People judge people, would you agree? I'm not condoning it & I don't think we should judge others, however, we all do.

Did you know when a male meets a female and vice versa, subconsciously they decide within 5 seconds whether they would have a sexual relationship with them.

When you're in sales, people are looking for a reason to not join you. Also, if you're good at what you do & you're building a sales organization, then you're selling a dream and a lifestyle.

You've got to dress the way you want to be addressed. When I was 21 I was broke. So when I would go do presentations and attempt to recruit people into my team who were more successful than me, I couldn't wear a tee shirt. I was broke. I had to at least look like I was winning even though I wasn't.

Now, I do meetings with millionaires in hotel lobbies all over the world with flip flops and shorts on, because they already know my results.

Listen, you've got to be sharp, professional, look good. NO you don't need to be "dripping" in designer but you do need to be looking good in order to attract high quality people into your business... especially when you're on your climb to your first $500,000 liquid.
