UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

ANA BELEN HAM,
Plaintiff,

v.

HAIN CELESTIAL GROUP, INC.,
Defendant.

Case No. 14-cv-02044-WHO

ORDER GRANTING IN PART AND DENYING IN PART MOTION TO DISMISS; GRANTING PARTIES'
REQUESTS FOR JUDICIAL NOTICE

Re: Dkt. Nos. 25, 29

INTRODUCTION

Defendant Hain Celestial Group Inc. manufactures Earth’s Best Organic Mini Waffles (the “Waffles”), which are identified as “All Natural” on their labels. Plaintiff Ana Belen Ham alleges that the Waffles are not, in fact, “All Natural” because they contain sodium acid pyrophosphate (“SAPP”), a synthetic substance, and sued Hain for violations of California consumer protection laws, fraud, breach of contract, breach of express warranty, and unjust enrichment.

Hain moves to dismiss Ham’s complaint. The papers repeat well-worn arguments from numerous similar cases, and I will apply the reasoning that has developed in the Northern District of California. Hain’s motion is GRANTED IN PART and DENIED IN PART. Ham’s breach of contract claim is dismissed because the parties lack privity, the unjust enrichment claim is dismissed because unjust enrichment is not an independent cause of action, and injunctive relief is not available. The motion is denied in all other respects because Ham has plausibly alleged that the “All Natural” label is misleading from the perspective of a reasonable consumer since the Waffles contain a synthetic substance.

BACKGROUND

Ham purchased two varieties of the Waffles: Blueberry and Homestyle. Compl. ¶¶ 3, 11 [Dkt. No. 1]. The Waffles are labeled organic and “All Natural.”¹ Compl. ¶¶ 3, 29, Ex. A. Ham alleges that the Waffles are, in fact, not “All Natural” because one of the ingredients is a nonorganic synthetic substance, SAPP.² Compl. ¶¶ 3, 29. The “‘All Natural’ labeling is central to [the Organic Waffle’s] marketing” and makes “maximum use of the available space on the [front of the Organic Waffle’s] packaging.”³ Compl. ¶¶ 32, 53. Ham saw the labeling each time she purchased the products and “would not have purchased and consumed the products had it not been for [Hain]’s misrepresentations.” Compl. ¶¶ 63, 65, 76.

Ham alleges causes of action for (i) violations of California’s deceptive advertising practices laws (“FAL”), Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17500, et seq.; (ii) violations of the Consumers Legal Remedies Act (“CLRA”), Cal. Civ. Code §§ 1750, et seq.; (iii) common law fraud; (iv) negligent misrepresentation; (v) breach of express warranty; (vi) breach of contract; (vii) violations of the California’s Unfair Competition Law (“UCL”), Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17200-17208; and (viii) quasi-contract/unjust enrichment. She seeks to represent two different classes: (i) residents of California “who, on or after May 2, 2010 purchased any of “The Hain Celestial Group

² SAPP is used a leavening agent in the Waffles, but it has a variety of industrial uses, including stabilizing hydrogen peroxide solutions against reduction, facilitating hair removal in hog slaughter, removing feathers from birds in poultry slaughter, removing iron from hides during leather processing, and producing petroleum. Compl. ¶ 28. The USDA allows manufacturers to use SAPP as a leavening agent in organic foods. 7 C.F.R. § 205.605.

³ SAPP is included in the ingredient label on the back of the package. Compl. ¶ 41.

1 Inc.'s 'Earth's Best' food products that were labeled 'All Natural' yet contained Sodium Acid
2 Pyrophosphate," and (ii) residents of the United States who purchased the same products.⁴ Compl.

3 ¶ 19. I heard argument on the motion to dismiss on September 17, 2014.

4 LEGAL STANDARD

5 A motion to dismiss under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6) is proper where the 6 pleadings fail to state a claim upon which relief can be granted. Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6). I must 7 "accept factual allegations in the complaint as true and construe the pleadings in the light most 8 favorable to the nonmoving party." Manzarek v. St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co., 519 F.3d 1025, 9 1031 (9th Cir. 2008). The complaint "does not need detailed factual allegations," rather must 10 plead enough factual allegations "to raise a right to relief above the speculative level." Bell Atl.
11 Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (2007).

