JURY TRIAL DEMAND 30

1 Plaintiffs CHRISTINA WIRTH and ADAM WAGNER (“Plaintiffs”) bring this 2 action on behalf of themselves and all others similarly situated against Mars, Inc., 3 Mars Petcare US Inc., the Iams Company (“Mars”), and Proctor and Gamble 4 Company (“P&G”), (collectively “Defendants”). Plaintiffs’ allegations against 5 Defendants are based upon information and belief and upon investigation of Plaintiffs’ 6 counsel, except for allegations specifically pertaining to Plaintiffs, which are based 7 upon Plaintiffs’ personal knowledge.

8 I. OVERVIEW

9 1. America’s largest and most profitable food conglomerates should not 10 tolerate slave labor anywhere in their supply chains. These companies should not turn 11 a blind eye to known human rights abuses or shirk from investigating potential human 12 rights abuses by their suppliers, especially when the companies consistently and 13 affirmatively represent that they act in a socially and ethically responsible manner.
14 When these food conglomerates fail to uphold their responsibility for ensuring the 15 absence of slave labor in their supply chains, their misconduct has the profound 16 consequence of supporting and encouraging slave labor. And when these food 17 conglomerates fail to disclose the use of slave labor in their supply chains to 18 consumers, they are deceived into buying products they would not have otherwise and 19 thereby unwittingly supporting slave labor themselves through their product 20 purchases. Such food conglomerates should be required to make restitution to the 21 consumers they have deceived and to ensure the absence of slave labor in their supply 22 chains going forward.

23 2. Defendants are among the largest and most profitable food conglomerates 24 in the United States. Defendants source their food products from all over the globe.
25 Among their products, Defendants market and distribute pet foods, including the well-26 known cat food Iams. Iams comes in a variety of flavors and styles, many of which 27 include seafood caught from the tropical waters between Thailand and Indonesia.

1 3. Defendants works with their Thai partner, Thai Union Frozen Products
2 PCL (“Thai Union”), to import their pet food into the United States. In the past year, 3 Thai Union has shipped more than 28 million pounds of seafood-based pet food for 4 some of the top brands sold in America, including Iams, according to United States 5 Customs documents.¹ Thai Union is Thailand’s largest seafood company operating as 6 a vertically integrated producer, processor, and exporter of canned seafood and pet 7 food.²

8 4. Thai Union has controlling stakes in seafood and pet food canneries, 9 including Songkla Canning PCL and Thai Union Manufacturing Co., Ltd. These 10 canneries receive large shipments of fish from “motherships” which are larger boats 11 that refrigerate and transport fish from numerous fishing boats.

12 5. These motherships do not capture fish themselves. Rather, they go 13 between port and the fishing boats to resupply the fishing boats, pick up caught fish, 14 and deliver the fish to the canneries for processing. As a result, fishing boats do not 15 need to return to port and can instead continuously fish, ensuring constant productivity 16 with the ultimate goal of higher profits. And because motherships eliminate the need 17 for fishing boats to return to land for months at a time, the fishing boats operate at 18 great distance from any port and without oversight.

19 6. Thus, the supply chain can be depicted as follows:

10 7. Without Defendants holding their supply chain to a higher standard, the 11 deckhands on these fishing boats end up working as modern day slaves, as described 12 in the recent New York Times article, ‘Sea Slaves’: The Human Misery that Feeds 13 Pets & Livestock.³ Often trafficked from Thailand’s poorer neighbors such as 14 Cambodia and Burma, men and boys are sold to fishing boat captains needing crews to 15 man their fishing boats. The work is dangerous and exhausting with shifts lasting up 16 to 20 hours a day with little or no pay. Refusal or failure to work to a supervisor’s 17 satisfaction can result in being beaten or even murdered.

18 8. The Bureau of International Labor Affairs of the United States 19 Department of Labor confirms that fish and shrimp from Thailand are likely the 20 product of forced labor.⁴

Country	Good	Child Labor	Forced Labor
Thailand	Fish		X
Thailand	Garments	X	X
Thailand	Pornography	X
Thailand	Shrimp	X	X

27 ³ Urbina, Sea Slaves, supra note 1.

28 ⁴ <http://www.dol.gov/ilab/reports/child-labor/list-of-goods/countries/?q=Thailand>.

2 Likewise, Aidan McQuade, director of Anti-Slavery International, has commented that 3 “[i]f you buy prawns or shrimp from Thailand, you will be buying the product of slave 4 labour.”

5 9. Knowing that the much of the fish sold in Defendants’ pet food is likely 6 the product of slave labor is material to consumers not wishing to support slave labor 7 with their purchasing power. In the course of marketing and selling its pet foods, 8 however, Defendants materially omit and do not disclose the likelihood that much of 9 the fish in its pet food is the product of slave labor. Furthermore, Defendants do not 10 disclose that despite its awareness that slave labor is being used in its supply chains, 11 Defendants have not required its suppliers to remedy this human tragedy. Defendants, 12 among the largest companies in the world, can dictate the terms by which seafood is 13 produced and supplied to it, including the labor conditions in the supply chain. But 14 Defendants are presently not able to trace the fish that it imports back to the fishing 15 boats that source it, much less ensure that the fish is not the product of slave labor.
16 And meanwhile Defendants profit from the slave labor that supplies their fish. This is 17 shameful. Had Plaintiffs and Class Members known the truth, they would not have 18 purchased Defendants’ pet food or paid as much for them.

