Plaintiff Jennifer Habelito ("Plaintiff" or "Ms. Habelito"), individually and on behalf of all others similarly situated, alleges for her complaint against defendant Guthy-Renker LLC as follows:

SUMMARY OF THE CLAIMS

By means of this class action, Plaintiff seeks to redress the unlawful and deceptive 1. automatic renewal billing practices employed by defendant Guthy-Renker LLC in connection with its Proactiv brand line of skin care products. Plaintiff is informed and believes that Guthy-Renker LLC is a billion dollar plus company primarily engaged in the business of direct-response marketing of numerous types of products, including skin care, fitness, entertainment, and others types of goods through the internet, infomercials, commercials, and other types of marketing. Plaintiff is informed and believes that Defendant is the owner of the Proactiv brand line of skin care products, which account for the bulk of the company's revenue, and that it sells its Proactiv products primarily, if not exclusively, using so-called "negative option" billing programs. A "negative option" billing program is one in which a consumer, by means of his or her single purchase of a product, is automatically enrolled in continuous additional shipments of and charges for additional products at regular intervals in perpetuity until the consumer affirmatively opts-out of future deliveries. Such automatic renewal billing policies are recognized as plainly predatory in nature and, as a consequence, disfavored by law. Although such negative option billing programs are allowed, they are heavily regulated and permitted only if a seller meets certain legally prescribed requirements. As relevant here, and as set forth in detail below, California law specifically mandates that a seller may impose such an automatic billing policy upon a consumer only if the seller clearly and conspicuously discloses the terms of the automatic renewal policy to the consumer, obtains the consumer's express and affirmative consent to the specific automatic renewal terms, provides a written acknowledgment to the consumer of the terms of the policy in a manner capable of being retained by the consumer, provides a cancellation policy that meets certain detailed requirements, and covers the costs of shipment for any product returned by a consumer that was shipped in violation of these requirements. See Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17600 et seq.

As set forth in detail below, Defendant's own conduct with respect to its Proactiv 2. products violates each of these and other requirements, giving rise to claims for violation of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17600, violation of the California Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code § 1750, violation of California' unfair competition law, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200, fraud, negligence, and breach of contract, and entitling Plaintiff and the class she seeks to represent to compensatory and actual damages for all unauthorized billings and shipping costs, restitution and disgorgement of ill-gotten gains, injunctive relief, punitive damages, attorneys' fees, costs of suit, and all such other further relief authorized by these statutes.

THE PARTIES

- Plaintiff Jennifer Habelito is an individual and is and was at all relevant times 3. herein a citizen of California.
- On information and belief, defendant Guthy-Renker LLC is a California limited 4. liability company with its corporate headquarters and principal place of business at 3340 Ocean Park Boulevard, Santa Monica, California, 90405, which is within Los Angeles County (Guthy-Renker LLC is herein sometimes referred to herein as "Defendant," "Proactiv," and/or "Guthy-Renker").
- The true names and capacities, whether individual, corporate, associate or 5. otherwise, of the defendants named herein as DOES 1 through 10, inclusive, are unknown to Plaintiff and Plaintiff therefore sues said defendants by such fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to show their true names and capacities when ascertained. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and on that basis alleges, that each of such fictitiously named defendants is responsible in some manner for the matters herein alleged.
- Plaintiff is informed and believes, and on that basis alleges, that at all times 6. mentioned herein Defendants were the agents, servants, employees, or alter ego of their co-Defendants and, in doing the things hereinafter mentioned, were acting within the scope of their authority as such agents, servants, and employees, with the permission and consent of their co-Defendants.
 - Plaintiff brings this action on behalf of herself, on behalf of the general public as a 7.

Private Attorney General pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure § 1021.5 and on behalf of a class of similarly situated persons pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure § 382 and Civil Code § 1781.

JURISDICTION & VENUE

- 8. This Court has jurisdiction over all causes of action asserted herein pursuant to the California Constitution, Article VI, § 10, because this case is a cause not given by statute to other trial courts.
- 9. This Court has general personal jurisdiction over defendant Guthy-Renker LLC because it has systematic and continuous contacts with the state of California in that it is a California limited liability company, is registered with the California Secretary of State to do business in California, is headquartered in Santa Monica, California, and conducts large volumes of sales within California. The Court also has specific personal jurisdiction over Guthy-Renker LLC because the claims alleged herein arise directly from its specific contacts with the state of California, namely its sales of Proactiv products to California citizens using billing programs that violate California law.
- 10. Venue is proper in this Court pursuant to California Civil Procedure Code §§ 393 and 395.5 and Civil Code § 1780(d) because, among other reasons, Defendant resides in Los Angeles County, is headquartered in Los Angeles County, conducts sales transactions within Los Angeles County that are the subject of this complaint, and because Plaintiff's and the Class's claims arose here.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Proactiv's Automatic Renewal Billing Policies

11. As referenced above, defendant Guther-Renker LLC owns the Proactiv line of skin care products and also owns and operates the website, www.proactiv.com, which sells the products online. The website offers, among other things, group packages of skin care products ranging from $19.95 to $29.95. After a consumer selects a package to purchase and places his or her order online, the website proceeds to take the consumer's payment via credit card and collects the consumer's shipping/delivery information. The website then generates an e-mail confirmation of the purchase, after which the ordered goods are shipped to the consumer in a box that contains both the products and a physical receipt of the purchase.

