What Are Flavonoids? Why flavonoids are good for you?

Flavonoids are plant-based compounds with powerful antioxidant properties, which means they reduce inflammation, promote healthy arteries, and help fight aging by preventing -- and repairing -- cellular damage. Flavonoids may also protect against dementia, Alzheimer's disease, and some cancers.

Flavon is a Hungarian product and the masterpiece of 40 years of research of Hungarian biochemist Prof.Dr. Zoltan Dinya .

It is fresh and bio-active absorbed in 95% into our blood stream. Antioxidants, flavonoids deactivate harmful free radicals, slow down aging processes, boost up immune system, have antibacterial , antiviral, anti-asthmatic and anti-allergic effects, have an important role in preventing malignant tumours, have a positive effects on the circulatory system and decrease the number of complications of diabetes.