19 10. Defendants’ material omissions and failure to disclose are all the more 20 appalling considering that Defendants have identified the protection of human rights, 21 including the elimination of all forms of forced or compulsory labor, as an integral 22 part of their human rights policies.⁵ But Defendants do not live up to their own ideals.
23 Defendants’ public espousal of a message condemning forced labor and their superior 24 knowledge of the likelihood that much of the fish in their pet food is so sourced 25 obligate Defendants to disclose the truth to consumers.

1 11. Defendants' conduct described herein violates the (i) California's 2 Business & Professions Code §§ 17200, et seq. (the Unfair Competition Law or 3 "UCL"); (ii) California Civil Code §§ 1750, et seq. (the Consumers Legal Remedies 4 Act or "CLRA"); and (iii) California's Business & Professions Code §§ 17500, et seq.
5 (the False Advertising Law or "FAL"). Plaintiffs brings this action on behalf of a 6 California class for restitution and injunctive relief, and any other relief deemed 7 appropriate by the court to which this case is assigned.

8 II. PARTIES

9 12. Plaintiff Christina Wirth is and was at all relevant times a citizen of the 10 State of California, residing in Costa Mesa. Plaintiff Wirth has purchased Iams cat 11 food from Defendants through various retail stores including Petco and PetSmart in 12 Costa Mesa from 2011 through present. Plaintiff Wirth saw the product packaging 13 and labeling as well as signage in retail stores where she purchased the cat food. Mrs.
14 Wirth would not have purchased it or paid as much had Defendants disclosed the truth.
15 Plaintiff seeks restitution and injunctive relief requiring Mars to cease its deceptive 16 marketing.

17 13. Plaintiff Adam Wagner is and was at all relevant times a citizen of the 18 State of California, residing in Yucaipa. Plaintiff Wagner has purchased Iams cat food 19 from Defendants through various retail stores including Stater Bros. in Yucaipa and 20 Wal-Mart in Beaumont from 2013 through present. Plaintiff Wagner saw the product 21 packaging and labeling as well as signage in retail stores where he purchased the cat 22 food. Mr. Wagner would not have purchased it or paid as much had Defendants 23 disclosed the truth. Plaintiff seeks restitution and injunctive relief requiring Mars to 24 cease its deceptive marketing.

25 14. Defendant Mars, Inc. is a global food and beverage company which 26 through its subsidiaries manufactures and sells food and beverages, including pet 27 foods. In August 2014, Mars, Inc. completed its acquisition of Iams Company from 28

1 Procter & Gamble Company. Mars, Inc.'s corporate headquarters are located in 2 Delaware with its main office located at 6885 Elm Street, McLean, Virginia 22101. It 3 is the parent company of Mars Petcare US, Inc. and the Iams Company.

4 15. Defendant Mars Petcare, US Inc. is a nationwide manufacturer and 5 distributor of petfood products. Its corporate headquarters is located at 100 6 International Dr, Mt. Olive, NJ 07828.

7 16. Defendant Iams Company is a nationwide manufacturer of pet foods. Its 8 corporate headquarters is located at 8700 S. Mason Montgomery Rd, Mason, OH 9 45040.

10 17. Procter & Gamble Company is a multinational consumer goods company 11 that manufactures products ranging from personal care to cleaning agents. From 12 September, 1999 until August, 2014, Iams Company was a subsidiary of Procter & 13 Gamble. Its corporate headquarters is located at 1 or 2, Procter & Gamble Plaza, 14 Cincinnati, OH, 45201.

15 18. Defendants develop, market, and distribute the Iams cat food line through 16 pet stores, grocery stores, and online in California and nationwide. Iams products 17 using seafood imported by Thai Union ("Iams") include, but are not limited to, the 18 following: (i) Iams Purrfect Delights Dive in, Oceanfish Dinner Chunks In Gravy; (ii)
19 Sea You Soon Tuna Dinner Chunks In Gravy; (iii) Iams Purrfect Delights Tempt Me

1 24. The crews of these fishing trawlers are very often men and boys who 2 have been trafficked from nearby Myanmar and Cambodia.⁷ Desperate and 3 vulnerable, these men and boys fall victim to human traffickers who prey upon their 4 poverty by offering the prospect of employment in Thailand which would enable these 5 people to help their families. Instead of true employment, men and boys are sold as 6 slaves by brokers and smugglers to fishing captains in Thai ports in need of labor.
7 Once sold, these men and boys (hereafter “Sea Slaves”) enter a modern form of 8 indentured servitude where they are required to work to pay off the price the captains 9 paid to purchase them. The Sea Slaves cannot leave the boats until their debt is paid.
10 After leaving port, these boats become floating prisons isolated by thousands of miles 11 of open water.

