1 I. INTRODUCTION

2 Plaintiff William Grivas filed his original class action complaint in 2015 alleging 3 that Defendant Metagenics, Inc.’s “Medical Food” products were deceptively and 4 illegally marketed. Finally, and after many challenges, years of investigation, and only 5 after mediation with a retired Judge, the parties have reached a class-wide settlement.
6 The settlement creates a common fund of $1.3 million that, after reasonable costs, fees, 7 and administration, will provide cash refunds to a nationwide class of Metagenics 8 “Medical Food” purchasers.

9 Because the law favors settlement, and because this case has been thoroughly 10 litigated and investigated by skilled and experienced adversaries, the Court should 11 preliminarily approve the settlement. This settlement enjoys a presumption of fairness 12 under the law, which is well-deserved under the circumstances. This proposed settlement 13 is well within the range of reasonableness worthy of preliminary approval at this stage.

14 II. BACKGROUND

15 A. The Allegations

16 Metagenics sells non-prescription powdered beverages that it labels as “Medical 17 Foods.” ECF No. 47, First Amended Complaint (“FAC”), ¶ 1. According to California’s 18 Sherman Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act, a Medical Food is supposed to be “a food which 19 is formulated to be consumed or administered internally under the supervision of a 20 physician and which is intended for the dietary management of a specific disease or 21 condition for which distinctive nutritional requirements, based on recognized scientific 22 principles, are established by medical evaluation.” Cal. Health & Safety Code § 110100; 23 21 U.S.C. § 360ee(b)(3) (incorporated by § 110100).

24 Plaintiff alleges that Metagenics deceptively and illegally labeled such products—25 some of which cost $150 per container—as “Medical Food,” when they were not real 26 Medical Food, thereby enabling Metagenics to extract a much higher price when compared 27 to ordinary foods or dietary “supplements.” See ECF No. 47, FAC, ¶ 2. Plaintiff further 28 alleged that Metagenics’ business practices violated California’s Sherman Food, Drug, and

1 Cosmetic Law and California’s Unfair Competition Law (Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code Sections 2 17200, et seq.).

3 During the class period, Plaintiff William L. Grivas, Sr. purchased four varieties¹ 4 of Metagenics’ “Medical Foods.” ECF No. 47, FAC, ¶ 24. He claims he lost money and 5 was damaged as a result of Metagenics’ behavior. He filed this case as a putative class 6 action seeking, among other things, restitution of at least a part of the purchase price for 7 Metagenics “Medical Foods” sold nationwide. See id. at ¶ 5.

8 Metagenics has stopped selling the class products. See id. at ¶ 32. And Metagenics 9 discontinued or re-labelled other previously-described “Medical Foods” after Mr. Grivas 10 brought this lawsuit. See <https://www.metagenics.com/medical-foods> (current 11 Metagenics website only advertises six medical foods) (last accessed November 28, 2019.)

12 B. Procedural History

13 Mr. Grivas filed his original class action complaint in November of 2015. ECF No.
14 1. Metagenics responded with a motion to dismiss or stay the complaint and a motion to 15 strike. ECF No. 22. Metagenics argued, among other things, that this Honorable Court 16 should dismiss or stay the case to defer to the FDA’s “Primary Jurisdiction” to decide 17 matters related to “Medical Food” labelling – an area which Metagenics argued was highly 18 technical and evolving. Id. The Court rejected Metagenics’ Primary Jurisdiction arguments, 19 but held that it was “willing to revisit the issue when the full record is before it after 20 discovery, of if the FDA alters course.” ECF No. 33 at 10:16-19, Order.

21 While the Court denied Metagenics’ motion to dismiss and motion to strike without 22 prejudice, the Court granted Metagenics’ motion to stay the case pending resolution of 23 appeals in three other consumer class actions that were pending before the Ninth Circuit at 24 the time. See ECF No. 33, Order. The appeals were eventually resolved and the stay of this 25 case was lifted in September of 2017. See ECF No. 37.

26 _____
27 ¹ The four varieties that Mr. Grivas purchased, and which are no longer sold, are 28 UltraMeal Plus, UltraMeal Plus 360, UltraGlycemX and UltraClear. ECF No. 47, FAC, ¶ 13. These are sometimes referred to as the “class products.” The settlement release extends to purchases of these four products only.

1 Metagenics then launched another pleading challenge: a Motion for 2 Reconsideration of the Order denying their 2016 Motion to Dismiss. See ECF. No. 41
3 (asking the Court to reconsider the Primary Jurisdiction issues). Metagenics also filed a 4 motion to dismiss claiming that Mr. Grivas failed to sufficiently plead some of his claims 5 and that he lacked standing to, among other things, pursue theories concerning Metagenics 6 products he never bought. Id. Metagenics argued that Mr. Grivas could only pursue 7 theories related to the four varieties of Metagenics “Medical Foods” he himself purchased, 8 rather than the whole line of products. Mr. Grivas opposed and Metagenics replied.

9 Ultimately, the Court declined to reconsider its prior ruling on Primary Jurisdiction.
10 See ECF No. 46, Order. But the Court, once again, kept the door open to revisiting the 11 issue at a later time. Id. at 8:10-13.

