ADD, Autism and Tourettes

ADD

In my family I have seen results from the transfer factors, for both an aunt with Hepatitis and my son with ADD.

ADD

My kids baby-sit and are exposed to runny noses, viruses, etc., yet don't get sick. This gets me excited about TF and the opportunity. I have also seen results on ADD and allergy problems.

AUTISM

I have a 4 year old who is autistic. We began giving him TF in Nov. along with many vitamins and supplements that he was taking. He is also being treated for mercury toxicity and doing behavioral therapy. At his recent birthday party, several parents were amazed at the difference in him from a year ago. He has certainly gone from being the sickest person to the least sick person in our house. When you are not sick you can learn better. His progress with TF led me to become a distributor and everyone in our house now is on TF.

AUTISM

Julie's son was born perfectly normal. At 18 months he had a MMR vaccination and shortly thereafter ran a dangerously high fever and developed Autism. She tried everything and finally started buying milk form nursing mothers. It helped but the supply ran out. She heard about TF from a friend and started giving it to her son along with a low sugar diet, Vitamin B6 and amino acids. He is no longer diagnosed with autism and is living a normal life again.

Julie, UT.

AUTISM

Things we noticed when we put our son who autistic on TF: Kostya (3 year old) appetite had greatly improved. He is now saying a simple few words; many do not talk until they are 5-7 years old. He is more intelligent in his playing behavior. He has stopped mouthing everything. We never noticed any improvement after sessions with the specialists. Since taking TF we have seen

AUTISM

I recommended 4Life™ Transfer Factor™ to the mother of an autistic 5-year-old. She says that there is a 300% improvement over the last 2-1/2 months.

AUTISM

My son was perfectly normal at birth. He loved music. He would sing and dance. Some of the best video footage we have of him is right before he got his 18-month inoculations. We are in a band and we would let him come up and sing the last song with us. That night he was just perfect as always.

The next day we took him to get his shot and he started screaming and convulsing and ran a fever for three months. His temp averaged 104. The Tylenol kept it down to around 101 degrees. He never spoke again... He was talking a little before this ... He would say, "hi, mommy, daddy, bye, doggie, kitty," small words like that. But from then on he has never said another word. Then he began banging his head against the wall and hurting himself. The most disturbing of all was when he tried to dig his eyeballs out of the sockets. He was always sick and on antibiotics. I have a degree in chemistry and I used to be in cancer research. I had to quit working so I could take care of my son. He had been on so many antibiotics that eventually we would have to life flight him to IV antibiotics.

Once they told us they had no antibiotics left, they had to fly in some experimental high-level antibiotics. Now we were faced with what do we do now!! What if the next antibiotics don't work either? They told us not to think about it.

I started researching on the immune system, the only thing that might build up his immune system. Breast milk was the only thing we found his body would tolerate. I got donations from mothers at the hospital and we noticed as he was using this breast milk, the autism started going away. We were amazed! He stopped hurting himself and began making eye contact. He started hugging us and all of the doctors were amazed, too. So now we knew we had to supply this boy with three servings of breast milk a day, 8oz. each.

The hospital decided this was a risk and stopped the program. Then he began hurting himself again and I would get breast milk whenever I could. Then we were told about Patented Transfer Factor, and as far as we could tell, we were getting the same results if not better than the breast milk. This is how we came to know about Transfer Factor

My son is no longer considered autistic. We can tell when he does not get his transfer factor. We also took him off cow's milk and added antioxidants to his diet.

AUTISM

We met a family who had a child who had just been diagnosed with Autism. They were distraught. They were told that there was nothing that could be done for this child. They had been told that it could be the result of vaccination and the father was not prepared to look at that, but I presented some information from the U. S. He said that he would never forgive himself if he never gave this child some transfer factors. I received a fax which said "Since using the transfer factors, some changes have occurred. His appetite has greatly improved. He has started eating chicken and fish". Before this, they could barely get this child to eat anything. He is now saying a few words, simple words, but it is a start. Many Autistic children do not talk until they are 5 to 7 years old. He is saying; ball, car, who, "e" and "o". He is 3 years old. We hope he may talk earlier. His mother believes he is more intelligent in his playing and behavior. We can't prove the transfer factors did this, but we can't dismiss it either, therefore, we would some more. We never noticed any improvements after sessions with a Cranial Osteopath. Since we have used this, we have seen enough, that we don't want to stop. We were thrilled to receive this."

TOURETTES SYNDROME My son has tourettes syndrome. He's taking TF and Choice 50 (grapeseed extract) along with medication to stop the tics. He is doing great with this combination. I also have a son who is ADHD who is taking TF and Choice 50 along with the FibroAMJ night time. He sleeps well at night and has excellent grades in school. We are definitely a TF family.