12 25. These Sea Slaves are frequently resold to other fishing boats while out at 13 sea, often at higher prices than their price at port. As a result, Sea Slaves are 14 involuntarily forced into longer and longer periods of servitude as their debt grows and 15 the price of their freedom becomes ever more elusive. Often, these purchases are 16 made in one of five locations that are the deepest parts of the oceans, the point farthest 17 away from every shore. Here, the Thai, Indonesian, and Vietnamese jurisdictions 18 intersect, making enforcement and application of laws confusing—to the advantage of 19 companies that rely on slave labor, like Thai Union.

20 26. Daily life at sea is harsh by any standard. Meals for Sea Slaves consist of 21 one bowl of rice per day along with some unwanted fish.⁸ When water runs low, Sea 22 Slaves often suck the unsanitary and foul-tasting ice chips used to freeze fish.
23 Sleeping in two hour shifts, quarters are cramped, hot and filled with rodents and other 24 vermin. The boats’ engines operate constantly emanating a deafening noise and 25 periodically spewing black clouds of toxic fumes into the sleeping quarters. Sea

1 Slaves work in all weather conditions enduring seasickness during rough seas and the 2 unrelenting heat of the tropical sun. Beyond the boat, pirates are known to operate in 3 the region.

4 27. The work on these trawlers is extremely dangerous.⁹ As a preliminary 5 matter, many Sea Slaves do not know how to swim making any misstep potentially 6 fatal. Moreover, fishing trawlers typically use weighted nets to capture anything that 7 might be swimming along the ocean floor. Once the nets are raised to the surface, Sea 8 Slaves will jump overboard to ensure that the nets have closed properly. If a Sea 9 Slave becomes entangled in the mesh nets, he could be forced underwater and drown 10 before anyone would notice. During rough seas, large waves can pound the fishing 11 trawlers and easily drag away anyone on deck unlucky enough to be in the wrong 12 place at the wrong time. Nylon lines can sever fingers and open wounds on constantly 13 wet hands. Deeper cuts are stitched up by Sea Slaves themselves, resulting in large 14 numbers of infections.

15 28. Boat captains and officers regularly engage in severe physical 16 punishment of insubordinate Sea Slaves. Various forms of punishment include 17 physical beatings, solitary confinement in foul smelling fishing holds below deck for 18 days on end, and shackling them by the neck.¹⁰ In other cases, captains and their 19 officers have been known to kill Sea Slaves. Sick Sea Slaves have been thrown 20 overboard. Others have been beheaded. As overfishing has continued to deplete 21 populations of fish in the South China Sea,¹¹ Sea Slaves must endure these conditions

1 for months at a time as fishing trawlers continue to operate further and further from 2 coastlines. The conditions are so severe that the United Nations has issued a call to 3 action for Cambodian, Thai, and Malaysian governmental agencies to enforce the 4 human rights laws and policies.¹²

5 29. On the open ocean, the Sea Slaves are at the mercy of the captain or other 6 officers.¹³ Corrupt law enforcement officials are often complicit in the trafficking of 7 sea slaves, while Thai maritime authorities are limited in their ability to patrol 8 thousands of square miles of open water – which is precisely why these boats operate 9 at such distances from coastlines.

10 30. Once fish have been caught and stored by fishing trawlers, the boats then 11 meet with so-called “motherships.”¹⁴ Motherships do not fish. Their purpose is 12 merely to collect the fish from fishing trawlers, store them into their larger and better 13 refrigerated cargo holds, and resupply the fishing boats. They are vital to the fishing 14 boats’ ability to operate further and further from coastlines, away from prying law 15 enforcement and any government authorities.

16 31. Motherships do not inquire whether the fishing boat’s labor force is 17 comprised of Sea Slaves. While motherships may meet up with both fishing boats 18 using Sea Slaves and other boats using legitimately employed deckhands, once the fish 19 is collected and stored, fish that is the product of forced labor is mixed with fish that is 20 legitimately caught, making any kind of tracing impossible.¹⁵ That Defendants permit 21 such mixing of sources in their supply chain renders them unable to assert that any fish 22 imported from Thailand is not the product of slave labor.

1 32. Motherships then haul their cargo to ports on the Thai coast. At port, the 2 fish are loaded onto trucks bound for nearby canneries in order to be processed into 3 canned pet food and seafood.¹⁶

4 33. As reported by the New York Times, one Sea Slave learned that much of 5 the fish on the boat where he was held captive was eventually sent to a cannery owned 6 by Songkla Canning PCL.¹⁷ Songkla Canning PCL and Thai Union Manufacturing 7 LTD are the cannery subsidiaries of Thai Union Frozen Products PCL (hereafter “Thai 8 Union”).¹⁸ Thai Union and its subsidiaries process, package, and export many of 9 America’s best known pet food brands, including Iams. In the past year, Thai Union 10 has shipped more than 28 million pounds of seafood-based cat and dog food for many 11 of these top brands according to United States Customs documents.¹⁹

12 34. After Thai Union’s canneries have processed the raw fish into Iams, Thai 13 Union exports it to Defendants in the United States. Thai Union may export directly 14 with Mars as a consignee. Alternatively, Thai Union may export to U.S. Pet Nutrition, 15 LLC, a Thai Union subsidiary in San Diego, California that acts as a consignee to 16 Iams shipments.²⁰ Likewise, when P&G owned Iams, Thai Union would export Iams 17 with U.S. Pet Nutrition, LLC acting as consignee.