12 On standing, the court sided with Metagenics, holding that Mr. Grivas did not 13 sufficiently allege a basis to pursue restitution for the entire product line. Id. at pp. 8-12.
14 Mr. Grivas, for example, had not adequately pled that the products were similar enough 15 to confer standing over all of them at once. Id. The Court also held that Mr. Grivas failed 16 to plead his deception claims with the requisite particularity. Id. at pp. 12-14. However, 17 the Court gave Mr. Grivas leave to amend. Id. at p. 15.

18 Mr. Grivas filed his First Amended Complaint – the operative complaint – in 19 January of 2018. See ECF. No. 47. Metagenics responded with another Motion to 20 Dismiss, claiming that Mr. Grivas had failed to fix the deficiencies affecting his original 21 complaint, e.g. that Mr. Grivas still lacked standing to sue for any Metagenics products 22 other than the four products he actually purchased. ECF No. 52. Metagenics also argued 23 that the First Amended Complaint lacked the requisite particularity and that Plaintiff’s 24 claims were overbroad insofar as it was inappropriate for him to pursue a nationwide class 25 based on violations of only California law. Id.

26 Regarding the appropriateness of pursuing all of the Metagenics products, the Court 27 elected to defer the issue to the class certification stage. See ECF No. 56 at 10:1-3. The 28 Court noted, however, that it was “still concerned about the similarity of the Class

1 Products,” signaling that certification of all of the products in one case might be 2 inappropriate. Id. Similarly, the Court elected to defer issues concerning the scope of the 3 class definition. Id. at 16:3-4 (“The Court agrees with Grivas that whether he may 4 represent a nationwide class is more properly considered at class certification.”).

5 C. Discovery, Continued Investigation, and the Mediation

6 The parties then met and conferred about discovery, eventually drafting a detailed 7 joint discovery plan pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26. Declaration of Alex Tomasevic 8 (“Tomasevic Decl.”), ¶ 15. The parties also exchanged Initial Disclosures. Id. Defendant 9 served written discovery requests and noticed Mr. Grivas’ deposition. Id.

10 Plaintiff continued the investigations he started years prior, including by gathering 11 and analyzing copious amounts of publicly-available data, FDA records, sales 12 information, scientific literature regarding “Medical Foods” and the medical conditions 13 they were meant to treat, and the like. Tomasevic Decl., ¶ 16. Plaintiff also completed 14 and received information from several Freedom of Information Act Requests. Id. Plaintiff 15 also hired and consulted with renowned nutritional, biochemical, and physiological expert 16 (and professor of clinical pharmacy), Dr. Edward R. Blonz, PhD, who assisted Plaintiff’s 17 counsel with understanding the relevant science, the ingredients and medical conditions 18 at issue, the scope of the potential claims, and possible damage theories. Id.

19 Per the Court’s typical procedures, the parties were required to select an early ADR 20 process. Tomasevic Decl., ¶ 17. The parties opted for private mediation. Id. The parties 21 then selected as their mediator the Honorable Peter D. Lichtman, of JAMS – one of the 22 founders of the Los Angeles Superior Court’s Complex Civil Litigation program.² The 23 parties scheduled their mediation for August 14, 2018. Before the mediation, and after 24 agreeing to a Protective Order, the parties exchanged and analyzed additional information 25 and data including detailed nationwide product sales data. Id.

26
27 28 ² More information about Judge Lichtman can be found on the JAMS website at:
<https://www.jamsadr.com/lichtman/> (last accessed November 27, 2018.)

1 The parties then attended their full-day mediation in Los Angeles before Judge 2 Lichtman. Tomasevic Decl., ¶ 18. While the parties did not resolve the case in-person at 3 the mediation, Judge Lichtman continued to work with the parties afterward. Id.
4 Eventually, Judge Lichtman offered a written mediator’s proposal that he concluded could 5 be a fair resolution of all of the disputed issues. Id. After considering additional 6 information, the parties accepted Judge Lichtman’s proposal in mid-September of 2018.
7 Id.

8 D. The Settlement

9 The primary terms of the Settlement Agreement, a complete copy of which is 10 attached to the accompanying Declaration of Alex Tomasevic as Exhibit A, are 11 summarized below.

12 In short, and as originally proposed by Judge Lichtman, Metagenics will pay $1.3 13 million into a common fund on a non-reversionary basis. Ex. A, Settlement Agreement 14 at § III.A. After allowing for court-approved costs (including settlement administration 15 costs), attorneys’ fees, and a class representative service award for Mr. Grivas, the 16 remaining money (defined as the “Net Settlement Fund” in the Settlement Agreement) 17 will be distributed to consumers who purchased any of the four Metagenics products that 18 Mr. Grivas also purchased and who submit claims. Id. at II.E.

19 More specifically, the settlement will be administered by a third-party settlement 20 administrator who, first, will provide notice to the nationwide class via print publication, 21 press release, online banner ads, and a settlement website. Ex. A, Settlement Agreement 22 at IV.C.; Tomasevic Decl., Exs. B & C. This was the practical way to give notice to the 23 class because Defendant does not maintain contact information for people who purchased 24 these consumer products. Tomasevic Decl., ¶ 20.