12 Fraud claims are subject to an elevated pleading standard and must "be accompanied by 13 the who, what, when, where, and how of the misconduct charged." Vess v. Ciba-Geigy Corp.
14 USA, 317 F.3d 1097, 1103, 1106 (9th Cir. 2003) (quotation marks omitted). Such claims "must be 15 specific enough to give defendants notice of the particular misconduct which is alleged to 16 constitute the fraud charged so that they can defend against the charge and not just deny that they 17 have done anything wrong." Swartz v. KPMG LLP, 476 F.3d 756, 764 (9th Cir. 2007) (citation 18 omitted).

19 DISCUSSION

20 Hain argues that (i) the consumer protection and misrepresentation-based claims fail
21 because Ham does not allege why a reasonable consumer would not expect to find SAPP in the 22 Waffles; (ii) the fraud-based claims fail because Ham fails to plead them with particularity as 23 required by Rule 9(b); (iii) the breach of express warranty claim fails because the presence of

26
27 ⁴ All eight claims are brought on behalf of the California class, but Ham seeks to represent a 28 nationwide class only with respect to the third, fourth, sixth, and eighth causes of action.

1 SAPP does not breach the “All Natural” warranty; (iv) the breach of contract claim fails because 2 Ham does not have privity with Hain; (v) the unjust enrichment/quasi-contract claim fails because
 3 there is no independent cause of action for unjust enrichment; (vi) Ham lacks standing to request
 4 injunctive relief because she will not be deceived as to the presence of SAPP in the future; (vii)
 5 Ham lacks standing to challenge the advertising she did not personally see; and (viii) the case
 6 should be decided by the FDA because it has primary jurisdiction over food labeling issues. I will 7 address each argument in turn.

 9 I. A REASONABLE CONSUMER COULD BE DECEIVED BY THE WAFFLES’
 “ALL NATURAL” LABELING

10 Hain moves to dismiss Ham’s first, second, third, fourth, and seventh causes of action
 11 (violations of the CLRA, FAL, fraud, negligent misrepresentation, and UCL) on the grounds that 12 an “objective, reasonable consumer” would not be deceived by the “All Natural” label on the 13 Waffles.⁵ Mot. 6.

14 For claims arising under California’s UCL, FAL, and CLRA, the plaintiff must show that 15 reasonable consumers are likely to be deceived by the label. Williams v. Gerber Products Co.,
 16 552 F.3d 934, 938 (9th Cir. 2008). This standard also applies to common law fraud and negligent
 17 misrepresentation claims. Freeman v. Time, Inc., 68 F.3d 285, 289 (9th Cir. 1995) (common law 18 fraud claim requires showing that the advertisement would mislead a reasonable person); Girard v.
 19 Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A., Inc., 316 F.App’x 561, 562 (9th Cir. 2008) (equating “justifiable

 21
 23 ⁵ Those five claims all require a showing of deception or misrepresentation. The CLRA prohibits
 24 certain “unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices.” Cal. Civ. Code
 25 § 1770. The FAL makes it unlawful to make or disseminate any statement concerning property or 26 services that is “untrue or misleading. . .” Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500. Fraud requires: (1)
 27 misrepresentation, (2) knowledge of falsity, (3) intent to defraud, (4) justifiable reliance, and (5)
 28 resulting damage. See, e.g., Doe v. Gangland Prods., Inc., 730 F.3d 946, 960 (9th Cir. 2013).
 Negligent misrepresentation also requires misrepresentation and reliance. Platt Elec. Supply, Inc.
v. EOFF Elec., Inc., 522 F.3d 1049, 1055 (9th Cir. 2008). The UCL prohibits any “unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice.” Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200.

1 reliance” element of negligent misrepresentation to the “reasonable consumer” standard).

