DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

Plaintiffs Regan Iglesia, Larry Fertel, Nosson Chaim Rosenberg, Soraya Yd, Suzanne Tatkow, Jaime Maxwell, Lauren Debeliso, Maeredith Barter, and Patrick Ferguson, (collectively, "Plaintiffs"), individually and on behalf of all others similarly situated, bring this Complaint against Nestle USA, Inc. ("Nestle") and Ferrara Candy Company ("Ferrara") (collectively, "Defendants") in connection with the false, deceptive, unfair, unlawful, and fraudulent advertising and labeling of opaque theater box candy products Raisinets®, Butterfinger Bites®, Gobstopper®, Tollhouse®, Nerds®, Buncha Crunch®, Runts®, Sno Caps®, Spree®, and Sweetarts® (the "Products"). Plaintiffs allege upon their personal knowledge, acts, and experiences, and as to all other matters, upon information and belief, including investigation conducted by their attorneys and their retained experts:

Los Angeles, CA 90069

INTRODUCTION

1. Defendants manufacture the most popular theater box candy products in the world. To increase profits at the expense of consumers and fair competition, Nestle pioneered a scheme to deceptively sell candy in oversized, opaque boxes that do not reasonably inform consumers that they are half empty. Defendants' "slackfill" scam dupes unsuspecting consumers across America to pay for empty space at Figure 1.

premium prices. Defendants failed to comply with consumer protection and packaging statutes designed to prevent this scam, and rely on their name and goodwill to further this scam even in the face of other lawsuits against them in other states, including a certified class action in California for the same violations. While other similar lawsuits against Defendants' competitors have all but curbed this unfair business practice, Defendants remain the last hold-out, ignoring this industry trend towards transparency in the hopes of obtaining an unfair competitive advantage in the marketplace. This class action aims to remedy Defendants' unfair business practice by forcing them to follow the industry trend toward greater transparency and eliminating consumer deception. Figure 1 (above) and Figures 2-10 (below) are true and correct representations of Defendants' Products illustrating their uniformly deceptive, unfair, and unlawful business practice.

- Defendants market the Products in a systematically misleading manner 2. by representing them as adequately filled when, in fact, they contain an unlawful amount of empty space or "slack-fill." Defendants underfill the Products for no lawful reason. The only purpose of this practice is to save money (by not filling the boxes) in order to deceive consumers into purchasing Defendants' products over their competitors' products. Defendants' slack-fill scheme not only harms consumers, but it also harms their competitors who have implemented labeling changes designed to alert consumers to the true amount of product in each box. Accordingly, Nestle has violated the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act ("CFA"), Section 56:8-1, et seq.; New Jersey Administrative Code Section 13:45A-9.1, et seq.; New York General Business Law Section 349, et seq.; New York General Business Law Section 350, et seq.; Florida Statutes Section 501.201, et seq.; Michigan Compiled Laws Section 445.901, et seq.; Illinois Compiled Statutes Chapter 815, Section 505/1, et seq.; North Carolina General Statutes Section 75-1.1, et seq.; Texas Business and Commercial Code Section 17.41, et seq.; were unjustly enriched; have committed common law fraud; and have breached the implied warranty of merchantability.
- 3. Plaintiffs and the Class Members have accordingly suffered injury in fact caused by the false, fraudulent, unfair, deceptive, unlawful, and misleading practices set forth herein, and seek injunctive relief, as well as, inter alia, compensatory damages, statutory damages, and restitutionary damages.

INDUSTRY TREND

- Defendants' major competitors no longer package their candy products 4. unfairly or unlawfully.
- Tootsie Roll Industries, Inc. modified its labeling of Junior Mints® and 5. Sugar Babies® to dispel consumer confusion.
- Taste of Nature, Inc. modified its labeling of Cookie Dough Bites®, Chocolate Chip Cookie Dough Bites®, Fudge Brownie Cookie Dough Bites®,

- Just Born, Inc. modified its labeling of Hot Tamales® and Mike and Ike®.
- 8. Even Defendant Nestle's own parent organization, Defendant Ferrara Candy Company, made labeling changes to Jujyfruits®, Jujubes®, Now & Later®, Lemonhead®, Applehead®, Cherryhead®, Grapehead®, RedHots®, Trolli®, Chuckles®, Black Forest®, Jawbuster®, Jawbreaker®, Brach's®, Boston Baked Beans®, Super Bubble®, Rainblo®, and Atomic Fireball.
- Rather than following the industry trend and ceasing its unfair business practice, Defendants continue to prioritize its own bottom line over consumer protection and deceive consumers as to the amount of candy contained in the Products.