25 The notice will direct class members to a detailed settlement website where class 26 members can read more about the case and access key documents like the complaint, the 27 settlement agreement, this motion for preliminary approval, and any motion for final 28 approval and award of fees, costs, and enhancement awards. Class members will also be

1 directed to online claim forms where they can certify that they are a class member and 2 where they will also verify how many class products they purchased during the class 3 period. A toll-free number with interactive voice response (“IVR”) and pre-recorded voice 4 support will also be set up to assist class members with the process and any questions they 5 may have. Ex. A, Settlement Agreement at IV.C.

6 In general, the more class products a class member purchased, the more they will 7 receive under the settlement. Class members can claim to have purchased up to five class 8 products, and be paid the corresponding amount, without submitting proof of purchase.
9 Class members who purchased more than five products will be paid in accordance with 10 their claimed purchases, but will need to provide proof of purchase showing more than 11 five purchases. Ex. A, Settlement Agreement at Ex. A, Settlement Agreement at II.L
12 (definition of “Settlement Award”).

13 Ultimately, the Settlement Administrator will pay claims on a pro-rata basis as 14 follows. First, the Settlement Administrator will calculate the “Net Settlement Fund,” 15 meaning the money left over after deducting approved attorney’s fees and costs (including 16 case costs, the settlement notice and administration costs, and any enhancement award).
17 Then the Settlement Administrator will calculate individual awards by taking the Net 18 Settlement Fund and dividing by the total number of class products that all participating 19 settlement class members have validly claimed, in their claim forms, to have purchased 20 throughout the class period.³ That result will then be multiplied by the number of products 21 each individual participating settlement class member has claimed. In short, the 22 Settlement Administrator will first calculate a per-product award using the information 23 from the returned claim forms. Then each participating class member will get, via check, 24 that per-product amount multiplied by each product or unit of product that the participating 25 class member has validly claimed. Ex. A, Settlement Agreement at II.L.

26
27 ³ If Class Members prefer, they can instead request a self-addressed and pre-stamped 28 claim form be sent to them via regular First Class Mail, which they can then fill out by hand and mail back. Or class members can request an emailed copy of the form.

1 All of the net settlement fund will be distributed to class members in the form of 2 real money, not coupons. And under no circumstances will Metagenics ever receive a 3 rebate or reversion of any of the $1.3 million.⁴ Tomasevic Decl., ¶ 23.

4 III. PRELIMINARY APPROVAL IS APPROPRIATE HERE.

5 The arms-length settlement was reached among capable and experienced 6 adversaries only after rigorous investigation and with the assistance of a retired Judge.
7 The settlement is well within the range of settlements deserving preliminary approval.

8 A. The Two-Step Process for Approval of Class Settlements.

9 Parties may not dismiss, compromise, or settle a class action without court 10 approval. Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e). The law favors settlement, particularly in class actions 11 and other complex cases where substantial resources can be conserved by avoiding the 12 time, cost and rigors of continued litigation. See Alba Conte & Herbert B. Newberg, 13 Newberg on Class Actions § 11.41 (4th ed. 2002) (and cases cited therein); Van 14 Bronkhorst v. Safeco Corp., 529 F.2d 943, 950 (9th Cir. 1976). By their very nature, 16 lengthy duration ratchet up uncertainties regarding the outcome. Id. at 943, 950 (public 17 interest in settling litigation is “particularly true in class action suits . . . which frequently 18 present serious problems of management and expense”).

19 To approve a class action settlement, courts utilize a two-step process: first, a court 20 “determines whether a proposed class action settlement deserves preliminary approval;” 21 second, after class members receive notice, the court determines “whether final approval 22 is warranted.” Nat’l Rural Telecomms. Coop. v. DIRECTV, Inc., 221 F.R.D. 523, 525
23 (C.D. Cal. 2004).⁵ The preliminary approval stage is an “initial evaluation” of the fairness

Settlement Agreement at III.H; Tomasevic Decl., ¶ 23.

4 B. The Court Should Grant Preliminary Approval Here

5 On preliminary review, courts assess only whether the settlement falls within the 6 “range of reasonableness” and thus, whether the notice to the class is appropriate. 4 7 Newberg §§ 21.63, et seq.; Manual for Complex Litigation (Fourth) § 30.41 (1995). The 10 See In re Prudential Securities, Inc., 163 F.R.D. 200, 209 (S.D.N.Y. 1995).

11 If “the proposed settlement appears to be the product of serious, informed, non-12 collusive negotiations, has no obvious deficiencies, does not improperly grant 13 preferential treatment to class representatives or segments of the class, and falls within 14 the range of possible approval, then the court should direct that the notice be given to the 16 Supp. 2d 1078, 1079 (N.D. Cal. April 12, 2007). When class counsel is experienced and 24 for the final approval hearing. Harris v. Vector Marketing Corp., 2011 WL 1627973, at

1 In summary, a court should grant preliminary approval “if the settlement 2 (1) appears to be the product of serious, informed, non-collusive negotiations; (2) has no 3 obvious deficiencies; (3) does not improperly grant preferential treatment to class 4 representatives or segments of the class; and (4) falls within the range of possible 5 approval”—in other words, whether the settlement falls within the bounds of fairness.
6 See Harris, 2011 WL 1627973, at *7 (N.D. Cal. April 29, 2011) (citing Alvarado v.
7 Nederend, 2011 WL 90228, at *5 (E.D. Cal. Jan.11, 2011)). Each of these elements, 8 discussed below, are satisfied.

