I give it 4 stars because I have only been taking it for 1 month so far. I have taken less than the recommended dosage because for me, it made me too energized for the first hour after taking it. I have been taking 1/2 to 3/4 of a teaspoon in the morning and the same dose in the afternoon. I have not taken it at night. I started taking it because my friend started taking it and loved it. For her the purple rice cleared up her red skin and made it smoother. It also seems to control her blood pressure and she no longer takes medication for that. It has lowered her cholesterol substantially and she feels great. She has energy and no aches and pains in her joints any longer. For me, I definitely have softer, smoother skin and my keratosis pilaris has completely cleared up. (This is a skin condition on my arms which causes rough skin and I get scabs.) I am wondering what my cholesterol is because it was about 220 last year. I am not due for an exam until April but I am curious about that. I have lost a couple of pounds, maybe because I have more energy and I am doing more. I really like it so far. I don't think I have taken it long enough to make a solid review, but so far so good!

The Alfa says:

Hi Ally, I wanted to thank you for your review, I understand your skepticism. What we found out is that anyone needs to take PXP (Forte or Royale) for at least 4 consecutive months you'll see great results. It is the time our cells change and develop (121 days and boom!) and if taken as indicated (1 or 2 teaspoons per day for maintenance and up to 6 tsp for a chronic disease). Best of luck, and for sure you have a wonderful friend that thought of your health. Blessings, and we are here to help you with any concern.
