2013: The Year of the Stem Cell

2013 was named 'The Year of the Stem Cell' by The Associated Press. The Associated Press named it 'The Year of the Stem Cell' because of the many breakthroughs in stem cell research and the many people who have been cured of various diseases by stem cell therapy.

On March 1, 2013, Stemtech launched a major campaign 'Stem Cells for All' to help educate the world about stem cells and support the growing awareness.

June 2013, Dr. Allen Sarmiento PhD, MD released 'The Anatomy of Stem Cell Therapy', the first ever book written about Stem Cell Therapy. The response was so positive that it made the Best Seller List shortly after its release.