2 Whether a reasonable consumer would be deceived by a product label is generally a
3 question of fact not amenable to determination on a motion to dismiss. Id. However, in rare
4 situations a court may determine, as a matter of law, that the alleged violations of the UCL, FAL,
5 and CLRA are simply not plausible. See, e.g., Werbel ex rel. v. Pepsico, Inc., No. 09-cv-04456-
6 SBA, 2010 WL 2673860, at *3 (N.D. Cal. July 2, 2010) (a reasonable consumer would not be
7 deceived into believing that cereal named “Crunch Berries” derived significant nutritional value
8 from fruit).

9 Hain argues that the complaint should be dismissed because the term “All Natural” does 10 not have a fixed definition, thus a reasonable consumer would not be deceived by the presence of 11 SAPP.⁶ Mot. 7 (citing Pelayo v. Nestle USA, Inc., 989 F. Supp. 2d 973, 978 (C.D. Cal. 2013)
12 (granting motion to dismiss “All Natural” claims because definitions from Merriam Webster
13 Dictionary, the FDA, and the National Organic Program are neither objective nor plausible)). I 14 disagree. The question is not whether Ham provides a plausible definition of “All Natural,” but 15 whether a reasonable consumer would expect to find SAPP in Waffles that are labeled “All 16 Natural.” See e.g., Williams, 552 F.3d at 939 (“the statement that Fruit Juice Snacks was made
17 with ‘fruit juice and other All Natural ingredients’ could easily be interpreted by consumers as a 18 claim that all the ingredients in the product were natural, which appears to be false.”); Bohac v.
19 Gen. Mills, Inc., 12-cv-05280-WHO, 2014 WL 1266848, at *4 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 26, 2014) (denying 20 defendant’s motion to dismiss because consumers would not expect “All Natural” granola bars to 21 contain synthetic chemicals); Surzyn v. Diamond Foods, Inc., No. 14-cv-0136-SBA, 2014 WL
22 2212216, at *3 (N.D. Cal. May 28, 2014) (multiple definitions of “All Natural” is an insufficient
23 basis to dismiss a complaint); Garrison v. Whole Foods Mkt. Grp., Inc., No. 13-cv-05222-VC,

26
27 ⁶ Ham proposes that a reasonable consumer will define the term using the Merriam Webster
28 Dictionary as well as definitions from the FDA and USDA. Compl. ¶¶ 45-49.

1 2014 WL 2451290, at *3 (N.D. Cal. June 2, 2014) (denying motion to dismiss because a
2 reasonable consumer could be misled by “All Natural” products that contain SAPP).

3 Hain also contends that a reasonable consumer would expect some degree of processing,
4 such as the addition of a leavening agent like SAPP, because the Waffles do not literally “roam in 5 the wild or sprout naturally from trees.” Mot. 8, 10. This argument, while entertaining, is not
6 persuasive because it is plausible that a reasonable consumer would expect that an “All Natural”
7 product contains only natural ingredients, not that the product itself comes from nature.

8 Next, Hain asserts that SAPP is actually an “All Natural” ingredient, even though it is 9 synthetic, because a USDA regulation allows food manufacturers to include SAPP in products
10 which are labeled “organic.” See 7 C.F.R. § 205.605. Hain asserts that adding an organic
11 ingredient to an “All Natural” product does not mislead a reasonable consumer. Reply 4. Hain
12 might be correct that some consumers believe that organic is a higher standard than “All Natural,”
13 but that does not make it implausible that a reasonable consumer would believe that SAPP is not 14 an “all natural” ingredient.

15 Finally, Hain argues that consumers would not be misled by the “All Natural” label
16 because they can simply look at the ingredient list to determine whether it contains any synthetic 17 ingredients. However, a product label can be misleading even if the alleged misrepresentation is 18 corrected on the ingredient list. See, e.g., Williams, 552 F.3d at 939 (“We do not think that the 19 FDA requires an ingredient list so that manufacturers can mislead consumers and then rely on the 20 ingredient list to correct those misinterpretations and provide a shield for liability for the 21 deception”).