9 1. The Parties Negotiated Seriously and in Good Faith and Only 10 Reached a Settlement after Years of Investigation and Litigation.

11 Courts defer to the judgment of experienced counsel when determining whether 12 negotiations were fair and informed. Absent fraud and collusion, the court may not only 13 rely upon the judgment of experienced attorneys, but it should be hesitant to “substitute 14 its own judgment for that of counsel.” Cotton v. Hinton, 559 F.2d 1326, 1330 (5th Cir.
15 1977); see also Officers for Justice v. Civ. Serv. Comm’n of San Francisco, 688 F.2d 615, 16 625 (9th Cir. 1982).

17 Here, all counsel are experienced class action litigators and experienced in 18 consumer products litigation. Their collective experience includes decades of litigating 19 large class actions throughout the state and federal courts. Tomasevic Decl., ¶ 2–13.
20 They have litigated class actions and advocated their clients’ positions in trial courts 21 across the nation, in state courts of appeal, in the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeal, the Sixth 22 Circuit Court of Appeal, and the U.S. Supreme Court. Id.

23 Class counsel believes this settlement to be fair and just. Tomasevic Decl., ¶ 24.
24 Class Counsel in this case spent years pouring over the facts and the law in this case, 25 engaging an experienced science expert, and utilizing experience and skill to marshal 26 evidence, data and disclosures, and scientific principles over the years this District Court 27 action was pending. Class Counsel had the information, experience, and resolve to 28 effectively weigh the prospects of the case over time. Those prospects evolved over the 1 years and were punctuated by multiple rounds of pleading challenges, a developing 2 regulatory framework regarding “Medical Foods,” and shifting class action 3 jurisprudence. Those prospects also had to be weighed against the needs of the Class 4 Members which include sickly citizens who likely had less patience or ability to wait 5 additional years. Id. Class counsel and Mr. Grivas weighed all of this and they stand in 6 the best position to weigh the settlement. Id.

7 Moreover, there can be no serious question that this litigation and the Settlement 8 were non-collusive. Cf. Officers for Justice v. Civ. Serv. Comm’n of San Francisco, 688 9 F.2d at 625 (District Court scrutiny should be “limited to the extent necessary to reach a 10 reasoned judgment that the agreement is not the product of fraud or overreaching by, or 11 collusion between, the negotiating parties and that the settlement, taken as a whole, is 12 fair, reasonable, and adequate in all concerned.”).

13 The parties opposed each other vigorously and repeatedly at every turn. Defendants 14 challenged the pleadings every chance they had and stayed the course since the case was 15 filed in 2015. Defense counsel at Morrison Forester, furthermore, have considerable 16 experience and are recognized authorities on consumer class actions and California’s 17 Unfair Competition Law. See <https://www.mofo.com/people/william-stern.html> 18 (biography page for lead defense counsel William L. Stern, Esq.) (last accessed 19 November 28, 2018). In short, there was no collusion. There was only advocacy among 20 experienced adversaries.

21 Moreover, while Plaintiff believed in his case, there were significant risks in 22 continuing to pursue it. Of course, whether Mr. Grivas could win a motion for class 23 certification, in whole or in part, was an open question. Mr. Grivas would also likely 24 need to survive an eventual motion for decertification after the close of discovery even if 25 originally successful.

26 Defendant also demonstrated that it would continue to revisit dismissing the case 27 on Primary Jurisdiction grounds, given the evolving nature of the FDA’s pronouncements 28 on Medical Food regulation. See ECF. No. 41 (asking the Court to reconsider the Primary

1 Jurisdiction issues). Indeed, the Court indicated that it might revisit jurisdiction after the 2 close of discovery or upon another statement by the FDA. See, e.g., ECF No. 33 at 10:16-3 19, Order.

4 Plaintiff also had his work cut out for him to proffer and prove an appropriate 5 damages model. As the Ninth Circuit reaffirmed during the pendency of this case, the 6 proper measure of restitution where a plaintiff receives some value from the product is 7 “[t]he difference between what the plaintiff paid and the value of what the plaintiff 8 received.” Chowning v. Kohl's Dep't Stores, Inc., 735 F. App'x 924, 925 (9th 9 Cir.), amended on denial of reh'g, 733 F. App'x 404 (9th Cir. 2018). Yet there is no 10 definitive science or legal authority that establishes what the “Medical Food” label is 11 really worth here. In summary, there were complicated risks and open questions that all 12 counsel analyzed and had to account for in deciding to resolve and in valuing the 13 settlement.

