particularity requirements in relation to the 19 Original Monster drink.

20 21                   ii. Rehab Varieties

22           Plaintiff Townsend fails to plead with particularity 23 his claims concerning Rehab Varieties. The SAC does not 24 allege when, during a six-year period of time, Townsend 25 actually purchased a Rehab Variety drink, read the 26 Hydrates Like a Sports Drink Statement, and relied on the 27 statement in making the purchase. The SAC merely alleges 28

1 that since 2007 he "frequently" purchased multi-packs of 2 "Monster Drinks", and that "Monster Drinks" is defined to 3 include all the Rehab Varieties. (SAC ¶ 24(a).) 4 Townsend also does not allege what was false or 5 misleading about the Hydrates Like a Sports Drink 6 Statement. (SAC ¶ 25.)

8 Plaintiffs argue that other Courts have found that 9 alleging the product was purchased in a specific state 10 during a specific time period is sufficient to answer the 11 questions of "when and where" and put Defendants on 12 notice of the allegations. See Jones v. ConAgra Foods, 13 Inc., 912 F. Supp. 2d 889, 902 (N.D. Cal. 2012)
14 ("Plaintiffs' allegations that they bought the products 15 in California since April 2008 are sufficient to put 16 Defendant on notice of the claims against it."); Peviani
17 v. Natural Balance, Inc., 774 F. Supp. 2d 1066, 1071 18 (S.D. Cal. 2011) (Particularity requirement satisfied 19 where Plaintiff pleaded the year and vendor where product 20 was purchased).

22 Another Court in this District found that a similar 23 pleading was not sufficient to meet the particularity 24 requirements under FRCP 9. See Yumul v. Smart Balance, 25 Inc., 733 F. Supp. 2d 1117, 1124 (C.D. Cal. 2010) (Claim 26 dismissed when Plaintiff alleged purchasing the product 27 "repeatedly" throughout the class period but gave no 28

1 additional specifics and did not specify which retailers
2 the product was purchased from); see also Edmunson v.
3 Procter & Gamble Co., 2011 WL 1897625 (S.D. Cal. May 17, 4 2011) (Plaintiff did not allege when during the class 5 period, where, how many, or how many times he purchased 6 the product at issue or was exposed to the alleged 7 misrepresentations).

9       Assuming that Townsend's allegations that he 10 purchased the product within California since June 2007 11 is sufficient to meet the "when and where" requirements 12 and put Defendants on notice as to the claims, Plaintiff 13 Townsend still does not satisfy the Rule 9b particularity 14 requirements. Townsend has not alleged with enough 15 particularity when the Rehab Variety drinks were 16 purchased because in March 2013 Defendants changed the 17 label on Monster Rehab varieties to remove the Hydrates 18 Like a Sports Drink Statement that Plaintiff relied on.
19 See Jones, 912 F. Supp. 2d at 903 (since Defendants 20 recently changed the label, it is "necessary to know more 21 specifically when Plaintiffs purchased" the products).
22 It should also be noted that the period of time alleged 23 in the SAC is longer than the class period, which is 24 December 12, 2008 to the present, so it is possible that 25 while Plaintiff Townsend may have purchased Rehab 26 Varieties between 2007 to 2008, he did not actually 27 purchase a Rehab Variety drink during the class period.

28

1 Plaintiff Townsend's claims related to the Rehab
2 Varieties as DISMISSED for failure to comply with Rule 3 9(b).

5 3. Plaintiff Cross

6 Plaintiff Cross fails to plead with particularity his 7 claims related to Original Monster and the Rehab 8 Varieties. Cross does not allege relying on any 9 misrepresentations in relation to the purchase of the 10 Rehab Varieties, and accordingly has failed to plead with 11 sufficient particularity any claims related to the Rehab 12 Varieties.<sup>12</sup>

14 With respect to the Original Monster drink, Plaintiff 15 Cross alleges that the misrepresentation he relied on was 16 the Ideal Combo Statement. Plaintiff Cross believed this 17 statement meant the drinks "would safely provide energy 18 without exposing him to health risks." (SAC ¶ 25(a).) 19 Assuming Plaintiff Cross meets the Rule 9(b) 20 particularity requirements, this claim would be dismissed 21 under the plausibility standards of Rule 8. In order for 22 a statement to be a misrepresentation under CLRA, FAL, 23 and UCL, it must be likely to deceive a reasonable

<sup>12</sup>As with Plaintiff Townsend, the SAC again appears 25 to allege that Plaintiff Cross relied on the Consume 26 Responsibly Statement on both the original Monster Energy 27 and the Monster Rehab varieties (see SAC ¶ 25(a)), but in 28 light of Plaintiffs' arguments in their Opposition, the Court has not analyzed this statement as a misrepresentation.