- 12. The website fails to disclose, however, or fails to adequately disclose in a clear and conspicuous manner, that Proactiv will charge the consumer again one to three months later for another shipment the consumer never ordered, and that Proactiv will continue to charge the consumer in perpetuity at regular intervals for new and additional shipments on a continuing basis. To the extent any reference is made to these continuing shipments on the Proactiv website, there are no disclosures presented in a clear and conspicuous manner, as that term is defined by statute as described below. Rather, any such renewal terms are presented in violation of California law, as described herein, in a small or less conspicuous font than the surrounding text, or in the same font as the surrounding text, in a manner designed to prevent the consumer from noticing the terms. Indeed, any such terms are buried after other terms regarding free gifts to consumers that appear in a larger font, in an apparent attempt by Proactiv to distract consumers from the later, smaller fonted terms regarding automatic renewal that appear afterward, all in violation of California law, as described herein.
- 13. The Proactiv website does not even allow consumers the option of making a single time purchase. Rather, every purchase through the Proactiv website automatically enrolls every consumer in Proactiv's auto-delivery and automatic renewal billing policy.
- 14. Likewise, Proactiv does not allow any consumers the option of making a single time purchase. Rather, every other means of purchase of Proactiv product, including for example through a phone order, automatically enrolls every consumer in Proactiv's auto-delivery and automatic renewal billing policy.
- 15. Proactiv never obtains the consumer's affirmative consent to any automatic renewal terms. During the purchase process, Proactiv never requires the consumer to affirmatively check or click any box or button stating that the consumer agrees specifically to the automatic renewal terms, or otherwise have the consumer agree specifically to the automatic renewal terms. Indeed, on the initial webpage where an order's terms are presented, Proactiv nowhere asks the consumer to check or click any box expressly or affirmatively agreeing to any terms and conditions. Rather, a consumer most scroll down a lengthy webpage, enter the consumer's credit card information at the bottom of the page, and only after then clicking a box labeled "continue your order" is a consumer asked to finally click his assent to Proactiv's "terms". But the "terms and conditions" linked to on the bottom of the website say nothing regarding automatic renewal of future charges and shipments. Rather, those terms are silent as to any automatic renewal, or future shipments or charges. And, at the time that a consumer is finally asked to click his assert to Proactiv's terms, which are silent as to automatic renewal billing, any terms previously provided to the consumer in inconspicuous and unclear language in violation of California law are no longer presented on screen.

- 16. The e-mail confirmation of purchase sent by Proactiv also fails to disclose at all, or adequately disclose, the automatic renewal terms or provide consumers with any contact information they can use to call Proactiv to cancel the automatic renewal. Indeed, the e-mail confirmation is silent as to these issues. Likewise, any paper receipts included with the physical shipment, putting aside that they often arrive 2-3 weeks after the initial order when it is too late to cancel the next shipment, also fail to adequately disclose the renewal terms in a clear and conspicuous manner.
- 17. Proactiv further allows consumers to access their account via the Proactiv website, where consumers can login to access their account information, track their order, and modify the frequency of future shipments. The online access, however, does not allow consumers to cancel via the website.
- 18. Plaintiff is informed and believes that all other non-internet orders of Proactiv, for example including telephone orders, likewise impose upon consumers auto-delivery and automatic renewal and billing for future shipments, and that Defendant's representations or omissions during these non-internet orders regarding its automatic billing policy are the same as during its internet orders, and/or do not differ in any material way.
- 19. Plaintiff is informed and believes that Proactiv's prescribed intervals for automatic redelivery of unordered merchandise impose upon consumers more product they want or could even use before Proactiv sends them yet another shipment of product. On information and belief, in crafting its automatic delivery and billing polices, Proactiv has focused simply on profits, maximizing its revenue by imposing upon consumers as much unwanted product as possible and charging them accordingly, regardless of the frequency with which an individual consumer might even need replacement.

20. To the extent that a consumer, surprised by an unwanted additional shipment of products and an associated unauthorized charge, calls Proactiv to complain and cancel, Proactiv makes it unreasonably difficult to do so, often refuses, and, in any event, requires that the consumer ship unwanted, unordered products back at the consumer's own expense, in violation of California law, as described herein.