14 Finally, and importantly, the involvement of an objective, third-party neutral here 15 demonstrates the presence of arm’s-length negotiations and further supports a 16 presumption of fairness. See Martens v. Smith Barney, 181 F.R.D. 243, 262-63 (S.D.N.Y.
17 1998); In re Toys “R” Us-Del FACTA Litig., 295 F.R.D. 438, 450 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 16, 18 2014) (finding a presumption of fairness where the settlement was reached following a 19 mediation). To help resolve this matter, the parties attended a full-day mediation with 20 the Hon. Peter D. Lichtman (Ret.), of JAMS. As his resume confirms, Mr. Lichtman has 21 significant experience with Class Actions/Mass Torts.
22 <https://www.jamsadr.com/lichtman/>. Indeed, when still a Judge, he was a founder of the 23 Los Angeles Superior Court’s Complex Civil Litigation program and, more recently, was 24 head of the Court’s Mandatory Settlement Program. Id.

25 Judge Lichtman guided the parties through in-person negotiations in Los Angeles, 26 and worked with the parties for weeks thereafter until the parties eventually accepted his 27 mediator’s proposal. Tomasevic Decl., ¶¶ 17-18. The negotiations that led to this 28

1 settlement, in short, were tested, long-term, well-informed, and done only in good faith.
2 This warrants preliminary approval.

3 2. The Settlement Agreement Has No Obvious Deficiencies.

4 A settlement stands or falls on the adequacy of its terms. In re Corrugated 5 Container Antitrust Litig., 643 F.2d 195, 211 (5th Cir. 1981). The Settlement reflects an 6 excellent compromise, particularly given that the merits and risks of the case that have 7 been thoroughly addressed.

8 Here, participating Class Members will receive real money, not coupons.
9 Defendant will pay back $1.3 million as a result of this lawsuit. The total gross sales 10 Metagenics collected from the four class products nationwide since December of 2012 11 was about [REDACTED]. Tomasevic Decl., ¶ 19. So Metagenics has to pay back 12 roughly [REDACTED]% of those nationwide sales. This is a fair amount considering that: (a) 13 liability was hotly contested and uncertain; (b) it was uncertain if Mr. Grivas would 14 maintain class certification throughout the case; (c) it would be challenging to prove what 15 the price differential or “premium” attributable to the “Medical Foods” label really was;⁶ 16 and (d) trial and eventual appeals would likely take another three years from this point 17 should the parties have elected not to settle. While Mr. Grivas and his counsel certainly 18 believed in their case, they also understood the value of compromise. This settlement is 19 certainly within the range of possible settlements worthy of approval under the 20 circumstances.

21 3. The Settlement Justly Compensates the Named Plaintiff.

22 The parties intend to seek the approval of an incentive award for Named Plaintiff 23 William Grivas of $20,000. “Courts routinely recognize and approve incentive awards 24

25 ⁶ Metagenics maintained throughout the case that if the “Medical Food” label/theory was 26 worth anything, it was worth, at most, 10% of sales. If Metagenics successfully 27 convinced a jury of that, even if Mr. Grivas certified a nationwide class, and even if he 28 prevailed at trial, then a “win” would have been worth only [REDACTED] (10% of the gross sales). And the “win” would be worth only a fraction of that had Mr. Grivas certified merely a California-only case. Comparatively, $1.3 million is a successful result that weighs all of the risks and all of the potential outcomes.

1 for class representatives . . .” Wineland v. Casey’s General Stores, Inc., 267 F.R.D. 669, 2 677 (S.D. Iowa 2009); see also In re U.S. Bancorp Litigation, 291 F.3d 1035, 1038 (8th 3 Cir. 2002) (“[R]elevant factors in deciding whether [an] incentive award to [a] named 4 plaintiff is warranted include actions [the] plaintiff took to protect class’s interests, [the] 5 degree to which [the] class has benefitted from those actions, and [the] amount of time 6 and effort [the] plaintiff expended in pursuing litigation.”) (citing Cook v. Niedert, 142 7 F.3d 1004, 1016 (7th Cir. 1998)).

8 First, Mr. Grivas took on the burden of litigating on behalf of a class of 9 purchasers—acting for the good of the public at large. Cf. In Re SmithKline Beckman 10 Corp. Securities Litigation, 751 F. Supp. 525, 535 (E.D. Pa. 1990) (noting that class 11 representatives perform a public good by acting in representative capacity). The class 12 will benefit greatly because they will get cash refunds as a result of Mr. Grivas’ efforts.
13 Indeed, because of the pro-rata nature of the settlement Mr. Grivas negotiated, class 14 members could receive many times more than what they originally paid for their products 15 – depending on the number of claims.

16 Mr. Grivas also had to spend a significant amount of his time to achieve these 17 results. Mr. Grivas stood by the case for all the years it was pending. He travelled to and 18 met repeatedly with his counsel. He made himself available for discovery and 19 investigation and, due to the subject matter of this case, he put his own personal medical 20 history at issue. Mr. Grivas also conducted his own factual research and gathered key 21 documents. Finally, Mr. Grivas traveled to and attended the mediation that brought about 22 the settlement. Under the circumstances, Mr. Grivas is deserving of a service award. See 23 Tomasevic Decl., ¶ 25.