1 consumer. See Williams v. Gerber Products Co., 552 F.3d
2 934, 938 (9th Cir. 2008); Freeman v. Time, Inc., 68 F.3d 3 285, 289 (9th Cir. 1995). Here, it is not plausible that 4 a reasonable consumer would understand the Ideal Combo 5 Statement to constitute a representation of safety.
6 Accordingly, Plaintiff Cross's claims are DISMISSED for 7 failure to comply with Rule 8.

9 4. "Off-label" Claims

10 Plaintiffs' "off-label" claims in relation to 11 Monster's marketing and advertising strategy are not 12 plead with particularity. Plaintiffs, relying on In re 13 Tobacco II Cases, 46 Cal.4th 298, 306 (2009), argue they 14 may base their UCL, FAL, and CLRA claims on Monsters' 15 prolonged marketing and advertising campaign even if the 16 Plaintiffs do not identify specific advertisements or 17 statements. (Opp'n. at 14.) The decision in In re 18 Tobacco was "predicated on Plaintiff's exposure to an 19 'extensive and long-term advertising campaign.'" Bronson 20 v. Johnson & Johnson, Inc., 2013 WL 1629191, *1, 3 (N.D.
21 Cal. Apr. 16, 2013). In the SAC Plaintiffs have not 22 alleged a similarly extensive and lengthy advertising 23 campaign, and even if they had, the existence of a 24 prolonged marketing and advertising strategy does not 25 relieve Plaintiffs of the need to allege exposure to the 26 marketing strategy and particular misrepresentations 27 relied upon. See id.; Kearns v. Ford Motor Co., 567 F.3d

1 1120, 1126 (9th Cir. 2009) (failed to allege particular 2 circumstances surrounding allegedly fraudulent marketing 3 materials); In re WellPoint, Inc. Out-of-Network UCR 4 Rates Litig., 903 F. Supp. 2d 880, 926 (C.D. Cal. 2012);
5 In re Ferrero Litig., 794 F. Supp. 2d 1107, 1112 (S.D.
6 Cal. 2011) (failed to allege exposure to marketing 7 materials); see also Comm. On Children's Television, Inc.
8 v. Gen. Foods Corp., 35 Cal. 3d 197, 219 (1983)
9 ("Plaintiffs should be able to base their cause of action 10 upon an allegation that they acted in response to an 11 advertising campaign even if they cannot recall the 12 specific advertisements.").

14 In regard to actual exposure to Defendants' marketing 15 strategy, the SAC merely alleges that Plaintiff Fisher 16 received a free "Monster Drink" from a truck parked 17 outside his high school, but as stated earlier, does not 18 allege what was false or misleading about this 19 transaction, as required under Rule 9(b).

21 Although the Court finds that Plaintiffs' SAC is 22 subject to dismissal on a number of other grounds, as set 23 forth below, the Court finds the SAC should be DISMISSED 24 on the additional ground that the allegations fail to 25 meet Rule 9(b)'s specificity requirement.

28

1 C. Failure to State a Claim

2 Monster argues Plaintiffs' UCL, FAL, CLRA and breach 3 of express and implied warranty claims fail as a matter 4 of law because Plaintiffs have not alleged reliance or a 5 duty to disclose and Plaintiffs' affirmative 6 misrepresentations claims involve non-actionable 7 "puffery."<sup>13</sup> (Mot. at 19.)

9 1. UCL, FAL, and CLRA Claims

10 The UCL prohibits "any unlawful, unfair or fraudulent 11 business act or practice and unfair, deceptive, untrue or 12 misleading advertising . . . ." Cal. Bus & Prof. Code § 13 17200. "An act can be alleged to violate any or all of 14 the three prongs of the UCL -- unlawful, unfair, or 15 fraudulent." Berryman v. Merit Prop. Mgmt., Inc., 152 16 Cal. App. 4th 1544, 1554 (2007). "To support a claim for 17 a violation of the UCL, a plaintiff cannot simply rely on 18 general common law principles." Textron Fin. Corp. v.
19 Nat'l Union Fire Ins. Co. of Pittsburgh, 118 Cal. App.
20 4th 1061, 1072 (2004).

23 _____
24 <sup>13</sup>Monster also argues Plaintiffs' UCL, FAL, and CLRA
25 claims fail as a matter of law because Monster's 26 compliance with FDCA regulations provides a "safe harbor" 27 under Cel-Tech Commc'ns Inc. v. Los Angeles Cellular Tel.
28 Co., 20 Cal. 4th 163, 182 (1999) for the conduct at issue. (Mot. at 19.) As the Court finds Plaintiffs' claims are dismissed on multiple other grounds, it is not necessary to address Monster's Cel-Tech safe harbor argument.

1 The FAL prohibits the dissemination of false or 2 misleading statements in connection with advertising.
3 Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500. "Section 17500 has been 4 broadly construed to proscribe 'not only advertising 5 which is false, but also advertising which[,] although 6 true, is either actually misleading or which has a 7 capacity, likelihood or tendency to deceive or confuse 8 the public.'" Colgan v. Leatherman Tool Group, Inc., 135 9 Cal. App. 4th 663, 679 (2006).