18 35. Upon arrival in the United States, the Iams cat food enters Defendants’ 19 distribution network and is shipped to retailers in California and throughout the United 20 States.

B. Defendants Fail to Disclose the Use of Slave Labor in Their Supply Chain.

36. While Iams packaging states that it is a product of Thailand, a consumer reviewing the Iams packaging will find no mention of the likelihood that forced labor was used to catch the seafood going into the product.

37. Nowhere on the packaging for any of the Iams cat food products is there any indication of the slave labor conditions of those people catching the fish that go

1 into them.

2 38. Similarly, Defendants’ websites do not disclose the likelihood of slave 3 labor in the Iams supply chain, despite their superior knowledge, as compared to 4 consumers, regarding that supply chain.

5 C. Defendants Recognize that the Use of Slave Labor in Their Supply Chains
6 Is Wrong.

7 39. Mars’ corporate business principles explicitly identify “Freedom” as one 8 of its Five Principles. Mars represents that its Five Principles are the foundation of its 9 Human Rights Policy, which states, “In accordance with the UN Guiding Principles 10 [on Business and Human Rights], we will implement a due diligence process to 11 identify, mitigate and prevent adverse impacts on human rights and appropriate 12 mechanisms for remediation. No matter where we operate, Mars strives to comply 13 with the spirit and the letter of the law.”²¹ In describing the relationship with Mars’ 14 suppliers, the Human Rights Policy also states that the Mars Supplier Code of Conduct 15 (the “Supplier Code”) “sets our global expectations prohibiting the use of child labour 16 in accordance with ILO Minimum Age Convention No. 138 and in the areas of health 17 and safety, the environment and ethical business practices.”

18 40. For example, in the Supplier Code, Mars states that in order to do 19 business with Mars, “Supplier confirms that it complies with the legal requirements 20 and standards of its industry and...[i]f the Code establishes a higher standard than is 21 required by applicable law, Mars expects its suppliers to align with the principles 22 contained in the Code.”²² Mars further warns that it “reserves the right to conduct 23 announced and unannounced on-site independent third-party audits of Supplier’s 24 facilities.”

25 41. The Supplier Code further states that a “Supplier employs all employees 26 on a voluntary basis and does not use any prison, slave, bonded, forced or indentured

27 ²¹ Mars.com, Human Rights Policy, supra note 5.

28 ²² Mars Supplier Code of Conduct, supra note 5 at 2.

1 labor...or any other forms of slavery or human trafficking.”²³ Moreover, Mars’ Code 2 demands that a “Supplier does not use or source raw materials or products associated 3 with forced labor or human trafficking.”²⁴ Suppliers are not allowed to require 4 children to work under hazardous conditions, for periods exceeding eight hours per 5 day, or in a “manner that unreasonably interferes with vocational education.”²⁵ As 6 alleged above, all of these practices occur in Mars’ Iams supply chain.

7 42. Additionally, Mars’ Supplier Code of Conduct demands that suppliers are 8 capable of “disclos[ing] the geographical location of facilities producing raw materials 9 for Mars, as well as the origin of raw materials within the suppliers own direct supply 10 chain. Supplier will take responsibility to implement the requirements of this Code and 11 associated due diligence processes with those in its own direct supply chain.”²⁶ While 12 Mars claims that between 80% and 85% of its Tier 1 suppliers²⁷ will have completed 13 Mars’ responsible sourcing requirements by the end of 2015,²⁸ it makes no such claim 14 as to its Tier 2 suppliers, which supply the Tier 1 suppliers.²⁹ As alleged above, 15 because Mars permits its sources to store, transport, and process fish caught by Sea 16 Slaves alongside fish caught by legitimate fishing operators, Mars is not able to trace 17 its Iams cat food back to the source and Mars knew or should have known that the due 18 diligence obligations under the Supplier Code could not be satisfied.

1 43. In its Worldwide Business Conduct Manual (“WBCM”), effective 2 November 1, 2010, P&G states right on its cover that “We Do the Right Thing.”³⁰ As 3 part of this grand statement, the WBCM gives notice that “[P&G] also expect[s] 4 suppliers and other business partners to comply with the...WBCM.”³¹ The WBCM 5 squarely addresses P&G’s position on the use of slave labor stating, “[w]e do not use 6 child or forced labor in any of our global operations or facilities. None of us should 7 tolerate any form of unacceptable treatment of workers in our operations or facilities.
8 This means, among other things, that we do not permit exploitation of children, 9 physical punishment or abuse, or involuntary servitude.”³² The WBCM also discusses 10 violence in the workplace. “As part of our commitment to providing a safe work 11 environment, we never...tolerate any form of violence. At P&G, ‘violence’ includes 12 threats or acts of violence, intimidation of others or attempts to instill fear in others.
13 Weapons are not allowed in the workplace, consistent with local law.”³³ Moreover, 14 P&G employees “must immediately report [their] concerns” if they know of or suspect 15 incidents or threats of violence.³⁴