SLACK-FILL LITIGATION

10. Several state and federal courts have found that cases involving nearly identical claims are meritorious. See Iglesias v. Ferrara Candy Co., Case No. 3:17cv-00849-VC (N.D. Cal.) (defendant's FRCP 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss slackfilled Jujyfruits® and Lemonhead® candy box claims denied); Tsuchiyama v. Taste of Nature, Inc., Case No. BC651252 (L.A.S.C.) (defendant's motion for judgment on the pleadings involving slack-filled Cookie Dough Bites® candy box claims denied); Gordon v. Tootsie Roll Industries, Inc., Case No. 2:17-cv-02664-DSF-MRW (C.D. Cal.) (defendant's FRCP 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss slack-filled Junior Mints® and Sugar Babies® candy box claims denied); Escobar v. Just Born, Inc., Case No. 2:17-cv-01826-BRO-PJW (C.D. Cal.) (defendant's FRCP 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss slack-filled Mike N' Ike® and Hot Tamales® candy box claims denied.

Products, or would have paid a price premium for the Products, had he known that the size of the box and product label were false and misleading.

- 20. If the Product packaging and label were not misleading, then Plaintiffs would purchase the Products in the future.
- 21. The front of the Products' packaging does not include any information that would reasonably apprise Plaintiffs of the quantity of candy relative to the size of the box, such as a fill line, actual size depiction accompanied by the words "actual size" and numerical piece count.
- 22. Nestle USA, Inc. is a corporation headquartered in Delaware. Nestle maintains its principal place of business at 1812 North Moore Street, Arlington, VA 22209. Nestle, directly and through its agents, has substantial contacts with and receives substantial benefits and income from and through the State of New Jersey. Nestle is the owner, manufacturer, distributor, advertiser, and seller of the Products, and is the company that created and/or authorized the false, misleading, and deceptive advertisements and/or packaging and labeling for the Products.
- Ferrara Candy Company is a corporation headquartered in Illinois. 23. Ferrara maintains its principal place of business at 404 W. Harrison Street, Suite 650, Chicago, IL 60607. Ferrara, directly and through its agents, has substantial contacts with and receives substantial benefits and income from and through the State of New Jersey. Ferrara is the owner, manufacturer, distributor, advertiser, and seller of the Products, and is the company that created and/or authorized the false, misleading, and deceptive advertisements and/or packaging and labeling for the Products.
- 24. Plaintiffs are informed and believe, and based thereon allege that at all times relevant herein each of these individuals and/or entities was the agent, servant, employee, subsidiary, affiliate, partner, assignee, successor-in-interest, alter ego, or other representative of each of the other Defendant and was acting in such capacity in doing the things herein complained of and alleged.

25.	In committing the wrongful acts alleged herein, Defendants planned and participate	d in and furthered a common scheme by means of false, misleading, deceptive,	and fraudulent representations to induce members of the public to purchase the Products. Defendants participated in the making of such representations in that it did disseminate or cause to be disseminated said misreprese	entations.

- 26. Defendants, upon becoming involved with the manufacture, advertising, and sale of the Products, knew or should have known that their advertising of the Products' boxes, specifically by representing that they were full, were false, deceptive, and misleading. Defendants affirmatively misrepresented the amount of candy product contained in the Products' boxes in order to convince the public and the Products' consumers users to purchase the Products, resulting in profits of tens of millions of dollars or more to Defendants, all to the damage and detriment of the consuming public.
- 27. Defendants have created and still perpetuate a falsehood that their candy boxes contain an amount of candy commensurate with the size of the box, though they actually contain nonfunctional, unlawful slack-fill. As a result, Defendants' consistent and uniform advertising claims about the Products are false, misleading, and/or likely to deceive in violation of New Jersey and federal advertising laws.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

Section 1332 of the Class Action Fairness Act of 2005 because: (i) there are 100 or more class members, (ii) there is an aggregate amount in controversy exceeding $5,000,000, exclusive of interest and costs, and (iii) there is minimal diversity because at least one plaintiff and defendant are citizens of different states. This Court has supplemental jurisdiction over any state law claims pursuant to 28 U.S.C. Section 1367.

- Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. Section 1391, this Court is the proper venue for 29. this action because a substantial part of the events, omissions, and acts giving rise to the claims herein occurred in this District. Plaintiff Regan Iglesia is a citizen of New Jersey who resides in Atlantic County, New Jersey; Defendants made the challenged false representations to Plaintiff Iglesia in this District; Plaintiff Iglesia purchased the Products in this District; and Plaintiff Iglesia consumed the Products within this District. Moreover, Defendants receive substantial compensation from sales in this District, and Defendants made numerous misrepresentations which had a substantial effect in this District, including but not limited to, label, packaging, Internet, and infomercial advertisements, among other advertising.
- 30. Defendants are subject to personal jurisdiction in New Jersey based upon sufficient minimum contacts which exist between Defendants and New Jersey. Defendants are authorized to do and are doing business in New Jersey.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

- 31. The amount of product inside any product packaging is material to any consumer seeking to purchase that product. The average consumer spends only 13 seconds deciding whether to make an in-store purchase, which decision is heavily dependent on a product's packaging, including the package dimensions. Research has demonstrated that packages that seem larger are more likely to be purchased.²
- 32. Accordingly, Defendants chose a certain size box for its Products to convey to consumers that they are receiving a certain and substantial amount of candy commensurate with the size of the box. Such representations constitute an express warranty regarding the Products' contents.

- 33. Slack-fill is the difference between the actual capacity of a container and the volume of product contained therein. Nonfunctional slack-fill is the empty space in a package that is filled to less than its capacity for illegitimate or unlawful reasons.
- 34. Defendants falsely represent the quantity of candy in each of the Products' opaque boxes through its packaging. The size of each box leads the reasonable consumer to believe he or she is purchasing a box full of candy product when, in reality, what he or she actually receives is about one-third to one-half less than what is represented by the size of the box. Plaintiffs' packaging expert will opine that the Products contain a high degree of nonfunctional slack-fill.
- 35. Even if Plaintiffs and other reasonable consumers of the Products had a reasonable opportunity to review, prior to the point of sale, other representations of quantity, such as net weight or serving disclosures, they did not and would not have reasonably understood or expected such representations to translate to a quantity of candy product meaningfully different from their expectation of a quantity of candy product commensurate with the size of the box.
- Plaintiffs retained two economics experts. These experts conducted a 36. randomized conjoint experiment, which confirmed that nearly 90% of candy consumers overestimate the amount of candy contained in the Products. This is true even for repeat purchasers of the Products. This survey also shows that size of the Products' packaging has a significant impact on a consumer's choice to purchase the Products.
- Prior to the point of sale, the Products' packaging does not allow for a 37. visual or audial confirmation of the contents of the Products. The Products' opaque packaging prevents a consumer from observing the contents before opening. Even if a reasonable consumer were to "shake" the Products before opening the box, the reasonable consumer would not be able to discern the presence of any nonfunctional slack fill, let alone the one-third to one-half nonfunctional slack-fill that is present in the Products.