11 The CLRA makes illegal various "unfair methods of 12 competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices 13 undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to 14 result or which results in the sale or lease of goods or 15 services to any consumer." Cal. Civ. Code § 1770(a).
16 Conduct that is "likely to mislead a reasonable consumer" 17 violates the CLRA. Colgan, 135 Cal. App. 4th at 680.

19 Claims under the UCL, FAL, and CLRA are governed by 20 the reasonable consumer test. Williams v. Gerber Prods.
21 Co., 552 F.3d 934, 938 (9th Cir. 2008) (citations 22 omitted). Under this test, the plaintiff must show that 23 members of the public are likely to be deceived. Id.
24 However, for a statement to be actionable, there is no 25 requirement that the statement be false –these laws also 26 prohibit "advertising which, although true, is either 27 actually misleading or which has a capacity, likelihood 28

1 or tendency to deceive or confuse the public." Id.
2 (citation and alteration omitted). Under California law, 3 "whether a business practice is deceptive will usually be 4 a question of fact not appropriate for decision" on a 5 motion to dismiss, and it is a "rare situation" where 6 granting a motion to dismiss a false advertising claim is 7 appropriate. Id. (citations omitted)

9 Plaintiffs' claims sound in fraud. When claims under 10 the UCL, FAL, or CLRA sound in fraud, "plaintiffs are 11 required to prove actual reliance on the allegedly 12 deceptive or misleading statements, and that the 13 misrepresentation was an immediate cause of the injury-14 producing conduct." Sateriale v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco 15 Co., 697 F.3d 777, 793-94 (9th Cir. 2012); Low v.
16 LinkedIn Corp., 900 F. Supp. 2d 1010, 1026 (N.D. Cal.
17 2012). "For fraud-based claims under all three consumer 18 statutes the named Class members must allege actual 19 reliance to have standing." In re Sony Gaming Networks 20 and Customer Data Security Breach Lit., 903 F. Supp. 2d 21 942, 969 (S.D. Cal. 2012).

23 Plaintiffs allege three specific "on-label" 24 misrepresentations: (1) Hydrates Like A Sports Drink 25 Statement, (2) Re-hydrate Statement, and (3) Ideal Combo 26 Statement. The Court previously held that the Hydrates 27 Like a Sports Drink Statement and Ideal Combo Statement 28

1 are non-actionable "puffery" and accordingly fail to 2 support claims under the UCL, FAL, and CLRA.<sup>14</sup> (MTD I 3 Order at 21.)

5 Non-actionable puffery includes statements that are 6 "either vague or highly subjective" as opposed to 7 "specific, detailed factual assertions." Newcal Indus., 8 Inc. v. Ikon Office Solution, 513 F.3d 1038, 1053 (9th 9 Cir. 2008) ("a statement that is quantifiable, that makes 10 a claim as to the "specific or absolute characteristics 11 of a product," may be an actionable statement of fact 12 while a general, subjective claim about a product is non-13 actionable puffery.")

15 Plaintiffs argued in their Opposition and at the 16 hearing that the Hydrates Like a Sports Drink and the Re-17 hydrate Statements (together, "Hydration Statements") are 18 <sup>14</sup>Plaintiffs argue that even if the statements are 19 non-actionable puffery on their own, the statements must 20 be considered as part of the Monster Drink packaging as a 21 whole. (Opp'n. at 20.) Plaintiffs fail to allege what 22 specific statements or elements of the Original Monster 23 and Rehab Varieties labels and packaging, when considered 24 together as a whole, constitute an actionable 25 misrepresentation. See Williams, 552 F.3d at 939 n.3 26 (Statement that snacks are "nutritious" could, standing 27 on its own, constitute puffery, but statement not 28 dismissed as puffery because it "contributes to the deceptive packaging as a whole."); Henderson v. J.M.

Smucker Co., 2011 WL 1050637, *1, 4 (C.D. Cal. Mar. 17, 2011) ("even if certain statements would be non-actionable on their own, where there are multiple statements at issue, we must consider the packaging as a whole."). The Court is not convinced, based on the on-label misrepresentations alleged, that the statements considered together as a whole amount to an actionable misrepresentation.

1 false and misleading statements. Plaintiffs argue these 2 statements are not puffery because they are quantifiable 3 and describe absolute and specific qualities. See 4 Newcal, 513 F.3d at 1053. Plaintiffs argue that these 5 are specific statements, "designed to induce consumers" 6 to rely on the statement and "choose Monster Drinks over 7 other sports drinks."<sup>15</sup> (Opp'n. at 20.) Therefore, 8 Plaintiffs argue the Hydration Statements are not 9 puffery, because puffery is a statement that is 10 "extremely unlikely to induce consumer reliance."
11 Newcal, 513 F.3d at 1053.