24 IV. CONDITIONAL CLASS CERTIFICATION IS APPROPRIATE FOR 25 SETTLEMENT PURPOSES

26 A. The Proposed Class Meets the Requirements of Rule 23

27 Before granting preliminary approval of the Settlement, the Court should 28 determine that the proposed settlement class meets the requirements of Rule 23. See

1 Amchem Prods. v. Windsor, 521 U.S. 591, 620 (1997); Manual for Complex Litigation, 2 § 21.632. An analysis of the requirements of Rule 23(a) and (b)(3), commonly referred 3 to as numerosity, commonality, typicality, adequacy, predominance, and superiority, 4 shows that certification of this proposed Settlement Class is appropriate.⁷

5 Here, the Court should certify the following Settlement Class:

6 all persons who at any time since November 9, 2011 to the present 7 purchased one or more of the following products labelled as “Medical 8 Foods” and who do not file a valid and timely request to opt-out of the 9 Lawsuit: UltraMeal Plus, UltraMeal Plus 360, UltraGlycemX and 10 UltraClear.

11 B. The Proposed Class Is Sufficiently Numerous

12 The numerosity requirement is met where “the class is so numerous that joinder of 13 all members is impracticable.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(1). Generally, courts will find a class 14 sufficiently numerous if it consists of 40 or more members. Vasquez v. Coast Valley 15 Roofing, Inc., 670 F. Supp. 2d 1114, 1121 (E.D. Cal. 2009) (numerosity is presumed at a 16 level of 40 members). Here, the settlement class consists of thousands of purchasers of 17 Metagenics’ Medical Foods. We know this because, among other reasons, the class 18 encompasses millions of dollars in sales across products that cost, at most, about $150 19 each.

20 C. There are Questions of Law and Fact that Are Common to the Class

21 The second Rule 23(a) requirement is commonality, which is satisfied “if there are 22 questions of law or fact common to the class.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(2). The operative 23 criterion for commonality is “the capacity of a classwide proceeding to generate common 24 answers apt to drive the resolution of the litigation.” Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. v. Dukes, 564 25 U.S. 338, 350 (2011). The “commonality requirement has been ‘construed permissively,’ 26 and its requirements deemed minimal.” Estrella v. Freedom Fin’l Network, No. C-09-27 03156-SI, 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 61236, at *25 (N.D. Cal. June 2, 2010) [quoting Hanlon

28 ⁷ As the Ninth Circuit recently clarified, there is no threshold “ascertainability” requirement in this Circuit. See Briseno v. ConAgra Foods, Inc., 844 F.3d 1121, 1125 n.4 (9th Cir. 2017).

1 | v. Chrysler Corp., 150 F.3d 1011, 1019-20 (9th Cir. 1998)]. The existence of a single
2 | common question of law or fact satisfies this requirement. See Dukes, 564 U.S. at 369.

3 | Here, each Class Member purchased a Metagenics product labelled as a “Medical
4 | Food.” Medical Foods, furthermore, are all measured against one common definition
5 | supplied by the FDA and California’s Sherman Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act.
6 | Metagenics contends that its products satisfy that common legal definition. In short, a
7 | major issue in dispute—e.g., whether the Medical Foods meet this common definition -
8 | reflects a common question of fact and law, the resolution of which is apt to drive
9 | resolution of this litigation.

10 | D. Plaintiff’s Claims Are Typical of the Proposed Settlement Class

11 | “In determining whether typicality is met, the focus should be on the defendants’
12 | conduct and plaintiff’s legal theory, not the injury caused to the plaintiff.” Lozano v.
13 | AT&T Wireless Services, Inc., 504 F.3d 718, 734 (9th Cir. 2007). Thus, typicality is 14 | “satisfied when each class member’s claim arises from the same course of events, and 15 | each class member makes similar legal arguments to prove the defendant’s liability.”
16 | Armstrong v. Davis, 275 F.3d 849, 868 (9th Cir. 2001) (citation omitted).

17 | Here, Class Members’ claims arising from the mislabeled “Medical Foods” are 18 | reasonably coextensive with the claims asserted by Mr. Grivas. Each Class Member’s
19 | claim arises from the same alleged course of conduct—that Metagenics mislabeled
20 | ordinary mass-produced ingredients as “Medical Foods” (which does not satisfy the legal 21 | definition of Medical Food). Plaintiff’s claims are thus typical of the Class, as “they are
22 | reasonably coextensive with those of absent class members.” Plaintiff and Class
23 | Members would also similarly benefit from the relief provided by the Settlement.
24 | Accordingly, typicality is satisfied.

25 | E. Plaintiff and His Counsel Will Adequately Represent the Interests of
26 | the Proposed Settlement Class

27 | Adequacy is satisfied when “the representative parties will fairly and adequately
28 | protect the interests of the class,” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(4); specifically: (1) the proposed

1 representative Plaintiffs do not have conflicts of interest with the proposed class, and (2) 2 Plaintiffs are represented by qualified and competent counsel. Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1020.
3 Here, Mr. Grivas is an adequate class representative, as he has no conflict of interest with 4 the proposed Class. In fact, Plaintiff shares a common interest in holding Metagenics 5 accountable for selling mislabeled or falsely-advertised products. In addition, Plaintiff is 6 represented by competent counsel well-versed in prosecuting consumer class action 7 matters. See, e.g., Tomasevic Decl., ¶¶ 2-13.

