Breast Cancer

"... I was in my second round of chemo for breast cancer when I first started drinking mangosteen juice. I only drank the minimum dose of 2 oz. a day because I asked my oncologist about taking it during chemo. He said antioxidants should not be taken in large doses because it could make the chemo ineffective, but he also said I could get my antioxidants naturally by just eating the right foods. That is why I only drank 2 oz a day until I finished chemo. Then, I started drinking 6 oz. a day and I really recovered fast from the chemo. Also, I never got a cold or flu during chemo and am still in great health now 4 months post-chemo and radiation. Plus, I smile all the time now, and I call it my "happy juice!" - Eve