13 Defendants argue that the statements are too vague 14 and indeterminate. (Reply at 11 n. 18.) Defendants 15 argue the term "like" is "so vague and indeterminate that 16 it will be understood as a mere expression of opinion."
17 (Reply at 11 n. 8); see Baltazar v. Apple, Inc., 2011 WL 18 3795013, at *4-6 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 26, 2011) (claim that 19 iPad is "just like a book" is mere puffery). Finally, 20 Defendants argue that "sports drink" is an undefined term 21 that is "used by industry and has not been defined by the 22 agency [the FDA]." (Reply at 11 n. 18.) To claim 23 something is "like a sports drink" is too vague and 24 indeterminate to be a misrepresentation.

25

26 <sup>15</sup>Plaintiffs have not alleged any facts supporting 27 the claim that Plaintiffs chose Rehab Varieties over 28 other sports drinks.

1 The Court finds that both the "Hydrates Like a Sports 2 Drink" and "Rehydrate" statements are non-actionable 3 puffery.<sup>16</sup> The concept of "re-hydration" or "hydration" 4 is difficult to measure concretely, and has no 5 discernable meaning in the context of energy drinks or 6 beverages See Viggiano v. Hansen Natural Corp., 2013 WL
7 2005430, *1, 10 (C.D. Cal. May 13, 2013) ("premium soda" 8 mere puffery because it has no concrete, discernable 9 meaning). Both Hydration Statements are "vague", 10 "subjective", and unlikely to induce consumer reliance.
11 Accordingly all of Plaintiffs "on-label" claims under the 12 UCL, FAL, CLRA are dismissed as non-actionable puffery.

14 Plaintiffs have also failed to allege actual reliance 15 on the alleged Re-hydration Statement, as well as all of 16 the "off-Label" claims regarding Monster's marketing and

19 <sup>16</sup>Plaintiffs argue for the first time in their 20 Opposition that the statements related to hydration 21 (Hydrates Like a Sports Drink and Re-hydrate) are 22 nutrient content and structure/function claims. This 23 argument should have been made in the SAC. In addition, 24 this argument fails on the merits. A nutrient claim 25 requires Monster to make a claim about a level of 26 nutrient in the product. For example, "Healthy" has been 27 found by FDA regulations to constitute an "implied 28 nutrient content claim" because it characterizes the level of nutrients in a product. See Chacanaca v. Quaker Oats Co., 752 F. Supp. 2d 1111, 1117 (N.D. Cal. 2010).
"Hydrates like a Sports Drink" or "Re-hydrate" cannot, at this time, be similarly linked to a characterization of nutrients in a product. In addition, the hydration statements are not structure or function claims because they do not claim that a specific nutrient in the drink hydrates or re-hydrates.

1 advertising strategy.<sup>17</sup> Accordingly, Plaintiffs' claims 2 under the UCL, FAL, and CLRA are DISMISSED for failure to 3 state a claim.

5 2. Breach of Express and Implied Warranty

6 Defendants argue that none of the "on-label" 7 misrepresentations constitute "warranties" and Plaintiffs 8 fail to state a claim for breach of express or implied 9 warranty.

11 Under California law, an express warranty is created 12 by "[a]ny affirmation of fact or promise made by the 13 seller to the buyer which relates to the goods and 14 becomes part of the basis of the bargain . . . ." Cal.
15 Comm. Code § 2313(1)(a). "Statements that are puffery 16 are not actionable under a theory of breach of express 17 warranty." In re Clorox Consumer Litig., 894 F. Supp. 2d 18 1224, 1235 (N.D. Cal. 2012). The Court has found that 19 all three specific misrepresentations the Plaintiffs 20 identify are non-actionable puffery, and accordingly 21 Plaintiffs' breach of warranty claims are DISMISSED for

25

---

26 <sup>17</sup>To the extent Plaintiff Fisher was exposed to 27 Monster's marketing campaign when he received a free 28 Monster Drink at his high school, the Court has dismissed this claim for failure to comply with Rule 9(b) and failure to state a claim.

28

1           Generally, an implied warranty of merchantability
2 ("IWM") accompanies every retail sale of consumer goods
3 in the state. Cal. Civ. Code § 1792. An IWM guarantees
4 that "consumer goods meet each of the following: (1) Pass 5 without objection in the trade under the contract 6 description; (2) Are fit for the ordinary purposes for 7 which such goods are used; (3) Are adequately contained, 8 packaged, and labeled; (4) Conform to the promises or 9 affirmations of fact made on the container or label."
10 Cal. Civ. Code § 1791.1(a).

12           Plaintiffs argue Monster Original and the Rehab 13 Varieties do not conform to the "container's promises or 14 affirmations." (Opp'n. at 23.) This argument is based 15 on the same three misrepresentations discussed above in 16 relation to the express warranty claim. As stated above, 17 these statements are non-actionable puffery and 18 Plaintiffs' breach of implied warranty claims are 19 DISMISSED for failure to state a claim.