Plaintiff's Facts

- 21. Plaintiff Jennifer Habelito ordered a shipment of Proactiv products online in or around September 2011, and believed that it was a one-time transaction due to the lack of any disclosures, or clear and conspicuous disclosures, throughout the ordering process. Indeed, Plaintiff noticed no automatic renewal terms on the website at all. Plaintiff never gave her explicit consent or affirmative consent to any automatic renewal terms. Plaintiff received an e-mail confirmation of the purchase, which did not include any information regarding the automatic renewal terms nor any reference to a means to cancel.
- 22. Plaintiff later received the shipment of the products she ordered, along with a receipt that again did not disclose any automatic renewal terms in a clear and conspicuous manner. Plaintiff believed that was the end of her transaction.
- 23. Yet, just a few weeks later, before Plaintiff had even come close to finishing her supply of the products she initially ordered, she was surprised to receive an additional shipment of product and learn that she had been charged again but for products she never ordered nor needed. Moreover, Plaintiff learned that Proactiv had improperly modified the amount of products from her initial order and the correspondence price. Had Plaintiff known of Defendant's plan to automatically charge her for such additional and different amounts, she would never have contracted with Defendant for her initial purchase in the first place.
 - 24. Plaintiff called to complain, was informed for the first time of Proactiv's automatic renewal and cancellation policies by a Proactiv customer service representative, and was informed that to send the additional unwanted products back she would have to do so at her own expense. Plaintiff explained that she never consented to an automatic renewal of her order. Yet Proactiv unlawfully charged Ms. Habelito for automatic renewals of her order, imposing one or more charges for products beyond her initial purchase.

25. As set forth below, Proactiv's billing practices described above are unlawful and give rise to liability under various California state statutes and common law. As authorized by statute and in compliance with the provisions of the California Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code § 1782, Plaintiff, on or about October 26, 2012, gave notice to Defendant of her intention to file an action for monetary damages under CLRA § 1750 et seq, on behalf of herself and all other similarly situated, unless Defendant agreed to rectify its fraudulent billing practice by making restitution to all consumers who were charged for shipments of Proactiv products beyond their initial orders. Plaintiff's counsel has since engaged in several discussions with Defendant and its counsel regarding potential resolutions to this matter, but Defendant has so far indicated it disputes liability and prefers to proceed to litigation.

CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

26. This case is brought as a class action pursuant to California Civil Procedure Code § 382. Plaintiff seeks certification of this action as a class action on behalf of the following defined class (the "Class"):

Class Definition: All California citizens who, during the applicable statute of limitations period, purchased Proactiv products from Defendant and, as a result of their purchase, were automatically enrolled in Defendant's automatic delivery and automatic renewal billing policy and charged for additional products and shipments beyond their initial purchase.

Plaintiff reserves the right under California Rule of Court 3.765 to amend or modify the class description with greater particularity or further division into subclasses or limitation to particular issues.

27. Defendant has engaged in a common course of misconduct by maintaining a practice of automatically billing customers for additional products beyond their initial purchase without adequately disclosing that it would do so and also by refusing to refund charges for such repeat shipments when consumers call to complain.

- 28. Membership in the Class is so numerous that separate joinder of each member is impracticable. The number of Class members is unknown, but can be readily determined from Defendant's records.
- 29. Plaintiff is a member of the Class of victims described herein. Plaintiff contracted with Defendant for a single purchase of Proactiv products, Defendant did not effectively disclose its automatic renewal policy to Plaintiff, Defendant imposed automatically renewed shipments and charges upon Plaintiff, refused to refund Plaintiff when she complained of the unwanted additional shipment(s), purported to require Plaintiff to have to pay the shipping charges for the unwanted additional product, and Plaintiff suffered monetary damage as a result.
- 30. There are numerous and substantial questions of law and fact common to all Class members that control this litigation and predominate over any individual issues. Included within these common questions are:
 - a. Whether Defendant has a corporate policy of automatically billing Proactiv purchasers for continuous, repeated, additional shipments of products;
 - b. Whether Defendant discloses its automatic billing policy to consumers at all;
 - c. Whether Defendant discloses its automatic billing policy to consumers in a clear and conspicuous manner as required by law;
 - d. Whether Defendant has a corporate policy of refusing to refund charges for additional unauthorized shipments when consumers learn of unauthorized charges and call to complain;
 - e. Whether Defendant obtains consumers' express and/or affirmative consent to its automatic billing policy;
 - f. Whether Defendant provides to consumers a proper written acknowledgement of the terms of its automatic billing policy;
 - g. Whether Defendant's cancellation policies and procedures comply with California

CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT

1	d. Without a class action, Class members will have suffered damages and Defendant
2	will have been allowed to retain the substantial proceeds derived from its wrongful
3	and unlawful conduct.
1
4	FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION (Violation of California's Automatic-Renewal Law,
5 6	Business & Professions Code § 17600 et seq., By All Plaintiffs Against All Defendants)
7	34. Plaintiff hereby incorporates by reference each of the preceding paragraphs as
8	though fully set forth herein.
9	35. California Business & Professions Code § 17600 declares that: "It is the intent of
10	the Legislature to end the practice of ongoing charging of consumer credit or debit cards or third
11	party payment accounts without the consumers' explicit consent for ongoing shipments of a
12	product or ongoing deliveries of service" (emphasis added).
13	36. To effectuate that goal, § 17602(a) states:
14	(a) It shall be unlawful for any business making an automatic renewal or continuous service offer to a consumer in this state to do any of the following:
15	(1) Fail to present the automatic renewal offer terms or continuous service
16	offer terms in a clear and conspicuous manner before the subscription or purchasing agreement is fulfilled and in visual proximity to the request for consent to the offer.
17
18 19	(2) Charge the consumer's credit or debit card or for an automatic renewal or continuous service without first obtaining the consumer's affirmative consent to the agreement containing the automatic renewal
20	offer terms or continuous service offer terms.
21	(3) Fail to provide an acknowledgment that includes the automatic renewal or continuous service offer terms, cancellation policy, and information regarding how to cancel in a manner that is capable of being retained by
22	the consumer.
23	(b) A business making automatic renewal or continuous service offers shall provide a toll-free telephone number, electronic mail address, a postal address only
24	when the seller directly bills the consumer, or another cost-effective, timely, and easy-to-use mechanism for cancellation that shall be described in the
25	acknowledgment specified in paragraph (3) of subdivision (a).
26	(c) In the case of a material change in the terms of the automatic renewal or
27	continuous service offer that has been accepted by a consumer in this state, the business shall provide the consumer with a clear and conspicuous notice of the
28	material change and provide information regarding how to cancel in a manner that is capable of being retained by the consumer.

button stating that the consumer agrees specifically to the automatic renewal terms, or otherwise have the consumer agree specifically to the automatic renewal terms. At the end of the online order form, Proactiv does require the consumer to check a box indicating that it agrees to Proactiv's "terms," but the "terms and conditions" linked to on the bottom of the website say nothing regarding automatic renewal of future charges and shipments (and, even if they did, that would be insufficient, because agreement to terms and conditions as a whole does not constitute explicit and affirmative consent specifically to the automatic renewal terms).

Second, putting aside that Proactiv never obtains consumers' explicit or 41. affirmative consent specifically to the automatic renewal terms, Proactiv violates § 17602(a)(1) because its automatic renewal terms are never even disclosed properly to consumers in a clear and conspicuous manner, as "clear and conspicuous" is defined by § 17601(c), nor in visual proximity to the request for consent to the offer. The terms are not displayed in "larger type than the surrounding text," "in contrasting type, font, or color to surrounding text of the same size," or "set off from the surrounding text of the same size by symbols or other marks" in a manner that "clearly calls attention to the language." Rather, the terms appear in the same size and font as the description of the product being purchased, and the terms appear in smaller font than the immediately preceding text regarding the consumer's free gift, which appears in all caps whereas the automatic renewal terms do not. There is no setoff of the automatic renewal terms from other terms, nor any symbols marking the automatic renewal terms. The terms provided are therefore not intended to "clearly call attention to the language" regarding automatic renewal, but to bury that language after a larger display about a free gift and distract consumers from the automatic renewal language. Moreover, the automatic renewal terms are not displayed in visual proximity to the request for consent from the consumer to the offer. To the contrary, the button a consumer clicks to place the order and consent to terms is at the bottom of the online order form webpage, where a consumer must scroll down far away from the inconspicuous automatic renewal terms, which appear closer to the top of the page. Indeed, it would be impossible on nearly any computer screen to have the automatic renewal terms and the consent button appear on the screen at the same time.

- 42. Third, even if the disclosures made by Proactiv were clear and conspicuous and in appropriate visual proximity, which they are not, they do not address each issue required to be addressed by §17601(b)(1)-(5) and 17602(a)(1). On the online order form Proactiv does not adequately describe its cancellation policy (failing, among other things, to inform consumers that they will improperly be forced to incur shipment charges to return unwanted and unordered merchandise or provide a cancellation number to call). Proactiv also fails to tell consumers that the future amounts charged may change from the initial amounts, as occurred with Plaintiff. Proactiv further fails to specifically inform consumers that the future shipments will continue in perpetuity.
- 43. Fourth, Proactiv violates § 17602(a)(3) because it does not provide a proper acknowledgement to the consumer of his or her order that contains the automatic renewal terms. Rather, as referenced above, the confirmation e-mail is silent as to automatic renewal, silent as to the cancellation policy, and silent as to how to cancel future shipments. The paper receipt included with the physical shipment is likewise insufficient because, putting aside that it arrives too late, weeks after the order when the future shipment is already in the works, it does not adequately disclose any of these terms either, or at least not in a clear and conspicuous manner.
- 44. Finally, Proactiv violates § 17603 because it charges consumers for unwanted merchandise and requires that the consumer pay for shipping charges if he or she desires to return the merchandise, when in fact the unordered merchandise should be treated as an unconditional gift without obligation to Proactiv, including no obligation to pay for return shipping charges.
- 45. Plaintiff is informed and believes that Proactiv's violations of these provisions occur in the same way with respect to non-internet orders, as alleged above, and that Defendant's disclosures, if any, during other such orders regarding its automatic billing policy are the same or similar as with its internet orders and do not differ in any material way.
- 46. Plaintiff, on behalf of herself and all others similarly situated, seeks all available remedies for Defendant's violations of these provisions, pursuant to California Business & Professions Code § 17604, including, among other things, compensatory and actual damages, restitution, injunctive relief, any statutory damages authorized by law, punitive damages,