22 Ham’s argument is simple: a reasonable consumer would not expect to find SAPP in the 23
24
25
26
27
28

1 “All Natural” Waffles because SAPP is not a natural ingredient. This argument is plausible.⁷ See,
 2 e.g. Garrison v. Whole Foods Mkt. Grp., Inc., 13-CV-05222-VC, 2014 WL 2451290, at *7 (N.D.
 3 Cal. June 2, 2014) (denying motion to dismiss complaint because an “All Natural” product which 4 contained SAPP was potentially misleading).

 6 II. THE COMPLAINT PLEADS FRAUD WITH PARTICULARITY AS REQUIRED BY FEDERAL RULE OF CIVIL PROCEDURE 9(b)

7 The complaint satisfies Rule 9(b) because it adequately alleges (i) the who: Hain; (ii) the 8 what: “All Natural” labeling on Waffles containing SAPP, a synthetic ingredient (Compl. Ex. A);
 9 (iii) the when: purchases made between May 2012 and March 2014 (Compl. ¶ 11); (iv) the where:
 10 labels on the Waffles, copies of which are attached to the complaint (Compl. Ex. A); (v) and the 11 how: purchases made with reasonable reliance on the “All Natural” statement (Compl. ¶¶ 11-13).

12 Hain argues that the complaint is too vague because it does not list every single product
 13 which is allegedly mislabeled. Thomas v. Costco Wholesale Corp., No. 12-cv-02908-EJD, 2013
 14 WL 1435292, at *7 (N.D. Cal. April 9, 2013), which Hain cites, defined the products at issue as 15 any food products distributed or sold by Costco that fell into one of ten broad categories, such as 16 “labeled or advertised with an unauthorized health claim.” Id. In contrast, the products at issue
 17 here are Hain’s “food products that were labeled ‘All Natural,’ yet contained SAPP.” Compl. ¶
 18 19. Unlike Thomas, determining which products are at issue here does not present a challenge
 19 because the products all involve the same misrepresentation: food products labeled “All Natural”
 20 that contain SAPP. Hain can easily determine which products are at issue. The motion to dismiss
 23

24
 25 ⁷ The plausibility of Ham’s argument is reinforced by a warning letter the FDA sent to Alexia, a 26 non-party food producer, stating that their product’s “All Natural” label was misleading because 27 the product contained SAPP. Oppo. Ex. A. While not binding authority on this Court, the FDA
 28 warning letters are instructive. See Gitson v. Trader Joe’s Co, No. 13-cv-01333-WHO, 2013 WL
 5513711, at *10 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 4, 2013).

1 under Rule 9(b) is DENIED.⁸

2 III. FIFTH CAUSE OF ACTION: BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY

3 A plaintiff asserting a breach of express warranty claim must allege facts sufficient to show
4 that (i) the seller's statements constitute an affirmation of fact or promise or a description of the 5 goods; (ii) the statement was part of the basis of the bargain; and (iii) the warranty was breached.
6 See Weinstad v. Dentsply Int'l, Inc., 180 Cal.App. 4th 1213, 1227 (2010). A food label can create
7 an express warranty. See, e.g., Brown v. Hain Celestial Grp., Inc., 11-cv-03082-LB, 2012 WL
8 6697670, at *16 (N.D. Cal. Dec. 22, 2012) ("All Natural & Organic" cosmetic products); Vicuna
9 v. Alexia Foods, Inc., 11-cv-6119-PJH, 2012 WL 1497507, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 27, 2012) ("All 10 Natural" label on potatoes was an express warranty that they did not have SAPP).

11 Ham alleges that the "All Natural" label constitutes an express warranty to provide Waffles
12 without SAPP. Compl. ¶ 113. In its motion to dismiss, Hain argues that the express warranty is 13 not breached because the Waffles "live up to reasonable consumer expectations about 'All 14 Natural' packaged frozen waffles." Mot. 14. The motion to dismiss the breach of express 15 warranty claim is DENIED for the same reasons as the consumer protection and 16 misrepresentation-based claims addressed above.