21 D. Preemption

22           Monster argues Plaintiffs' claims should be dismissed 23 because Plaintiffs' claims are expressly preempted, 24 impliedly preempted, and subject to the FDA's primary 25 jurisdiction. (Mot. at 13-19.) Specifically, Monster 26 argues that the Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act ("FDCA") and 27 the Nutrition Labeling and Education Act ("NLEA"), and 28

1 their implementing regulations, detail the federal 2 provisions prohibiting "misbranding" of food and grant 3 the FDA exclusive authority to ensure that foods are 4 properly labeled. (See Mot. at 12.) Plaintiffs argue 5 that their claims are not preempted because the "off-6 label" claims are in a field, marketing and advertising<sup>18</sup>, 7 that is not subject to federal preemption, and their on-8 label claims<sup>19</sup> are merely enforcing state labeling 9 requirements that are identical to federal counterparts.
10 (Opp'n. at 3.)

11

12 The Supremacy Clause of the United States 13 Constitution empowers Congress to enact legislation that 14 preempts state law. See Gibson v. Ogden, 22 U.S. 1, 82
15 (1824); Law v. General Motors Corp., 114 F.3d 909, 909 16 (9th Cir. 1997). "Federal preemption occurs when: (1)

18 <sup>18</sup>The Court does not address preemption of the "off-19 label" claims by the Federal Trade Commission as they are 20 already dismissed based on the Plaintiffs failure to 21 allege Article III standing and comply with Rule 9(b) in regard to these "off-label" claims. The Court notes that to the extent the "off-label" claims are failure to warn or inadequate warning claims they are expressly preempted and subject to the FDA's primary jurisdiction.

23 <sup>19</sup>The Court does not address preemption or the FDA's 24 primary jurisdiction of the UCL, FAL, and CLRA "on-label" 25 claims related to the Hydrates Like a Sports Drink 26 Statement and Re-hydrate Statement because those claims 27 are subject to dismissal on other grounds. Claims related to the Hydrates Like a Sports Drink Statement are dismissed for failure to meet the Rule 9(b) particularity requirements and failure to state a claim. Claims related to the Re-hydrate Statement are dismissed for lack of standing, failure to meet the Rule 9(b) particularity requirements, and failure to state a claim.

28

1 Congress enacts a statute that explicitly preempts state 2 law; (2) state law actually conflicts with federal law; 3 or (3) federal law occupies a legislative field to such 4 an extent that it is reasonable to conclude that Congress
5 left no room for state regulation in that field." Chae 6 v. SLM Corp., 593 F.3d 936, 941 (9th Cir. 2010).

8 There is a presumption against preemption of state
9 laws. See Medtronic, Inc. v. Lohr, 518 U.S. 470, 485 10 (1996) ("we 'start with the assumption that the historic 11 police powers of the States were not to be superseded by 12 the Federal Act unless that was the clear and manifest 13 purpose of Congress'"); In re Farm Raised Salmon Cases, 14 42 Cal. 4th 1077, 1088 (2008) (noting that consumer 15 protection laws such as the UCL, FAL, and CLRA are within 16 the states' historic police powers and therefore subject 17 to the presumption against preemption).

19 The FDCA empowers the FDA (a) to protect public 20 health by ensuring that "foods are safe, wholesome, 21 sanitary, and properly labeled," 21 U.S.C. § 22 393(b)(2)(A); (b) to promulgate regulations implementing 23 the statute; and (c) to enforce its regulations through 24 administrative procedures. See 21 C.F.R. § 7.1, et seq.
25 The FDCA deems a food "misbranded" if its labeling is 26 "false or misleading in any particular." 21 U.S.C. § 27 343(a).

28

1 Congress amended the FDCA by enacting the NLEA "to 2 'clarify and to strengthen the Food and Drug 3 Administration's legal authority to require nutrition 4 labeling on foods, and to establish the circumstances 5 under which claims may be made about the nutrients in 6 foods.'" Nutritional Health Alliance v. Shalala, 144 7 F.3d 220, 223 (2d Cir. 1998) (citing H.R. Rep. No. 101-8 538, at 7 (1990)).

10 1. Express Preemption

11 Monster argues Plaintiffs' claims are expressly 12 preempted because they seek to impose labeling and 13 warning requirements "not identical" to what the FDA has 14 mandated. (Mot. at 12.) The NLEA added an express 15 preemption provision to the FDCA, prohibiting a state 16 from "directly or indirectly establish[ing]" requirements 17 for food or any labeling requirements for food that are 18 not identical to certain requirements set forth in 21
19 U.S.C. § 343. See 21 U.S.C. § 343-1(a). 21 U.S.C. § 343
20 sets forth when a food is deemed misbranded.

