em.hening I don't know how to even begin writing this. ☐
Today at noon I officially hit the millionaires club, making me the youngest person in company history to earn a million dollars in commissions

Just over two years ago I joined this company completely broken, broke & lost with no idea how to pull myself out of the hole I was in. What I didn't know is that god had a plan and purpose for my • YES • and he was about to show just mighty and powerful his love truly is.

Today isn't monumental because I want to hold the title of being a millionaire; it's because of what that million dollars represents.

For us to be able to bring in that much

For us to be able to bring in that much money in commissions it means there is a tribe of men and women beside me who are not only changing their lives but so many others.

A million moments of my team gracefully loving me

A million moments of us pouring our hearts and souls in our businesses

A million moments of them trusting me in me and this company

A million moments of people finding their purpose

A million moments of families getting their heads above water for the first time in years

A million moments of us growing together

A million moments of me being humbled to my knees by the path god paved for us

So today I'm in awe of what we've built together because I know this milestone means that a door is unlocked for someone ELSE to achieve this next.

Tribe, thank you.