17 IV. SIXTH CAUSE OF ACTION: BREACH OF CONTRACT

18 Ham's breach of contract claim fails because there is no privity between Hain and Ham.
19 Ham argues that privity is not required in this situation because of two exceptions to the rule

22
23
24
25 ⁸ Hain also argues that the complaint is too vague because it alleges that the "All Natural" claim is 26 false because the Waffles contain additional non-natural, highly-processed ingredients "such as 27 SAPP." Compl. ¶ 27 (emphasis added). I disagree. The inclusion of "such as" in one sentence of 28 the factual section of the complaint does not change the fact that the products at issue are those that are labeled "All Natural yet contained [SAPP]." Compl. ¶ 19.

1 requiring privity between contracting parties.⁹ Oppo. 13. Neither exception applies. The 2 “foodstuffs exception” only applies to alleged breaches of the implied warranty of fitness for 3 human consumption which “runs from the manufacturer to the ultimate consumer regardless of 4 privity of contract.” Burr v. Sherwin Williams Co., 42 Cal. 2d 682, 695-96 (1954). SAPP may be
 5 synthetic, but there is no allegation that it is not fit for human consumption. The “warranty
 6 exception” applies to breach of warranty claims; not breach of contract claims. Ham has not cited
 7 any cases applying the warranty exception to a breach of contract claim. The breach of contract
 8 claim is DISMISSED WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND.

 10 V. EIGHTH CAUSE OF ACTION: QUASI-CONTRACT/UNJUST ENRICHMENT

11 Unjust enrichment and quasi-contract are not independent causes of action. See e.g., Ang
 12 v. Bimbo Bakeries USA, Inc., 13-cv-01196-WHO, 2013 WL 5407039 (N.D. Cal. Sept. 25, 2013); 13 Hill v. Roll Internet. Corp., 195 Cal.App. 4th 1295, 1307 (Cal. App. 2011) (“Unjust enrichment is 14 not a cause of action, just a restitution claim.”); Bruton v. Gerber Products Co., 961 F. Supp. 2d 15 1062, 1099 (N.D. Cal. 2013) (“there is no distinct cause of action for unjust enrichment under 16 California law.”). Ham’s claim for quasi-contract/unjust enrichment (eighth cause of action) is 17 DISMISSED WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND.

18 VI. HAM DOES NOT HAVE STANDING TO SEEK INJUNCTIVE RELIEF

19 Hain argues that Ham lacks standing to seek injunctive relief because “Plaintiff now knows
 20 that the waffles are made with [SAPP]” and is not “realistically threatened by a repetition of the 21 violation.”¹⁰ Mot. 19 (citations omitted). A party seeking injunctive relief from a federal court
 22 must allege not only that she has “suffered or [is] threatened with a concrete and particularized
 23 _____

 25 ⁹ A breach of contract claim can survive if the consumer purchased the products directly from the 26 defendant. See e.g., Richards v. Safeway Inc., No. 13-cv-04317-JD (N.D. Cal. Sep. 22, 2014)
 (order on motion to dismiss) (plaintiff purchased “All Natural” products that contain SAPP directly from defendant).

27 ¹⁰ The Complaint seeks both injunctive and monetary relief. Compl. ¶ 95

1 legal harm” but also that there is “a sufficient likelihood that [she] will again be wronged in a
 2 similar way.” Bates v. United Parcel Serv., Inc., 511 F.3d 974, 985 (9th Cir. 2007) (citation and
 3 internal quotation marks omitted). In a class action, “[u]nless the named plaintiffs are themselves
 4 entitled to seek injunctive relief, they may not represent a class seeking that relief.” Hodgers–
 5 Durgin v. de la Vina, 199 F.3d 1037, 1045 (9th Cir. 1999). Consumers who were misled by 6 deceptive food labels lack standing for injunctive relief because there is “no danger that they will 7 be misled in the future.” See e.g., Garrison, 2014 WL 2451290, at *5; Morgan v. Wallaby Yogurt
 8 Co., No. 13-cv-00296-WHO, 2014 WL 1017879, at *6 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 13, 2014).