21

22 The NLEA preemption provision does not preempt state 23 laws on the same subject; rather, "it allow[s] States to 24 adopt requirements identical to the federal standards, 25 which could then be enforced under state law." Kosta, 26 2013 WL 2147413, at *6. Therefore, preemption only 27 occurs when a state law claim requires a party to go

28

1 beyond the FDA regulations by, for example, "includ[ing]
2 additional or different information on a federally 3 approved label . . . ." Kanter v. Warner-Lambert Co., 99 4 Cal. App. 4th 780, 795 (2002); Chacanaca v. Quaker Oats
5 Co., 752 F. Supp. 2d 1111, 1121-23 (N.D. Cal. 2010) (UCL
6 and other state law claims that sought to impose labeling 7 requirements not identical to FDA regulations were 8 expressly preempted); see also Kosta, 2013 WL 2147413, at 9 *7. A state law claim imposes a "not identical" 10 requirement if:

11
12 the State requirement directly or indirectly imposes 13 obligations or contains provisions concerning the 14 composition or labeling of food, or concerning a food 15 container, that (i) Are not imposed by or contained 16 in the applicable provision [or regulation] or (ii) 17 Differ from those specifically imposed by or 18 contained in the applicable provision [or 19 regulation].

20 21 C.F.R. § 100.1(c)(4).
21

22 As the Court previously found, Plaintiffs' consumer 23 protection claims based on inadequate labeling regarding 24 the amount of caffeine or the failure to warn are 25 preempted because they seek requirements beyond what is 26 imposed by the FDA. (See MTD I Order at 15-17.)
27 Although Plaintiffs claim to have removed all claims 28

1 regarding caffeine content (Opp'n. at 5), Defendants 2 rightly point out that there remain many allegations 3 "attacking Monster's warning labels or lack there of."
4 (Reply at 7; Mot. at 13-15 (citing SAC ¶¶ 7, 8, 23, 45.)
5 For example, Plaintiffs allege the Ideal Combo statement 6 is false and misleading because of the omission of 7 material facts regarding potential health risks. (SAC ¶ 8 41.) Accordingly, the Ideal Combo Statement claim, 9 although also subject to dismissal on other grounds, is 10 preempted and DISMISSED because it is in essence a 11 failure to warn claim.
12

13 In addition, although unclear what Plaintiffs' 14 allegations are in relation to the Consume Responsibly 15 Statement, to the extent Plaintiffs claim the statement 16 is a specific misrepresentation and fails to warn of the 17 dangers of caffeine, or inadequately labels the drinks in 18 regard to caffeine content, these claims are preempted 19 and DISMISSED.
20

21 2. Implied Preemption

22 Monster argues Plaintiffs' claims are impliedly
23 preempted because they indirectly seek to enforce FDA 24 regulations through state consumer protection statutes.
25 (Mot. at 14-15.) Defendants argue this is preempted 26 because there is no private right of action to enforce 27 the FDCA. (Id. (relying on POM Wonderful LLC v. Coca-28

1 Cola Co., 679 F.3d 1170, 1175 (9th Cir. 2010)). As noted 2 in the MTD I Order, the Court is not persuaded by 3 Defendants' argument that POM Wonderful prohibits 4 lawsuits that indirectly bring claims to enforce alleged 5 FDA violations. (MTD I Order at 14.) The POM Wonderful 6 Court limited the ruling to the federal Lanham Act, and 7 declined to address whether plaintiff's state law claims 8 were preempted. POM Wonderful, 679 F.3d at 1179; see 9 also Brazil v. Dole Food Co., Inc., 2013 WL 1209955, at 10 *7 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 25, 2013); Kosta v. Del Monte, 2013 WL
11 2147413 (N.D. Cal. May 15, 2013). Defendants have not 12 demonstrated that Plaintiffs' claims are impliedly 13 preempted.

14

15 3. Primary Jurisdiction Doctrine

16 "The primary jurisdiction doctrine allows courts to 17 stay proceedings or to dismiss a complaint without 18 prejudice pending the resolution of an issue within the 19 special competence of an administrative agency . . . and 20 is to be used only if a claim involves an issue of first 21 impression or a particularly complicated issue Congress 22 has committed to a regulatory agency." Clark v. Time 23 Warner Cable, 523 F.3d 1110, 1114 (9th Cir. 2008). A 24 court traditionally weighs four factors in deciding 25 whether to apply the primary jurisdiction doctrine: "(1) 26 the need to resolve an issue that (2) has been placed by 27 Congress within the jurisdiction of an administrative

28

1 body having regulatory authority (3) pursuant to a 2 statute that subjects an industry or activity to a 3 comprehensive regulatory authority that (4) requires 4 expertise or uniformity in administration." Syntek 5 Semiconductor Co. v. Microchip Tech., Inc., 307 F.3d 775, 6 781 (9th Cir. 2002).