16 44. In addition to P&G’s position that its WBCM applies to its suppliers and 17 business partners, P&G also provides “Sustainability Guidelines for External Business 18 Partners.” Again, P&G emphasizes that “the principle of doing the right thing” is the 19 basis for how P&G and its suppliers should operate.³⁵ P&G declares that it seeks to 20 “operate within the spirit and letter of the law...[and] actively seek[s] business

1 relationships with partners who share our values.” P&G warns that it “reserves the 2 right to conduct audits to assure compliance with these guidelines and also reserves 3 the right to discontinue any relationship should the external business partner 4 violate...these guidelines.”³⁶

5 45. Under the heading “Human Rights,” P&G states:

6 P&G respects internationally recognized human rights as defined by the 7 Universal Declaration of Human Rights and Associated Covenants, and 8 the International Labor Organization (ILO) Declaration on the 9 Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work. We expect our external 10 business partners to respect these internationally recognized human 11 rights. In our business award decisions, we will continue to place substantial value upon incumbent and potential external business partners who consistently respect these human rights.³⁷

12 Accordingly, P&G formally represents to the public that in choosing suppliers, 13 P&G will seek out partners that respect internationally recognized human rights.

14 46. For example, P&G declares that “[e]xternal business partners...must not 15 use...indentured or bonded labor, human trafficking, or modern day slavery. External 16 business partners must never use corporal punishment or other forms of mental and/or 17 physical coercion.”³⁸ And “P&G’s external business partners will not use child 18 labor.”³⁹

19 47. Knowing that consumers are concerned about human rights, P&G’s 20 Human Rights Policy Statement is designed to reassure the public that purchasing 21 P&G products is a responsible choice. Under the heading “Respecting Our 22 Consumers,” P&G notes that its purpose ‘to provide branded products and services of 23 superior quality and value that improve the lives of the world’s consumers, now and 24 for generations to come’ inspires everything [P&G does] and inspires our human

1 rights policy.”⁴⁰ Moreover, P&G assures its consumers that “[w]e respect the human 2 rights of all persons in the communities in which we conduct business as well as 3 recognize that we must be responsible for environmental stewardship and using 4 resources wisely.”⁴¹ P&G describes itself as “particularly committed to improving the 5 lives of children in need around the world” and purports to engage human rights 6 advocates to explore how “make progress” on human rights issues.⁴²

7 48. As alleged above, because P&G permitted its sources to store, transport, 8 and process fish caught by Sea Slaves alongside fish caught by legitimate fishing 9 operators, P&G was not able to trace its Iams cat food back to the source. P&G knew 10 or should have known that it failed to ensure the absence of forced labor in the 11 sourcing of its Iams cat food in violation of its own WBCM, Sustainability Guidelines 12 for External Business Partners, and Human Rights Policy Statement.

13 49. While Defendants take great pains to articulate their focus on human 14 rights, they avoid mentioning that by sourcing from countries like Thailand, 15 Defendants source from a country that has been identified by the U.S. State 16 Department as a “Tier 3 source, destination, and transite country for men, women, and 17 children subjected to forced labor and sex trafficking” with particular reference made 18 to the fishing industry.⁴³

19 50. In summary, although Defendants recognize that the use of slave labor in 20 their supply chain is wrong and their corporate business principles explicitly forbid 21 slave labor by their suppliers, they materially omit to disclose to consumers

2 up the product.

3 D. Use of Slave Labor in the Iams Supply Chain Is Material to Consumers.

4 51. Consumers have become sensitive to the human cost behind the products 5 that they buy. This sensitivity transcends industries and ranges from products as 6 diverse as clothing to coffee.

7 52. A 2006 study by researchers at the University of Michigan analyzed 8 consumer purchases to determining consumer willingness to pay a premium for 9 athletic socks marked with a Good Working Conditions (“GWC”) label.⁴⁴ The study 10 concluded that 30% of consumers in a working class neighborhood of Detroit were 11 willing to pay a 20% price premium (from $1.00 to $1.20) for GWC labeled socks
12 compared to non-GWC labeled socks.⁴⁵

13 53. A 2011 study lead by researchers at Harvard University studied consumer 14 willingness to pay a premium for polo shirts sold with an SA8000 certification on 15 eBay.⁴⁶ The SA8000 certification prohibits the use of child labor and forced labor and 16 discrimination based on race, gender, and religion. The code mandates that workers 17 be allowed to organize and bargain collectively with their employers. The SA8000 18 code also requires that workplaces satisfy minimum health and safety standards, pay 19 minimum (living) wages, and that overtime work is voluntary, limited, and paid at a 20 premium.⁴⁷ “On average, shoppers paid a 45% premium for labeled versus unlabeled

1 shirts. The findings suggest that there is substantial consumer support for fair labor 2 standards, even among price-sensitive eBay shoppers.”⁴⁸

3 54. Another Harvard University study led by a similar team studied consumer 4 willingness to pay a premium for coffee certified as Fair Trade on eBay.⁴⁹ A Fair 5 Trade certification requires, amongst other things, that the producer not use forced and 6 child labor in the production of its coffee.⁵⁰ The study found that consumers in online 7 auctions were willing to pay an average of 23% more for coffee certified as Fair 8 Trade.⁵¹

9 55. Similar to products like socks and coffee, pet food is an inexpensive good 10 generally imported from foreign countries where labor costs are considerably cheaper.
11 Accordingly, consumers are similarly sensitive to slave labor being used in pet food 12 production.