9 Because Ham is now aware that the products use SAPP, she cannot allege that she would 10 be fraudulently induced to purchase the products in the future. Ham’s requests for injunctive relief
 11 are DISMISSED WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND.¹¹

12 VII. THE FDA DOES NOT HAVE PRIMARY JURISDICTION OVER THIS CASE

13 The primary jurisdiction doctrine “allows courts to stay proceedings or to dismiss a 14 complaint without prejudice pending the resolution of an issue within the special competence of 15 an administrative agency.” Clark v. Time Warner Cable, 523 F.3d 1110, 1114 (9th Cir. 2008).
 16 Application of the primary jurisdiction doctrine “is a matter of the court’s discretion.” Chacanaca
 17 v. Quaker Oats Co., 752 F. Supp. 2d 1111, 1124 (N.D. Cal. 2010).

18 Hain argues that the doctrine should be invoked here because the FDA has been 19 considering the definition of the term “natural.” In support, Hain cites a letter from the FDA’s
 20 Assistant Commissioner for Policy stating that the agencies are discussing defining “All Natural.”
 21 Oppo. Ex. A.

22
 23
 24
 25 ¹¹ Ham argues that this rule will do away with injunctive relief for claims against misleading
 26 product labels. I addressed that concern in Morgan, explaining that, while injunctive relief may 27 not be available in all cases, “the threat of damages and other available relief may also give 28 businesses pause should they decide not to abide by consumer protection laws.” Morgan, 2014
 WL 1017879, at *6.

1 I am not convinced. The FDA letter informed three judges that the FDA explicitly
2 declined to further define “All Natural” because “priority food public health and safety matters are 3 largely occupying the limited resources that the FDA has to address food matters.” Id. There is
4 no evidence that the FDA intends to define the term “natural” or “all natural”. On the contrary,
5 the evidence in the record suggests that the FDA has no imminent plans to do so. See, e.g., In re
6 ConAgra Foods, Inc., 2013 WL 4259467 (C.D. Cal. Aug. 12, 2013) (for the doctrine to apply,
7 “first, the FDA would have to act, something it has declined to do in the past”). Moreover, courts
8 regularly consider whether “natural” or “all natural” food is mislabeled without deferring to 9 special agency expertise. See, e.g., Rojas v. Gen. Mills, Inc., 12-cv-05099-WHO, 2013 WL
10 5568389 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 9, 2013) (declining to invoke the doctrine for “All Natural” products);
11 Kosta v. Del Monte Corp., No. 12-cv-1722-YGR, 2013 WL 2147413, (N.D. Cal. May 15, 2013)
12 (declining to invoke the doctrine for fresh and “All Natural” products). Invoking the primary 13 jurisdiction doctrine here is not warranted.

14 VIII. HAM DOES NOT HAVE STANDING TO CHALLENGE HAIN’S WEBSITE OR 15 FACEBOOK PAGE

16 A party does not have standing to challenge statements or advertisements that she never 17 saw. See e.g., Bruton, 961 F. Supp. 2d at 1090 (dismissing website claims because a plaintiff
18 “does not have standing to assert claims based on statements she did not view”); Gitson, 2013 WL
19 5513711 (same). Ham does not allege that she viewed Hain’s Facebook or www.earthbest.com
20 websites. Compl. ¶¶ 25, 26. Ham therefore lacks standing to challenge alleged misrepresentations
21 on those websites. Ham does not contend that she did in fact see Hain’s Facebook or 22 www.earthbest.com websites or could amend her complaint to plead reliance on those statements.
23 Accordingly, Ham’s claims are DISMISSED WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND to the extent that 24 they are based on alleged misrepresentations on Hain’s Facebook or www.earthbest.com websites.

25 CONCLUSION

26 Hain’s motion to dismiss is GRANTED IN PART and DENIED IN PART. Dkt. No. 25.
27 Ham’s breach of contract (sixth) and quasi-contract/unjust enrichment (eighth) causes of action
28

1 and request for injunctive relief are DISMISSED WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND. Ham's
2 claims are DISMISSED WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND to the extent that they are based on
