Vaping is In: Here are Seven Reasons Why

0 Comments

1. Health

Many people who vape were originally smokers, and there are many health benefits touted for giving up cigarettes and vaping instead. Many consider them an alternative from smoking and in fact have used them to kick the habit! Alongside nicotine, regular cigarettes contain other additives and chemicals to make them more addictive. Unless you've been smoking organic cigarettes you've been ingesting these toxins as well. In a report from ABC News, researchers from Britain claim that 6,000 people (out of one million) could be saved annually through the use of electronic cigarettes over smoking. Also, you won't get smoker's cough or you probably won't be as prone to chest colds this winter, either.

2. No stink

Anyone who has smoked, or been around smokers, knows the smell that seems to permeate everything, from your hair to your clothes. If you've ever been in the house of a smoker, it's immediately evident, and it's not pleasant. If you've dated a smoker, this can be a kissing nightmare.

Vapors don't exhale smoke that lingers and permeates into everything, rather, the exhalation evaporates almost immediately. Many people find the e-cigarette smell to be pleasant.

3. Save Money

If you compare the costs of a pack-a-day smoker, the cost for smoking can be $6 x 70 = $320/month. That's not spare change! That's a significant amount of money. On the other hand, vaping can have large costs initially to purchase the starter kit, purchasing the e-cigarette e-liquid is much less expensive, and you can monitor your nicotine input, so if you're looking to quit smoking (and vaping) you can gradually reduce the amount of nicotine in your e-juice. Most people report spending less than half on electronic cigarettes than they did on smoking.

A recent survey found that 70% of those who switched from smoking to vaping had a reduced urge to smoke.

4. Safety: No open flame

Since there isn't a hot coal on the end of your e cigarette, you won't accidentally burn your clothing, your skin or your house down (the house burning down is an extreme example, but you get the idea.) Also, have you noticed that culture of ash trays is disappearing? They don't even make them in cars anymore! With vaping, there's no need for ash trays or for clean up because it doesn't create a mess.

5. Flavor options

If you're tired of tobacco flavor, e-liquids come in many different flavors. Of course, tobacco flavors are always an option but many people prefer some of our signature flavors such as Das Boot Uber Juice, which balances banana, strawberry and caramel and Banilla, a rich blend of banana and vanilla, all of which are custom blended in the USA and you can choose the PG/VG ratio. PG and VG, propylene glycol and vegetable glycerin are used to deliver a superior vaping experience, and have been deemed safe by the FDA.

6. Look Better!

Smoking causes extra wrinkles around the mouth, it dries out the skin, and it stains your fingers. Smoking can shorten your life, because as you're ingesting nicotine you're also taking in tar. By giving it up, you'll add years to your life, and life to your years! You'll have more energy and be able to take on the stairs at work, and go for a walk without becoming breathless, and for that, Mother Earth thanks you!

7. It's social and safe.

Probably one of the hardest aspects to give up for smokers is the smokers break at work and the tribe that enjoys taking a break, relaxing and connecting. By giving up smoking you may feel that you're giving up this social opportunity. Vaping allows you to stay social, to find a new way to connect with people, all the while not returning to work or the party with the cigarette smoke scent all over you. Plus, when you're finished with your smoke, you won't be throwing your cigarette butt on the ground and littering.

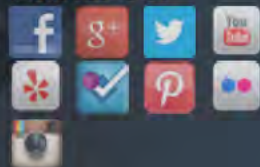

Happy Vaping!

How are e-cigarettes different from regular old cigarettes?

0 Comments

Traditional cigarettes come from the burning of tobacco which in itself can cause health issues from the tar that is also burned when the tobacco leaf is lit. The tar coats everything, and you're most likely familiar with it if you've ever seen the light yellow coating that can happen in a smoker's car, or in their home. E-cigarettes burn nicotine by using a liquid base in propylene glycol and vegetable glycerin (PG/VG) which is often called e-liquid or e-juice. E-cigarettes come in many different flavors (not just tobacco) and are sugar-free food flavorings that have been deemed safe by the USDA. Cigarette vapor gives off the burned resin and additives found in traditional cigarettes, plus the pungent odor of cigarette smoke. E-cigarettes emit more pleasant aromas that aren't dangerous as second hand smoke.

So, the vapor in e-cigarettes comes from the e-juice (AKA e-liquid) which contains nicotine (if you choose), distilled water, flavoring and propylene glycol (PG) and vegetable glycol (VG). If you choose your liquid from e-cigarette vapor, it's custom made in the US with ingredients from the US, which is comforting. For your e-liquid you'll have several decisions to make: 1) the flavor, 2) the nicotine level and 3) the PG/VG ratio.

E-Liquid Flavors: Where do I start?

You're not limited to tobacco flavors. Got a sweet tooth? Like coffee? Chocolate?

E-liquids come in a variety of flavors, from the traditional tobacco (and menthol), to cocktails and coffee, from candy to dessert and fruit flavors. Some of the top flavors are vanilla and banana, chocolate mint, and pumpkin cream. Many vapors will have a variety of flavors, depending on the time of the day and their mood. Some start the day with the Morning Vape, enjoy a mid-day fruity pick-me-up, and then end the day with an adult flavored beverage vape, such as Pico: Pina Colada.

How do I know which nicotine level to choose?

As we know, pure nicotine is deadly, but what we rarely hear about are the studies done with nicotine that show that it can be used to treat depression and delay Alzheimer's. According to the Tampa Bay Times, a study was done with Alzheimer's patients, and those who wore nicotine patches experienced a boost in cognitive ability. There's also some evidence to suggest that it can protect against Parkinson's disease. The findings also showed that nicotine by itself is not addictive. At e-cigarette vapor, there are several levels of nicotine to choose from, including 0 mg.

Woah, tell me more about PG/VG, as I see I have to choose a ratio in my e-cigarettes e-juice.

So, PG and VG are added to create a perfect throat hit and mouth feel while vaping. One is very smooth on the throat where the other produces more vapor, and everyone has a preference for their ratio. Discussions that have come up include are they both safe, and which one is better. PG (propylene glycol) and VG (vegetable glycerin) can cause an allergic reaction (very rarely; however, it has been found to happen more often with PG than VG). Sometimes even the flavors can cause an allergic reaction. So the best bet is, if you're new to vaping, to be aware of any reactions you might be having and also to check in with your healthcare profession before even starting.

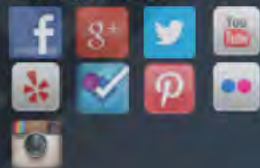

Your best bet might be to start with a sample kit, so you can try out different flavors and see what your preference is, before committing to a larger container of something that you don't favor. E-cigarette vapor has several sample kits that you could check out, for you or someone in your life who is new to vaping.