8 F. Common Issues Predominate Over Individual Issues

9 “In addition to meeting the conditions imposed by Rule 23(a), the parties seeking 10 class certification must also show that the action is maintainable under Fed. R. Civ. P.
11 23(b)(1), (2) or (3).” Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1022. The predominance inquiry under Rule 12 23(b)(3) asks “whether the common, aggregation-enabling issue are more prevalent or 13 more important than the non-common, aggregation-defeating, individual issues.” Tyson 14 Foods v. Bouaphakeo, 136 S. Ct. 1036, 1045 (2016) (citation omitted). “When one or 15 more of the central issues in the action are common to the class and can be said to 16 predominate, the action may be proper under Rule 23(b)(3) even though other important 17 matters will have to be tried separately, such as damages or some affirmative defenses 18 peculiar to some individual class members.” Id. So long as there is a “clear justification 19 for handling the dispute on a representative rather than an individual basis” (Hanlon, 150 20 F.3d at 1022), the inquiry is satisfied.

21 Notably, manageability at trial is not a concern in the class action settlement 22 context, “for the proposal is that there be no trial.” Amchem, 521 U.S. at 620. Indeed, the 23 predominance inquiry in the context of a nationwide settlement should be considered 24 under “three guideposts:” [F]irst, that commonality is informed by the defendant’s 25 conduct as to all class members and any resulting injuries common to all class members; 26 second, that variations in state law do not necessarily defeat predominance; and third, that 27 concerns regarding variations in state law largely dissipate when a court is considering 28 the certification of a settlement class. Sullivan v. DB Invs. Inc., 667 F.3d 273, 297 (3d

1 Cir. 2011) (en banc); see also, Wakefield v. Wells Fargo & Co., No. C 13-05053 LB, 2 2014 WL 7240339, at *4 (N.D. Cal. Dec. 18, 2014) (adopting Sullivan's analysis that 3 state law variations dissipate in a settlement class). Under similar guiding principles, the 4 Ninth Circuit has similarly upheld settlement-only class certification in nationwide 5 settlements. See, e.g., Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1022–23 (“[G]iven the limited focus of the 6 action, the shared factual predicate and the reasonably inconsequential differences in state 7 law remedies, the proposed class was sufficiently cohesive to survive Rule 23(b)(3) 8 scrutiny.”); see also Clothesrigger, Inc. v. GTE Corp., 191 Cal. App. 3d 605 (1987); 9 McCann v. Foster Wheeler LLC, 48 Cal. 4th 68 (2010); In re Conseco Life Ins. Co., 270
10 F.R.D. 521 (N.D. Cal. 2010); Mazza v. Am. Honda Motor Co., 666 F.3d 581, 590 (9th 11 Cir. 2012) (California may certify a nationwide class if the interests of other states are 12 not found to outweigh California’s interest in having its laws applied).

13 Here, for purposes of settlement, the predominance test is satisfied, as the proposed 14 settlement makes the relief of cash payment available for all Class Members based on 15 easily ascertainable criteria, bypassing whatever individual evidentiary and factual issues 16 that could arise in litigation in determining liability or damages.

17 Furthermore, it cannot be said here that the interests of some other state would 18 outweigh California’s interest in having its laws applied. Metagenics is a California-based 19 company with headquarters in Orange County. ECF 47, FAC, ¶ 9. California has a clear 20 and compelling interest in assuring that corporations within California do not use 21 California as a haven from which to promulgate materially false and misleading product 22 labeling. Cf. Clothesrigger, 191 Cal. App. 3d at 609.

23 Given this showing, no one can then prove that each of the other states has some 24 interest that conflicts with California’s interest in “protecting” consumers against 25 corporations who make and distribute falsely labeled consumables across the nation. Cf.
26 Clothesrigger, 191 Cal. App. 3d at 614; Mazza, 666 F.3d at 589-90. Nor could any state 27 adopt a position materially in conflict with California under these circumstances because 28 California’s definition of “Medical Food” adopts the federal definition. Cal. Health &

1 Safety Code § 110100; 21 U.S.C. § 360ee(b)(3) (incorporated by § 110100). In other 2 words, if the class products were mislabeled or illegal in California, they were also illegal 3 in New York, New Jersey, Texas, and so on. Predominance is satisfied for purposes of 4 settlement.

5 G. Class Settlement Is Superior to Other Available Means of Resolution

6 Finally, there is little doubt that resolving all Class Members' claims through a 7 single class action is superior to a series of small individual lawsuits. "From either a 8 judicial or litigant viewpoint, there is no advantage in individual members controlling the 9 prosecution of separate actions. There would be less litigation or settlement leverage, 10 significantly reduced resources and no greater prospect for recovery." Hanlon, 150 F.3d 11 at 1023.

12 Indeed, the terms of the Settlement negotiated on behalf of the Class demonstrate 13 the advantages of a collective bargaining and resolution process. The damages sought by 14 each Class Member here are not so large as to weigh against the certification of a class 15 action. See Smith v. Cardinal Logistics Mgmt. Corp., 2008 WL 4156364, at 32-33 16 (N.D. Cal. Sep. 5, 2008) (finding that class members had a small interest in personally 17 controlling the litigation even where the average amount of damages were $25,000-18 $30,000 per year). The sheer number of separate trials that would otherwise be required 19 also weighs in favor of settlement.