1	attorneys' fees, and costs of suit.
2 3 4	SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION (Violation of California Consumer Legal Remedies Act, California Civil Code § 1750 et seq., By All Plaintiffs Against All Defendants)
5	47. Plaintiff hereby incorporates by reference each of the preceding paragraphs as
6	though fully set forth herein.
7	48. This cause of action is brought pursuant to the California Consumer Legal
8	Remedies Act, California Civil Code § 1750 et seq. (the "CLRA").
9	49. This action may be maintained as a class action under § 1781 of the CLRA for the
10	reasons set forth above.
11	50. Plaintiff and all of the members of the Class are "consumers" within the meaning
12	of CLRA §§ 1761(d) and 1770(a) in that Plaintiff and all members of the Class purchased
13	products from Defendant for personal, family, or household purposes.
14	51. The CLRA protects consumers against "unfair and deceptive business practices"
15	and is to be "liberally construed" to achieve that purpose. See Cal. Civil Code § 1760.
16	52. The CLRA prohibits 23 specific business practices. Id. § 1770. As relevant here,
17	the CLRA specifically prohibits:
18	(4) Using deceptive representations or designations of geographic origin in connection with goods or services.
19	(5) Representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval,
20	characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities which they do not have or that a person has a sponsorship, approval, status, affiliation, or connection which
21	he or she does not have.
22	(9) Advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised.
23	(14) Representing that a transaction confers or involves rights, remedies, or obligations which it does not have or involve, or which are prohibited by law.
2425	(16) Representing that the subject of a transaction has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not.
26	(19) Inserting an unconscionable provision in the contract.
27	LL $ 1770(a) (amphasis added). Propotives hilling prostices violate these provisions due to
28	Id. § 1770(a) (emphasis added). Proactiv's billing practices violate these provisions due to Proactiv's lack of disclosures or adequate disclosures discussed above.

- 53. Proactiv violates §1770(a)(4) because, due to its inadequate disclosures, it deceptively represents to consumers that their transactions involve a one-time fee, when in fact Proactiv later goes on to charge consumers additional amounts for later, unordered products.
- 54. Proactiv violates § 1770(a)(5) because, due to its inadequate disclosures, it represents that its goods shipped to consumers will involve a single quantity, when in fact Proactiv goes on to ship additional unordered quantities to consumers and impose additional unauthorized charges.
- 55. Proactiv violates § 1770(a)(9) because, due to its inadequate disclosures, it advertises its goods as involving a single shipment of one set of products, when in fact the products offered by Proactiv come with an inadequately disclosed and illegal obligation toward future shipments and charges.
- 56. Proactiv violates § 1770(a)(14) because, due to its inadequate disclosures, Proactiv's transactions with consumers do not legally obligate consumers to pay for additional, future, unordered products, yet Proactiv charges consumers for such additional products anyway, representing that consumers are, in fact, obligated to pay for them when they are not.
- 57. Proactiv violates § 1770(a)(16) because it represents that its future shipments are in accordance with the parties' initial transaction, when in fact, due to Proactiv's inadequate disclosures, Proactiv cannot legally charge consumers for these future shipments.
- 58. Proactiv violates § 1770(a)(19) because its automatic renewal terms are unconscionable because, among other reasons, they are not adequately disclosed, but also because they impose upon consumers unreasonable amounts of product that they cannot possibly use. The amounts of cream and lotions in Proactiv's bottles are so large that a reasonable customer would not have consumed anywhere near the total amount before Proactiv sends the customer additional, unordered, unauthorized shipments. As a result, consumers are left stuck with a bill for months and months of unordered products, and mountains of skin care products in amounts larger than they know what to do with.
 - 59. As referenced above, Plaintiff complied with the requirements of Cal. Civ. Code §

1782 by providing to Defendant on or around October 26, 2012, a letter outlining her and the Class's claims asserted here. The letter was sent via certified mail, return receipt requested and received.

60. Plaintiff, on behalf of herself and the Class, seeks all remedies authorized by the CLRA, including actual damages, injunctive relief, restitution, punitive damages, any other relief that the court deems proper, attorneys' fees, and costs of suit.

THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION

(Unfair Competition in Violation of California Business & Professions Code § 17200 et seq., By All Plaintiffs Against All Defendants)

- 61. Plaintiff hereby incorporates by reference each of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.
- Code § 17200 et seq., makes actionable "any unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice and unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising." See Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 (emphasis added). It allows plaintiffs to seek injunctive relief as well as restitution. Id. § 17203. The law's scope "is quite broad. . . . Because the statute is framed in the disjunctive, a business practice need only meet one of the three criteria to be considered unfair competition.

 McKell v. Wash. Mutual, Inc., 142 Cal. App. 4th 1457, 1471 (2006). Here, Defendant's practice meets all three criteria, any of which would be sufficient to give rise to liability.
- 63. Defendant's practice is "unlawful" because it violates the Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17600 et seq. and the CLRA, as set forth above.
- 64. The practice is also "unfair" because it "violates established public policy" and "is immoral, unethical, oppressive or unscrupulous and causes injury to consumers which outweighs its benefits," see id. at 1473, and because it threatens incipient violations of the antitrust laws, including by having anticompetitive and price-fixing effects. Indeed, there is no benefit to Proactiv's deceptive practice. As set forth above, the practice leaves consumers left stuck with a bill for months and months of unordered products, and mountains of skin care products in amounts larger than they know what to do with, and does not even allow consumers the option of making a one-time purchase.

- The practice is also "fraudulent." In explaining what is actionable under the 65. "fraudulent" prong of the unfair competition law, the courts have held that "[a] fraudulent business practice is one which is likely to deceive the public. . . It may be based on representations to the public which are untrue, and 'also those which may be accurate on some level, but will nonetheless tend to mislead or deceive. . . . A perfectly true statement couched in such a manner that it is likely to mislead or deceive the consumer, such as by failure to disclose other relevant information, is actionable under' the [unfair competition law].... The determination as to whether a business practice is deceptive is based on the likely effect such a practice would have on a reasonable consumer." Id. at 1471-72 (citations omitted). As explained above, in numerous instances Proactiv completely fails to disclose the terms of its automatic renewal policy. At a minimum, it fails to disclose these terms in a clear and conspicuous manner. Proactiv's conduct therefore constitutes fraudulent misrepresentations and/or omissions that are likely to mislead the public regarding the true facts concerning Proactiv's automatic billing practices and results in great harm to consumers by way unauthorized charges for unwanted services.
- 66. Defendant was unjustly enriched because Class members paid excessive, unauthorized charges beyond those associated with their initial purchase.
- 67. Pursuant to California Business & Professions Code § 17203, Plaintiff and the Class she seeks to represent are therefore entitled to: (a) an order requiring Defendant to cease the acts of unfair competition alleged herein; (b) an order enjoining Defendant from continuing to utilize this deceptive scheme; (c) full restitution and disgorgement by Defendant of all profits received by Defendant as a result of its wrongful practices; (d) interest at the highest rate allowable by law; and (e) the payment of their attorneys' fees pursuant to, inter alia, California Code of Civil Procedure § 1021.5.

FOURTH CAUSE OF ACTION

(Fraud, by all Plaintiffs Against All Defendants)

68. Plaintiff hereby incorporates by reference the allegations contained in the

- 69. In order to maintain and/or increase its sales and profits, both directly and indirectly, Defendant, through its authorized agents, advertising, promotional campaigns, marketing, and order forms, has intentionally misrepresented by the use of false statements and/or material omissions of fact the terms of its automatic billing policy.
- 70. Specifically, Defendant falsely represented to Plaintiff and Class members that they would be charged only for a set initial purchase. Defendant failed to disclose, or failed to adequately disclose, that it would automatically renew Plaintiff's and Class members' orders and impose additional charges for each additional order, notwithstanding that it had a duty to so disclose. That duty arose by virtue of law, the commercial relationship between Plaintiff and the Class members and Defendant, Defendant's superior knowledge regarding the charges and renewed terms it would impose, and the fact that after undertaking to make certain inaccurate statements Defendant became obligated to disclose all material information.
- 71. Defendant also falsely represented to complaining consumers, such as Plaintiff, that they had agreed to Defendant's automatic renewal policy when they actually had not, and that they were responsible for shipping charges to return unwanted additional orders when in fact they were not.
- 72. Defendant's statements, misrepresentations, and/or omissions were material in that there was a substantial likelihood that a reasonable consumer would have considered them important and would have relied upon them in choosing to purchase Defendant's Proactiv products or in failing to cancel future product shipments.
 - 73. Plaintiff herself relied on Defendant's representations and omissions.
- 74. At the time Defendant made these misrepresentations and omissions of fact, as alleged throughout this complaint, it knew such misrepresentations were false or made them in reckless disregard for their truth or falsity. Defendant knew such information was material to Plaintiff and the Class members, and knew or was reckless in not knowing that the true information was not disclosed.
 - 75. Defendant intended that the misrepresentations and omissions of fact be relied upon by Plaintiff and the Class in choosing to contract with Plaintiff.