13 56. A survey by FishWise, a non-profit marine conservation organization, 14 further explains the depths of consumer concerns regarding human rights abuses in 15 supply chains. FishWise surveyed consumers, the seafood industry and non-16 governmental organizations.⁵² Eighty-eight percent of consumers stated that they 17 would stop buying a product if it was associated with human rights abuses.⁵³ The 18 survey further revealed that 70% percent of consumers would pay more for a product 19 certified to be free of human rights abuses.⁵⁴ FishWise noted that, “survey results

1 indicate that human rights are important to seafood consumers and many of them are 2 willing to avoid high risk products and pay more for those that are certified to be free 3 of abuses.”⁵⁵

4 57. Defendants are well aware of this consumer sensitivity and mounted their 5 extensive public relations effort to position themselves as companies invested in 6 eradicating slavery from their supply chain. Their hollow statements mask a tragic 7 truth that keeps thousands of impoverished men and boys trapped on the open sea with 8 little or no hope of ever returning home. Had consumers known the truth, they would 9 not have purchased or paid as much for Iams.

10 V. CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

11 58. Under Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Plaintiffs seek 12 certification of a Class defined as follows:

13 All consumers who purchased seafood based Iams cat food 14 in California during the four years prior to the filing of the 15 complaint.

16 59. Excluded from the Class are Defendants; the officers, directors or 17 employees of Defendants; any entity in which Defendants has a controlling interest; 18 and any affiliate, legal representative, heir or assign of Defendants. Also, excluded 19 from the Class are any federal, state or local governmental entities, any judicial officer 20 presiding over this action and the members of his/her immediate family and judicial 21 staff, and any juror assigned to this action.

22 60. Plaintiffs do not know the exact number of Class Members at the present 23 time. However, due to the nature of the trade and commerce involved, there appear to 24 be thousands of Class Members such that joinder of all Class members is 25 impracticable.

26 61. The Class is ascertainable by objective criteria permitting self-27 identification in response to notice, and notice can be provided through techniques

28 ⁵⁵ Id. at 7.

1 similar to those customarily used in other consumer fraud cases and complex class 2 actions, and through Defendants' business records.

3 62. There are questions of law and fact common to the Class. Defendants' 4 unlawful omissions similarly impact Class Members, all of who purchased one or 5 more Iams cat food products.

6 63. Plaintiffs assert claims that are typical of the Class. Plaintiffs and all 7 Class Members have been subjected to the same wrongful conduct because they all 8 have purchased Iams cat food that was not disclosed as likely sourced from suppliers 9 using forced labor. As a result, and like other members of the Class, Plaintiffs 10 purchased and paid an amount for Iams cat food products which he otherwise would 11 not have paid.

12 64. Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately represent and protect the interests of 13 the Class. Plaintiffs are represented by counsel competent and experienced in both 14 consumer protection and class action litigation.

15 65. Class certification is appropriate because Defendants have acted on 16 grounds that apply generally to the Class, so that final injunctive relief or 17 corresponding declaratory relief is appropriate respecting the Class as a whole.

18 66. Class certification is also appropriate because common questions of law 19 and fact substantially predominate over any questions that may affect only individual 20 members of the Class, including, inter alia, the following:

- 21 a. Whether Defendants failed to disclose the likelihood 22 that Sea Slaves were used in its Iams supply chain;
- 23 b. Whether the likelihood that Sea Slaves were used in 24 Defendants' Iams supply chain would be material to a 25 reasonable consumer;
- 26 c. Whether Defendants had a duty to disclose the 27 likelihood that Sea Slaves were used in its Iams 28 supply chain;
- d. Whether Defendants' nondisclosures were likely to deceive a reasonable consumer;
- e. Whether Defendants' conduct violates the UCL, FAL and CLRA;

f. Whether the challenged practices harmed Plaintiffs and members of the Class; and

g. Whether Plaintiffs and members of the Class are entitled to restitutionary, injunctive, or other relief.

67. A class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of this controversy, since joinder of all the individual Class Members is impracticable. Furthermore, because the restitution and/or damages suffered, and continue to be suffered, by each individual Class Member may be relatively small, the expense and burden of individual litigation would make it very difficult or impossible for individual Class Members to redress the wrongs done to each of them individually and the burden imposed on the judicial system would be enormous.

68. The prosecution of separate actions by the individual Class Members would create a risk of inconsistent or varying adjudications, which would establish incompatible standards of conduct for Defendants. In contrast, the conduct of this action as a class action presents far fewer management difficulties, conserves judicial resources and the parties' resources, and protects the rights of each Class Member.

VI. CAUSES OF ACTION

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION

VIOLATION OF THE CALIFORNIA UNFAIR COMPETITION LAW
(CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17200, ET SEQ.)

69. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference all paragraphs alleged herein.

70. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 prohibits any “unlawful, unfair, or fraudulent business act or practice.” Defendant have engaged in unlawful, and unfair, and fraudulent business acts and practices in violation of the UCL.