8 "[T]he doctrine is a 'prudential' one, under which a 9 court determines that an otherwise cognizable claim 10 implicates technical and policy questions that should be 11 addressed in the first instance by the agency with 12 regulatory authority over the relevant industry rather 13 than by the judicial branch." Clark, 523 F.3d at 1114.
14 "Normally, if the court concludes that the dispute which 15 forms the basis of the action is within the agency's 16 primary jurisdiction, the case should be dismissed 17 without prejudice so that the parties may pursue their 18 administrative remedies." Syntek, 307 F.3d at 782; 19 Astiana v. Hain Celestial Group., Inc., 905 F. Supp. 2d 20 1013, 1015-16 (N.D. Cal. 2012) (dismissing claims where 21 the absence of FDA rules or policy statements would 22 require court to make an independent determination that 23 would "risk undercutting the FDA's expert judgments and 24 authority").

26 Monster argues the primary jurisdiction doctrine 27 applies because Congress has vested the FDA with 28

1 jurisdiction over issues involving food safety and 2 labeling, the FDA has specialized expertise in the 3 "technical and policy" questions involved here; the FDA's 4 expertise is necessary because this is an issue of first 5 impression; and the FDA has commenced a science-based 6 evaluation of the safety of caffeine-containing food 7 products, including energy drinks. (Mot. at 16-17.) The 8 Court finds that Monster has sufficiently alleged that 9 the FDA has primary jurisdiction because the agency has 10 special competence over the matters involving the "off-11 label claims", inadequate warnings, and failure to warn 12 issues in this case.

14 First, the matters at issue here have been placed by 15 Congress within the jurisdiction of the FDA pursuant to 16 statute and regulations that require the FDA's expertise.
17 The FDA has regulatory authority over food labeling. See 18 21 U.S.C. § 341, et seq. The FDCA establishes a uniform 19 federal scheme of food regulation to ensure that food is 20 labeled in a manner that does not mislead consumers. See 21 id. Food labeling enforcement is a matter that Congress 22 has indicated requires the FDA's expertise and uniformity 23 in administration.

24

25 Second, Plaintiffs' claims ultimately involve 26 "technical and policy claims" about the effects of 27 caffeine and whether Monster should be allowed to 28

1 advertise and label their products in a way that appeals
2 to a younger demographic. See Monster Beverage Corp. v.
3 Herrera, 2013 WL 4573959, *1, 15 (C.D. Cal. Aug. 22, 4 2013). To the extent that Plaintiffs have removed claims 5 about the caffeine content, Plaintiffs remaining claims 6 are still grounded in allegations about 7 misrepresentations about the effects of high levels of 8 caffeine in energy drinks and how these effects should be 9 explained to the public, and to youth in particular.
10 Plaintiffs allege the claims are about the conduct of a 11 single company (Opp'n. at 10), but throughout the SAC 12 Plaintiffs cite to studies examining the effects of 13 "energy drinks," demonstrating that issues raised in the 14 SAC affect an entire industry.<sup>20</sup>

15
16 Third, the FDA has taken an interest in investigating 17 and resolving whether energy drinks, including Monster, 18 contain unsafe levels of caffeine. (See Exs. 1-6 to 19 Mot.) Unlike cases cited by Plaintiffs where the FDA has 20 declined, despite repeated requests, to act, the FDA's 21 interest in regulating the safety of caffeine weighs in 22 favor of exercising the primary jurisdiction doctrine.
23 See Jones, 912 F. Supp. 2d at 898.

25 <sup>20</sup>See SAC ¶ 12 ("Energy Drinks: What Teenagers (and 26 Their Doctors) Should Know"); id. ¶ 36 (2009 Mayo Clinic 27 study on energy drinks); id. ¶ 38 (National Council on 28 Sports & Fitness "Youth and Energy Drinks"); id. ¶¶ 62-66 (Drug Abuse Warning Network (DAWN) reports related to energy drinks); Ex. C to SAC (Letter to FDA Commissioner Hamburg Re: The Use of Caffeine in Energy Drinks.)

1 The Court finds Plaintiffs' claims based on the Ideal 2 Combo Statement, the Consume Responsibly Statement, and 3 other allegations related to the failure to warn or 4 adequately label Monster Drinks in relation to caffeine 5 content, are preempted by the FDA under the Primary 6 Jurisdiction Doctrine. In finding these claims preempted 7 under the Primary Jurisdiction Doctrine, the Court notes 8 that these claims may be actionable in the future if the 9 FDA ceases their investigation and pending regulation of 10 the safety of caffeine in food products and energy 11 drinks. See Janney v. Mills, 2013 WL 1962360, *1, 7 12 (N.D. Cal. May 10, 2013) (holding that since the FDA 13 repeatedly declined to promulgate regulations governing 14 the use of "natural" as it applies to food products, the 15 FDA has signaled a relative lack of interest and referral 16 to the FDA would likely prove futile). Accordingly, 17 these claims are DISMISSED WITHOUT PREJUDICE.