- 76. Plaintiff and Class members were unaware of the falsity of Defendant's representations and omissions of material facts at all relevant times to their transactions. Plaintiff and the Class members reasonably relied on Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions to their detriment by: (a) contracting with Defendant and paying Defendant for an initial purchase of Proactiv when they otherwise would have not; (b) being lulled into not cancelling future shipments of Proactiv as a result of Defendant's failure to adequately disclose its automatic billing policy; (c) suffering repeated orders and related charges; and (d) paying for shipping charges to return unwanted repeat shipments products
- 77. As a result of Defendant's false representations and failures to disclose the true facts, Plaintiff and the Class members have suffered injury entitling them to compensatory damages and punitive damages in an amount to be proven at trial.

FIFTH CAUSE OF ACTION

(Negligent Misrepresentation/Negligence Per Se, By All Plaintiffs Against All Defendants)

- 78. Plaintiff hereby incorporates by reference each of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.
- 79. Defendant owed Plaintiff and the Class members a duty not to make false statements of material fact or omit material information relating to the transactions between Plaintiff and the Class members and Defendant. The duty arose by virtue of law, the commercial relationship between Plaintiff and the Class members and Defendant, Defendant's superior knowledge regarding the charges and renewed terms it would impose, and the fact that after undertaking to make certain inaccurate statements Defendant became obligated to disclose all material information.
- 80. In the course and scope of its business, through its authorized agents, advertising, promotional campaigns, marketing, and order forms, Defendant breached its duty to Plaintiff and Class members by supplying false material information and/or making material omissions of fact in statements to Plaintiff and Class members concerning Defendant's automatic billing policy.
 - 81. Specifically, Defendant represented that it would charge only amounts for a set initial purchase, simultaneously failed to disclose or to disclose in a clear and conspicuous manner the terms of its automatic billing policy, and then later represented to Plaintiff and Class members that they were obligated to pay for repeated orders and related charges based on the terms of the undisclosed automatic billing policy.

- 82. These representations were false. In reality, Defendant knew that it would charge for additional repeated shipments, that it had not disclosed or adequately disclosed the terms of its automatic billing policy to Plaintiff and Class members, and that many or all complaining Class members had not, in fact, agreed to Defendant's automatic renewal policy.
- 83. Defendant's statements, representations, and/or omissions were material in that there was a substantial likelihood that a reasonable consumer would have considered them important and would have relied upon them in choosing to purchase Defendant's product and in failing to cancel shipments of future products so as not to incur additional charges. Plaintiff indeed did review and rely on Defendant's statements and omissions.
- 84. At the time Defendant made these misrepresentations and omissions of fact, as alleged throughout this complaint, it had no reasonable grounds for believing them to be true. Defendant failed to exercise reasonable care or competence in providing information or communicate to Plaintiff and the Class members accurate information regarding its automatic billing policy.
- 85. Defendant intended that the misrepresentations and omissions of fact be relied upon by Plaintiff and the Class in choosing to purchase its Proactiv products and in failing to cancel future shipments and charges.
- 86. Plaintiff and Class members were unaware of the falsity of Defendant's representations and omissions of material facts at all relevant times to their transactions. Plaintiff and the Class members reasonably relied on Defendant's misrepresentations and omissions to their detriment by: (a) contracting with Defendant and paying Defendant for its Proactiv products when they otherwise would have not; (b) being lulled into not cancelling future shipments and charges as a result of Defendant's failure to adequately disclose its automatic billing policy; (c) suffering repeated shipments and related charges; and (d) paying for shipping charges to return unwanted repeat shipments products.

- 87. Because Defendant's negligent conduct described herein violated state statutes, namely Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17200 et seq. and 17600 et seq., and Cal. Civil Code § 1750 et seq. as set forth above, Defendant has committed negligence per se and Plaintiff is entitled to a presumption of negligence.
- 88. As a result of defendant's false representations and failures to disclose the true facts, Plaintiff and the Class members have suffered injury entitling them to compensatory damages and punitive damages in an amount to be proven at trial.