71. Defendants have violated the unlawful prong by virtue of its violations of the CLRA, as described below.

1 72. Defendants have violated the unfair prong of section 17200 because the 2 acts and practices set forth in the Complaint offend established public policies against 3 the use of slave labor and the sale of products tainted by the use of slave labor and 4 supporting truth in advertising to consumers. Defendants' participation in a supply 5 chain involving slave labor is immoral, unethical, oppressive, unscrupulous and 6 injurious to consumers. The harm that these acts and practices cause greatly 7 outweighs any benefits associated with them. Defendants' conduct also impairs 8 competition within the market for pet food, and prevents Plaintiffs and Class Members 9 from making fully informed decisions about the kind of pet food to purchase or the 10 price to pay for such products.

11 73. Defendants have violated the fraudulent prong of section 17200 because, 12 as set forth above, its material omissions were likely to deceive a reasonable consumer 13 and the true facts would be material to a reasonable consumer.

14 74. Defendants had a duty to disclose the likelihood of forced labor in their 15 supply chain, arising from (1) their superior knowledge of Defendants' supply chain 16 and the practices of its suppliers as compared to consumers, e.g. through Defendants' 17 years of experience marketing and distributing seafood-based pet food manufactured 18 in Thailand; and (2) their partial representations and/or misrepresentations to the 19 contrary, e.g., numerous corporate statements intended to show that Defendants do not 20 tolerate use of forced labor by its suppliers.

21 75. As alleged herein, Defendants failed to disclose the likelihood of slave 22 labor in their supply chain for Iams. Nor do Defendants disclose that despite their 23 awareness of slave labor in the Iams supply chain, they have not required their 24 suppliers to remedy the ongoing human rights abuses.

25 76. These omissions would be material to a reasonable consumer.

26 77. Reasonable consumers are likely to be deceived by Defendants' material 27 omissions.

1 78. Plaintiffs have suffered injury in fact, including the loss of money, as a 2 result of Defendants’ unlawful, unfair, and/or deceptive practices. Plaintiffs and 3 members of the Class were directly and proximately injured by Defendants’ conduct
4 and lost money as a result of Defendants’ material omissions, because they would not 5 have purchased nor paid as much for Iams had they known the truth.

6 79. All of the wrongful conduct alleged herein occurred, and continues to 7 occur, in the conduct of Defendants’ business. Defendants’ wrongful conduct is part 8 of a general practice that is still being perpetuated and repeated throughout the State of 9 California.

10 80. Plaintiffs request that this Court enter such orders or judgments as may be 11 necessary to enjoin Defendants from continuing its unfair and deceptive business 12 practices, to restore to Plaintiffs and members of the Class any money that Defendant 13 acquired by unfair competition, and to provide such other relief as set forth below.

14 81. Plaintiffs are entitled to an award of reasonable attorneys’ fees under 15 California Code of Civil Procedure Section 1021.5 for the benefit conferred upon the 16 general public of the State of California by any injunctive or other relief entered 17 herein.

18 SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION

19 VIOLATIONS OF THE CONSUMERS LEGAL REMEDIES ACT
20 (CAL. CIV. CODE § 1750, ET SEQ.)

21 82. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference all paragraphs alleged 22 herein.

23 83. Defendants are “persons” under Cal. Civ. Code § 1761(c).

24 84. Plaintiffs and Class members are “consumers,” as defined by Cal. Civ.
25 Code § 1761(d), who purchased Defendants’ Iams.

26 85. Cal. Civ. Code § 1770(a)(2) prohibits “[m]isrepresenting the source, 27 sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services.”

28 86. Cal. Civ. Code § 1770(a)(5) prohibits “[r]epresenting that goods or 1 services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or 2 quantities which they do not have....”

3 87. Cal. Civ. Code § 1770(a)(7) prohibits “[r]epresenting that goods or 4 services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular 5 style or model, if they are of another.”

6 88. Defendants violated these provisions of the CLRA by misrepresenting the 7 source, characteristics, and standard of Iams cat food in omitting disclosure of material 8 aspects thereof.

9 89. As alleged herein, Defendants failed to disclose the likelihood of slave 10 labor in their supply chain for Iams. Nor do Defendants disclose that despite their 11 awareness of slave labor in the Iams supply chain, they have not required their 12 suppliers to remedy the ongoing human rights abuses.

13 90. These omissions would be material to a reasonable consumer.

14 91. Reasonable consumers are likely to be deceived by Defendants’ material 15 omissions.

16 92. Plaintiffs and members of the Class were directly and proximately injured 17 by Defendants’ conduct and lost money as a result of Defendants’ material omissions, 18 because they would not have purchased nor paid as much for Iams had they known the 19 truth.

20 93. In accordance with Civil Code § 1780 (a), Plaintiffs and Class Members 21 seek restitutionary, injunctive and equitable relief for Defendants’ violations of the 22 CLRA. Plaintiffs request that this Court enter such orders or judgments as may be 23 necessary to restore to any person in interest any money which may have been 24 acquired by means of such unfair business practices, and for such other relief, 25 including attorneys’ fees and costs, as provided in Civil Code § 1780 and the Prayer 26 for Relief. In addition, after mailing appropriate notice and demand in accordance 27 with Civil Code § 1782(a) & (d), Plaintiffs will amend this Class Action Complaint to 28

1 include a request for damages.