19 E. MMWA Claim

20 Plaintiffs allege that Monster violated the MMWA.
21 Plaintiffs allege Monster's "written affirmations of 22 fact, promises and/or descriptions [] are each a 'written 23 warranty' and/or there exists an implied warranty for the 24 sale of [the Monster Drinks] within the meaning of the 25 MMWA, i.e., that they are safe for consumption." (SAC ¶ 26 144.)

27

28

1 To succeed on a claim under the MMWA, a plaintiff 2 must plead successfully a breach of state warranty law.
3 See Birdsong v. Apple, Inc., 590 F.3d 955, 958 n. 2
4 (2009). Since Plaintiffs have failed to state a claim
5 for breach of an express or implied warranty, their MMWA 6 claim is properly DISMISSED. Id.

8 F. Unjust Enrichment

9 Monster argues that Plaintiffs' Unjust Enrichment 10 Claim should be dismissed because it is not an 11 independent cause of action. (Mot. at 25.) Plaintiffs 12 argue they are entitled to plead the claim in the 13 alternative, based on a quasi-contract theory. (Opp'n.

15
16 "[A] claim for unjust enrichment cannot stand alone 17 without a cognizable claim under a quasi-contractual 18 theory or some other form of misconduct." Berenblat v.
19 Apple, Inc., 2009 WL 2591366, at *6 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 21, 20 2009). Plaintiffs have not alleged any quasi-contractual 21 theory. Plaintiffs' other claims have been dismissed, as 22 well. Accordingly, since it cannot stand alone, the 23 Court DISMISSES the Unjust Enrichment Claim.

24
25 G. Fed. R. Civ. P. 8

26 Monster argues that Plaintiffs' SAC should be 27 dismissed because it fails to satisfy FRCP 8. (Mot. at 28

1 4-5.) FRCP 8 requires "a short and plain statement of 2 the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to 3 relief." Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a)(1). "[A] district court 4 has the discretion to dismiss a prolix complaint that 5 fails to comply with the requirements of Rule 8, 6 notwithstanding the existence of a viable cause of 7 action." Bravo v. L.A. County, 2008 WL 4614298,*1, 2 8 (C.D. Cal. Oct. 10, 2008).

10 In the Order dismissing the FAC, the Court noted that 11 many of the allegations in the FAC are unnecessary and 12 irrelevant, and provided a list of examples. (MTD I 13 Order at 24 n. 8.) Surprisingly, many of the facts 14 specifically noted by the Court as irrelevant and 15 unnecessary were present in the SAC.<sup>21</sup> The Court again 16 reiterates that almost all of the information in the SAC 17 related to the advertising and marketing strategy of 18 Monster is irrelevant, as none of the Plaintiffs have 19 alleged any exposure to Monster's marketing, aside from 20 reading can labels. Although Plaintiffs' claims are 21 dismissed on other grounds, the Court notes Plaintiffs' 22 failure to comply with Rule 8.

24 <sup>21</sup>See e.g. MTD I Order at 24 n.8 and compare to: SAC ¶ 25 11 ("Joe Camel always seems to be on the move. . . or 26 just hanging out with other hip young camels."; id. ¶ 55

28 banned Joe Camel promotional advertising..."); id. ¶ 53

is commonly known that MILF is an acronym for 'Mother/Mom

IV. CONCLUSION

For the reasons set forth above, the Court:

(1) DISMISSES Plaintiffs' UCL, FAL, and CLRA claims related to the Hydrates Like a Sports Drink Statement for failure to comply with Rule 9(b) and failure to state a claim for relief;

(2) DISMISSES Plaintiffs' UCL, FAL, and CLRA claims related to the Re-hydrate Statement for lack of standing, failure to comply with Rule 9(b), and failure to state a claim for relief;

(3) DISMISSES Plaintiffs' UCL, FAL, and CLRA claims related to the Ideal Combo Statement for failure to comply with Rule 8, failure to state a claim for relief and preemption;

(4) DISMISSES Plaintiffs' "off-label" UCL, FAL, and CLRA claims related to Monster's marketing and advertising campaign for lack of standing, failure to comply with Rule 9(b), failure to state a claim, and preemption to the extent they are based on claims Monster failed to warn or adequately label the Monster Drinks;

(5) DISMISSES Plaintiffs' claims for breach of express and implied warranty for failure to state a claim;

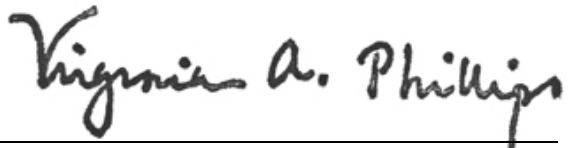

(6) DISMISSES Plaintiffs' MMWA claim for failure to state a claim;

(7) DISMISSES Plaintiffs' unjust enrichment claim for failure to state a claim.
