Q: Seat depth is 25.5, what is back cushion thickness so i can know the total seat depth?

asked by Samiha F

A: The overall product depth is 40" for the standard option and 46" for the extra-deep option. This corresponds to a seat depth (front of seat cushion to start of back cushion) of 25.5" for the standard and 31" for the extra-deep. (We do list cushion dimensions as they are impacted by crown and use).

Q: I don't understand how the seat cushion is 25.5" but the total depth is 40". Where are the other 15" coming from? It certainly doesn't appear the seat back is 15" deep.

asked by Emily L

Q: Can this couch be used with the Andes ottoman?

asked by Rebecca R

A: The Andes Ottoman is typically used as part of a sectional. You could certainly use it with the 76.5" Andes Sofa, but it's not going to line up perfectly

A: If you look at a side profile shot, you'll see that the back is quite thick (and inclined). The seat depth measurement is from the front of the sofa to the start of the back cushion, so the difference includes the cushion thickness as well.

answered by a west elm associate on Oct 20, 2018 with the cushion lines, as the sofa isn't quite double the size (the ottoman is 40" wide).