2 94. Plaintiffs include an affidavit with this Complaint reflecting that venue in 3 this District is proper, to the extent such an affidavit is required by Cal. Civ. Code 4 § 1780(d) in federal court.

5 THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION

6 VIOLATIONS OF THE FALSE ADVERTISING LAW
7 (CAL. BUS. & PROF CODE §§ 17500, ET SEQ.)

8 95. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference all paragraphs alleged 9 herein.

10 96. California Business & Professions Code §§ 17500, et seq. (the “FAL”) broadly proscribes deceptive advertising in this State. Section 17500 makes it 11 unlawful for any corporation intending to sell products or perform services to make 12 any statement in advertising those products or services concerning any circumstance 13 or matter of fact connected with the proposed performance or disposition thereof, 14 which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of 15 reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading, or not to sell those 16 products or services as advertised at the price stated therein, or as so advertised.

17 97. When the seller has a duty to disclose material facts about a product, the 18 sale of the product to consumers without disclosure of such material facts runs afoul of 19 the FAL.

20 98. As alleged herein, Defendants failed to disclose the likelihood of slave 21 labor in their supply chain for Iams. Nor do Defendants disclose that despite their 22 awareness of slave labor in the Iams supply chain, they have not required their 23 suppliers to remedy the ongoing human rights abuses.

24 99. Defendants had a duty to disclose the likelihood of forced labor in their 25 supply chain, arising from (1) their superior knowledge of Defendants’ supply chain 26 and the practices of their suppliers as compared to consumers, e.g. through 27 Defendants’ years of experience marketing and distributing seafood-based pet food 28

1 manufactured in Thailand; and (2) their partial representations and/or 2 misrepresentations to the contrary, e.g., numerous corporate statements intended to 3 show that Defendants do not tolerate use of forced labor by its suppliers.

4 100. These omissions would be material to a reasonable consumer.

5 101. Reasonable consumers are likely to be deceived by Defendants' material 6 omissions.

7 102. Defendants know or reasonably should know that the marketing and sale 8 of its Iams was and is deceptive.

9 103. Plaintiffs have suffered injury in fact, including the loss of money, as a 10 result of Defendants' unlawful, unfair, and/or deceptive practices. Plaintiffs and 11 members of the Class were directly and proximately injured by Defendants' conduct
12 and lost money as a result of Defendants' material omissions, because they would not 13 have purchased nor paid as much for Iams had they known the truth.

14 104. All of the wrongful conduct alleged herein occurred, and continues to 15 occur, in the conduct of Defendants' business. Defendants' wrongful conduct is part 16 of a general practice that is still being perpetuated and repeated throughout the State of 17 California.

18 105. Plaintiffs request that this Court enter such orders or judgments as may be 19 necessary to enjoin Defendants from continuing its deceptive advertising, to restore to 20 Plaintiffs and members of the Class any money that Defendant unlawfully acquired, 21 and to provide such other relief as set forth below.

22 106. Plaintiffs are entitled to an award of reasonable attorneys' fees under 23 California Code of Civil Procedure Section 1021.5 for the benefit conferred upon the 24 general public of the State of California by any injunctive or other relief entered 25 herein.

26 PRAYER FOR RELIEF

27 WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs, individually and on behalf of all others similarly

1 situated, respectfully request that this Court enter a judgment against Defendants and 2 in favor of Plaintiffs, and grant the following relief:

3 A. Determine that this action may be maintained as a class action with 4 respect to the Class identified herein and certify it as such under Rules 23(b)(2) and/or 5 23(b)(3), or alternatively certify all issues and claims that are appropriately certified, 6 and designate and appoint Plaintiffs as Class Representatives and their counsel as 7 Class Counsel;

8 B. Declare, adjudge and decree the conduct of Defendants as alleged herein 9 to be unlawful, unfair and/or deceptive;

10 C. Enjoin Defendants from continuing the unfair and deceptive marketing 11 and sale of its Iams;

12 D. Award Plaintiffs and the Class restitution of all monies paid to 13 Defendants as a result of its unfair and deceptive business practices;

14 E. Award Plaintiffs and the Class reasonable attorneys' fees, costs, and pre-15 and post-judgment interest; and 16 F. Award Plaintiffs and the Class such other further and different relief as 17 the nature of the case may require or as may be determined to be just, equitable, and 18 proper by this Court.

20 Plaintiffs, by counsel, request a trial by jury for all claims so triable.

Attorneys for Plaintiffs and the Proposed Class

DECLARATION RE: CLRA VENUE

I, Christina Wirth, do hereby declare and state as follows:

1. I am a party plaintiff in the above captioned action. Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code § 1780(d), I make this declaration in support of the Class Action Complaint and the claim therein for relief under Cal. Civ. Code § 1780(a). I have personal knowledge of the facts stated herein and, if necessary, could competently testify thereto.

2. This action for relief under Cal. Civ. Code § 1780(a) has been commenced in a county that is a proper place for trial of this action because defendants in the above captioned case do business throughout the State of California.

This declaration is signed under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California this 9th day of September 2015.