- The other information that Defendants provide about the quantity of 38. candy product on the front and back labels of the Products does not enable reasonable consumers to form any meaningful understanding about how to gauge the quantity of contents of the Products as compared to the size of the box itself. For instance, the front of the Products' packaging does not have any labels that would provide Plaintiffs with any meaningful insight as to the amount of candy to be expected, such as a fill line, actual size depiction accompanied by the words "actual size," and a numerical piece.
- Disclosures of net weight and serving sizes in ounces or grams do not 39. allow the reasonable consumer to make any meaningful conclusions about the quantity of candy contained in the Products' boxes that would be different from the reasonable consumer's expectation that the quantity of candy product is commensurate with the size of the box. Plaintiffs' randomized conjoint survey confirmed the net weight disclosures on the Products do not give consumers an accurate expectation regarding product fill level.
- 40. The net weight and serving size disclosures do not allow Plaintiffs to make – and Plaintiffs did not make – any meaningful conclusions about the quantity of candy product contained in the Products' boxes that were different than Plaintiffs' expectations that the quantity of candy product would be commensurate with the size of the box.
- Moreover, the top of the Products' boxes clearly indicate that they will 41. open outward when unsealed. This specific design leads the reasonable consumer to believe that the package does not require any empty space to account for the opening of the box, such as with a perforated tab whose intended use might be to dispense the candy product. True and correct images of the top of a representative sample of the Products' boxes appear below.

- 42. Plaintiffs would not have purchased the Products had they known that the Products contained slack-fill that serves no functional or lawful purpose.
- 43. As pictured supra, Defendants uniformly under-fill the Products' boxes, rendering about half of each box slack-fill, none of which serves a functional or lawful purpose.
- 44. As confirmed during Plaintiffs' investigation, including retention of experts in packaging design, the slack-fill contained in the Products' packaging does not protect the contents of the packages. In fact, the greater the amount of slack-fill, the more room the contents have to bounce around during shipping and handling, making it more likely that the contents will break or sustain damage. Plaintiffs shall proffer expert testimony to establish these facts once this case reaches the merits.
- 45. If, on the other hand, the amount of candy product contained in each box was commensurate with the size of the box, as reasonable consumers expect, then the candy product would have less room to move around during shipping and handling, and would be less likely to sustain damage.

- As such, the slack-fill present in the Products' packaging makes the 46. candy product more susceptible to damage, and, in fact, causes the candy product to often sustain damage.
- The Products are packaged in boxes and sealed with heated glue. A true 47. and correct representation of the heated glue on the Products' packaging is shown in the image below.

- As confirmed by Plaintiffs' expert in packaging design, the equipment 48. used to seal the box does not breach the inside of the Products' containers during the packaging process. The heated glue is applied to an exterior flap of the box, which is then sealed over the top by a second exterior flap.
- 49. As confirmed during Plaintiffs' survey of comparator boxed candy products available in the marketplace, neither the heated glue application nor the sealing equipment requires slack-fill during the manufacturing process. Even if there were no slack-fill present in the Products' boxes, the machines used for enclosing the contents in the package would work without disturbing the packaging process.
- As confirmed by Plaintiffs' expert in packaging design, the slack-fill 50. present in the Products' containers is not a result of the candy product settling during shipping and handling. Given the Products' density, shape, and composition, any settling occurs immediately at the point of filling the box. No additional product settling occurs during subsequent shipping and handling.

- 51. The contents of the Products are of a great enough density that any slack-fill present at the point of sale was present at the time of filling the containers and packaging the contents.
- As confirmed by Plaintiffs' expert in packaging design, the Products' 52. packaging is not reusable or of any significant value to the Products independent of its function to hold the candy product. The Products' containers are boxes intended to be discarded immediately after the candy is eaten.
- 53. As confirmed by Plaintiffs' expert in packaging design, the slack-fill present in the Products' containers does not accommodate required labeling, discourage pilfering, facilitate handling, or prevent tampering.
- Defendants can easily increase the quantity of candy product contained 54. in each box (or, alternatively, decrease the size of the containers) by 33-50% more volume.
- 55. The "Nutrition Facts" panel on the back of each box states "Servings Per Container about 4." By arithmetic, each serving would be equal to 100% expected total fill, divided by 4 servings, yielding a value of 25% of volume per serving. Given the Products can accommodate an additional 45% of candy product, consumers are being shortchanged roughly 1.8 servings per box. True and accurate representations of the Products' net weight and serving size disclosures are set forth below.
- Contrast Defendants' packaging of the Products with a comparator 56. product, such as "Boston Baked Beans" ("Boston Beans"), a candy product manufactured by Defendant Ferrara itself, and similarly sold at movie theaters and retail outlets located throughout New Jersey and the United States. A true and correct representation of the front of the Boston Beans product is shown in the image below.