20 As the class action device provides the superior means to effectively and efficiently 21 resolve this controversy, and because the other requirements of Rule 23 are satisfied, 22 certification of the proposed Settlement Class is appropriate.

23 V. THE PROPOSED NOTICE IS ADEQUATE

24 A. The Proposed Notice Satisfies Due Process

25 Rule 23(c) requires only notice "that is practicable under the circumstances." The 26 district court has wide discretion in fashioning the proposed notice. In re "Agent Orange" 27 Product Liability Litigation, 818 F.2d 145, 168 (2d Cir.1987).

28

1 Here, it is not practicable to give direct individual notice by first class mail because 2 Metagenics does not have, and cannot get through reasonable effort, contact information
3 for people who purchased the class products. See Declaration of William L. Stern (“Stern 4 Decl.”), ¶¶ 2-3. Under such circumstances, the Supreme Court allows for notice by 5 publication. See Mullane v. Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co., 339 U.S. 306, 317 (1950)
6 (“This Court has not hesitated to approve of resort to publication as a customary substitute 7 in another class of cases where it is not reasonably possible or practicable to give more 8 adequate warning. Thus it has been recognized that, in the case of persons missing or 9 unknown, employment of an indirect and even a probably futile means of notification is 10 all that the situation permits and creates no constitutional bar to a final decree foreclosing 11 their rights.”).

12 Here, the parties have designed a robust publication notice protocol put together 13 and which will be administered by an experienced class action administrator. The 14 publication will include notice in USA Today National Edition, circulated to over 15 740,000 readers. The administrator will also leverage modern technology by deploying 16 internet banner ads, and a text and image ad display campaign over 30 days that is 17 designed to garner approximately 10,000,000 impressions.⁸ Notice will also be 18 disseminated via press release to PR Wire. Ex. A, Settlement Agreement at IV.C; 19 Tomasevic Decl., Exs. B & C. Under the circumstances, notice is adequate and presents 20 no due process issues.

21 B. The Proposed Notice is Accurate & Informative

22 Finally, the proposed Notice will provide information on the meaning and nature 23 of the proposed Settlement and Settlement Class, the terms and provisions of the 24 Settlement, the relief the Settlement will provide Settlement Class Members, the amounts 25 of attorneys’ fees and costs that Class Counsel may request, and the date, time and place 26 of the final approval hearing. The Notice clearly and accurately describes the nature of

1 the action, the definition of the Settlement Class, and the Class claims. See Tomasevic 2 Decl., Exs. B & C (Long Form and Short Form/Publication notices, respectively). The 3 Notice also informs Class Members that they may enter an appearance through their own 4 counsel if they so desire, and explains the binding nature of class judgment under Rule 5 23(c)(3). Id. The Notice also provides Class Members with an opportunity to opt out or 6 file objections to the Settlement as required by Rule 23(e)(4)(A). Id.

7 Further, the Notice also fulfills the requirement of neutrality in class notices. See 2 8 Newberg § 8.39. The Notice summarizes proceedings to date, Plaintiff’s allegations, and 9 the terms and conditions of the Settlement, in an informative and coherent manner, in 10 compliance with the Manual’s statement that “the notice should be accurate, objective, 11 and understandable to Class Members. . . .” Manual (Fourth) at § 21.63 et seq. The Notice 12 clearly states that the Settlement does not constitute an admission of liability, and 13 recognizes that the Court has not ruled on the merits of the action. It also states that the 14 final settlement approval decision has yet to be made. Accordingly, the Notice complies 15 with the standards of fairness, completeness and neutrality required of a settlement class 16 notice disseminated under authority of the Court. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(c)(2), 23(e); 2 17 Newberg §§ 8.21, 8.39; Manual (Fourth) §§ 21.63 et seq.

18 VI. CONCLUSION

19 The settlement is fair, reasonable, and the best way to lay to rest a long-lived and 20 contested case. The Court should grant this motion and execute the concurrently-filed 21 proposed order, which will:

- 22 a) Certify the settlement class;
- 23 b) Preliminarily approve the Settlement;
- 24 c) Direct the dissemination of notice to the Class as proposed; and
- 25 d) Set a schedule for final Settlement approval and Plaintiff’s fee and expense 26 application as follows:
 - 27 a. Settlement Administrator to comply with the Settlement Agreement’s 28 notice provisions within 30 days of preliminary approval;

- b. Plaintiff shall file his motion for attorneys' fees and costs by February 15, 2019;
- c. The deadline for objections by Class Members to the settlement is March 8, 2019, in the form and manner described in the Class Notice;
- d. The deadline for a response to any objections by Class Members to the settlement is March 29, 2019;
- e. The motion for Final Approval and Dismissal of the Action shall be filed by March 29, 2019;
- f. A hearing on the Final Approval and Dismissal of the Action shall be held on April 22, 2019, at 1:30 p.m. before the undersigned Judge.
