Alternative 'medicine'

Ok, so I found the TCCC.UK website and Tim, the co-founder, his wife suffered Crohn's for 15 years. He advised taking the following products which worked to get rid of his wife's Crohn's:

Mannatech Glyconutrient
Forever Living Aloe Vera Juice
Forever Living Beepropolis

<http://www.mannapages.com/thechronicrohnscomp.../Country.aspx>
www.foreverliving.com

The beepropolis and aloe vera help heal damage done. The glyconutrients is the one that will get rid of problems. Basically it helps cells communicate better, gives them energy. It has had remarkable effects on MS, cancer, IBD, you name it. This is no joke. I started taking it during a flare and within 2 weeks my symptoms went and have stayed away.

You can order them through Tim Page's account. How it works is he can either take commission for sales or sell at the price he would by them for. He has dedicated his life to helping those with IBD and so chose to let people use his account.

Honestly, if nothing else, give the glyconutrient powder a try. Look on google for other people's experience. Type glyconutrient benefits or something like that.

Sparky Batten How do you get to Tim Page's account for the glyconutrients, and which ones did/do you take, as there's a lot of different ones on offer. Am approaching a year on varying doses of steroids as nothing else works on me, and this more natural stuff is a LOT more appealing than infliximab, remicade, cyclosporin or any other options they have left for me.

Thanks Mark

Hussein Najj Hi Mark,

How's your symptoms at the mo?

Take the Ambrotose Advance, either capsules or powder. The capsules are easier to take cause the powder is a bit mingling, but then you get less in the capsules. Either way, what it says to take on the pot is for healthy people, so when I started I took twice the dose. It's totally harmless & people with cancer take up to 6 times more.

Also, the aloe vera juice from Forever Living Products. This is the only proper 100% fresh aloe & helps heal damage as well as helps absorb the glyconutrients. It's the orange flavoured one. Beepropolis from FLP is also very good, and these are in tablet form.

Honestly, I was amazed as my symptoms disappeared within 2 weeks. Tim's wife had crohn's and taking these products put her into permanent remission. Another guy you could call up is 'Deep'. He recently started taking them after yrs of crohn's & is recovering with no drugs. He's also a member of this group as is Tim.

Tim's website: (has everything about what to take & how to order)
<http://www.communicate.co.uk/.../thechronic.../page18.phtml>

You can email/call him for his details. He is a great guy, really helpful. If his phone is off leave a message & he'll call back.

For 'Deep's' details (he's 19 but seriously on the ball)
<http://www.communicate.co.uk/.../thechronic.../page3.phtml>

Or, private message me your number & I'll ring you with details. But yeah there are alternatives to drugs & these are the ones that have helped me (I've been off drugs for over a yr now). From reading parts of this group, I hope you see why we are given these terrible drugs that just mask the situation.

The only downside is it is all a bit pricey. The aloe you have to buy £50 worth of stuff but there is a lot to choose from (ask Tim/Deep/me about flouride for a start). But at the end of the day, everyone I speak to who has taken it all, their symptoms have gone within 5 weeks.

Let me know what you've decided & keep in touch

Regards
Hus

Tim Page The Truth In What I Do

I am adding this as I do not want anyone to be put off glyconutrients, whether your interested in these from either of the 2 US company's, that I buy from. I personally am not a distributor or go around signing people up to either of these 2 US companies, but I have to be registered as a distributor with both of these US companies, to be able to buy at wholesale price from them, whether it is the strong aloe vera we use or the 8 to 9 glyconutrient powder. There is a US selling scheme behind them, but this has nothing to do with the quality of their products. In all the 7 years that I have known about these two companies that sell these glyconutrients I have been fully aware of these selling schemes, but you do not have to play a part in these selling schemes. I buy direct as I would from any wholesaler, and because of this, others can buy on my id number, meaning they can buy at wholesale price too. If I was a distributor I would be selling at retail price, but the difference between retail & wholesale price is passed on to those I am trying to help. My wife's story on my website is 100% true and has happened, witnessed by many, including a lot of the media.

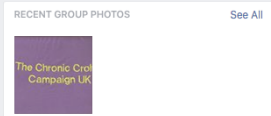

Glyconutrients actually work to help the immune system spot & destroy bad cells which lead to illness, it is called cell to cell communication. Aloe vera is a glyconutrient which also assists the immune system, helps your body absorb nutrient, it is an anti-inflammatory, detoxes the body of harmful chemicals, and more. Glyconutrients are natural plant sugars which aid healing. If I did not believe in these alternatives and all the work I have done with them over the last 7 years, helping many sufferers return to that quality of life they once knew, I certainly would not have bothered continuing to raise awareness to them. We can all continue to suffer with illnesses, but just sometimes, a person will do research, and find answers.
