How do I stop my nose from always running?

My nose is running CONSTANTLY. It's basically a year-round cycle, and I'm getting sick of it. I've tried every kind of over-the-counter medicine there is, and none of them work. Zyrtec, Claritin, Equate, etc.

I DO have seasonal allergies, but that only affects my eyes, so I don't know if that has anything to do with it at all. And besides, my nose doesn't run during seasonal changes... it runs all the time. It's gross, and really embarrassing. especially in class. And there are usually no Kleenex boxes in the room so I have to sniff like a retard until it stops running. UGH. Can you please, please help me? If you know any method or anything at all that might be able to fix my problem... I would really, really appreciate it. THANK YOU.

Update: to the stupidass that said i should put a leash on my nose.. dude, GET SERIOUS. this is an urgent problem! why are you on this site if your not going to actually answer questions correctly? BIEEETCH.

Best Answer: You must have some imbalance in the body whatever it is. I wonder if some supplementation would help you. I say that as I take myself a supplement that has general positive influence on our immune system, but I've read numerous testimonials from many people who had different types of allergies and got rid of them using this fruit supplement. The name is Flavon max, and some more info is here: <http://flavon.org.uk> It might be tricky to get it, but if you really want contact the site owner.