SIXTH CAUSE OF ACTION

(Breach of Contract, By All Plaintiffs Against All Defendants)

- 89. Plaintiff hereby incorporates by reference each of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.
- 90. As detailed above, Defendant contracted and continues to contract with Plaintiff and Class members for the provision of its Proactiv products. In each instance, Defendant offered to sell, and Plaintiff and the Class members agreed to buy, a single shipment of Proactiv product, and to pay the fee associated with that single time shipment. Many of Defendant's transactions are automated transactions as defined in the Uniform Electronic Transactions Act, California Civil Code § 1633.14(a)(1). Defendant's website constitutes an "electronic agent" as defined in California Civil Code § 1633(f).
- 91. Plaintiff and Class members accepted Defendant's offer and fully performed their obligations under the contact by, among other things, remitting to Defendant their credit card or other payment information and submitting payment to cover the specified cost of the single time purchase.
- 92. The amount of product and price at which Defendant agreed to sell Plaintiff and each of the Class members agreed to buy Proactiv products were material terms in the contracts between Defendant and Plaintiff/Class members.
- 93. Defendant's automatic delivery and billing policy terms were not terms of Defendant's contract with Plaintiff and Class members in that the terms were either not disclosed at all, not disclosed in a clear and conspicuous manner as required by law, not provided to Plaintiff and Class members nor to Defendant, and not agreed to by Plaintiff or Class members, and because Defendant did not obtain Plaintiff's or Class members' express, affirmative, or explicit consent to those terms and otherwise violated the requirements of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17600.

- 94. Defendant failed to perform as required under the contracts and breached those contracts by charging amounts different from and in addition to those agreed to and for products different from and in addition to those agreed to. Specifically, Defendant breached its contracts with Plaintiff and Class members by automatically billing them for and delivering additional, unauthorized shipments of unwanted Proactiv products.
- 95. As a result of the foregoing, Plaintiff and the Class members suffered injury and are entitled to compensatory damages in an amount to be proven at trial.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, plaintiff Jennifer Habelito, on behalf of herself and members of the Class defined herein, prays for judgment and relief as follows:

- A. An order certifying that this action may be maintained as a class action;
- B. Compensatory and actual damages in an amount to be proven at trial, including any damages as may be provided by statute;
- C. Punitive damages;
- D. An order requiring the restitution and disgorgement of and/or imposing a constructive trust upon the ill-gotten gains derived from Defendant's deceptive scheme;
- E. An order providing for temporary and permanent injunctive relief:
 - a. declaring that Defendant must provide clear and conspicuous disclosure of any and all automatic billing and delivery terms;
 - b. enjoining Defendant from automatically delivering and charging customers for additional products beyond their initial purchase where the terms of the automatic renewal policy have not been clearly and conspicuously disclosed to the consumer and where Defendant has not otherwise met the requirements of Plaintiff must file this cover sheet with the first paper filed in the action or proceeding (except small claims cases or cases filed under the Probate Code, Family Code, or Welfare and Institutions Code). (Cal. Rules of Court, rule 3.220.) Failure to file may result in sanctions.

· File this cover sheet in addition to any cover sheet required by local court rule.

• If this case is complex under rule 3.400 et seq. of the California Rules of Court, you must serve a copy of this cover sheet on all other parties to the action or proceeding.

INSTRUCTIONS ON HOW TO COMPLETE THE COVER SHEET

To Plaintiffs and Others Filing First Papers. If you are filing a first paper (for example, a complaint) in a civil case, you must complete and file, along with your first paper, the Civil Case Cover Sheet contained on page 1. This information will be used to compile statistics about the types and numbers of cases filed. You must complete items 1 through 6 on the sheet. In item 1, you must check one box for the case type that best describes the case. If the case fits both a general and a more specific type of case listed in item 1, check the more specific one. If the case has multiple causes of action, check the box that best indicates the primary cause of action. To assist you in completing the sheet, examples of the cases that belong under each case type in item 1 are provided below. A cover sheet must be filed only with your initial paper. Failure to file a cover sheet with the first paper filed in a civil case may subject a party. its counsel, or both to sanctions under rules 2.30 and 3.220 of the California Rules of Court.

To Parties in Rule 3.740 Collections Cases. A "collections case" under rule 3.740 is defined as an action for recovery of money owed in a sum stated to be certain that is not more than $25,000, exclusive of interest and attorney's fees, arising from a transaction in which property, services, or money was acquired on credit. A collections case does not include an action seeking the following: (1) tort damages, (2) punitive damages, (3) recovery of real property, (4) recovery of personal property, or (5) a prejudgment writ of attachment. The identification of a case as a rule 3.740 collections case on this form means that it will be exempt from the general time-for-service requirements and case management rules, unless a defendant files a responsive pleading. A rule 3.740 collections case will be subject to the requirements for service and obtaining a judgment in rule 3.740.

To Parties in Complex Cases. In complex cases only, parties must also use the Civil Case Cover Sheet to designate whether the case is complex. If a plaintiff believes the case is complex under rule 3.400 of the California Rules of Court, this must be indicated by completing the appropriate boxes in items 1 and 2. If a plaintiff designates a case as complex, the cover sheet must be served with the complaint on all parties to the action. A defendant may file and serve no later than the time of its first appearance a joinder in the plaintiff's designation, a counter-designation that the case is not complex, or, if the plaintiff has made no designation, a designation that the case is complex.