- 57. Boston Beans are sold in identical packaging to that of the Products, i.e., opaque boxes of identical size, shape, volume, and material. Boston Beans are packaged using nearly identical fill and heated glue enclosing machines to those of the Products.
- 58. Boston Beans are coated candies of nearly identical size, shape, and density of that of the Products. However, contrary to the Products, Boston Beans have very little slack-fill and negligible nonfunctional slack-fill. A true and correct representation of the open container of Boston Beans is pictured in the image below.

59. Boston Beans' packaging provides additional evidence that the slack-fill present in the Products' packaging is nonfunctional to the tune of 33-50%.

- Boston Beans' packaging provides additional evidence that the slack-fill 60. in the Products is not necessary to protect and, in fact, does not protect, the contents of the Products; is not a requirement of the machines used for enclosing the contents of the Products; is not a result of unavoidable product settling during shipping and handling; is not needed to perform a specific function; and is not part of a legitimate reusable container.
- 61. Boston Beans' packaging provides additional evidence that Defendants are able to increase the level of fill inside the Products' boxes.
- 62. Boston Beans' packaging provides more evidence that Defendants have reasonable alternative designs available to them in their packaging of the Products.
- 63. As confirmed by Plaintiffs' economics experts and large-scale, randomized conjoint consumer study, fill level and box size have a causal impact on consumers' willingness to pay for the Products. These experts were able to calculate the price premia attributable to the slack-fill contained in each one of the Products' packaging. These premia are in the range of 9.5 percent to 19.6 percent for the Retail channel, and 6.4 percent to 13.5 percent for the Movie Theater channel.
- 64. Plaintiffs did not expect that the Products would contain nonfunctional slack-fill, especially given that nonfunctional slack-fill, as opposed to functional slack-fill, is prohibited by federal law as well as New Jersey law.
- 65. The Products are made, formed, and filled so as to be misleading. The Products are, therefore, misbranded.
- The slack-fill contained in the Products does not serve a legitimate or 66. lawful purpose.
- 67. Defendants' false, deceptive, and misleading label statements are unlawful under state and federal consumer protection and packaging laws.
 - 68. Defendants intended for Plaintiffs and the Class members to be misled.
- Defendants' misleading and deceptive practices proximately caused 69. harm to Plaintiffs and the Class.

CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

70. Plaintiffs bring this action individually and on behalf of a class of all other persons similarly situated. The Class which Plaintiffs seek to represent comprises:

> "All persons who purchased the Product in the United States or, alternatively, in New Jersey, New York, Florida, Michigan, Illinois, North Carolina, and/or Texas, for personal consumption and not for resale during the time period of six years prior to the filing of the complaint through the present."

Said definition may be further defined or amended by additional pleadings, evidentiary hearings, a class certification hearing, and orders of this Court.

- On April 29, 2020, a California State Court certified a class action against these Defendants for the same claims involving the same products under California law. See Thomas v. Nestle USA, Inc., Los Angeles Superior Court Case No. BC 649863 (Apr. 29, 2020).
- In Thomas, supra, these Defendants admitted the following about the 72. Products at issue in the instant case:
 - a. "The package for each individual candy Product measures the same length and width as all of the other packages for that individual type of candy Product. In other words, the length and width of all of the Raisinets boxes are the same."
 - b. "The package for each individual candy Product is intended to contain the same net weight of candy as all of the other packages for that individual type of candy Product. In other words, the net weight of the candy in all of the Raisinets boxes is intended to be the same."
 - c. "All of the candy products within a brand (i.e., all Raisinets) are packaged in the same manner. Accordingly, the existence and/or amount of functional slack-fill (if any) is consistent among all of the packages within a particular brand. Specifically, the basis for asserting that a particular brand of candy Product contains functional slack-fill would be consistent among all packages within a particular brand, i.e., the basis for non-functional slack-fill in the packaging for Raisinets would be the same as to all packages of Raisinets."

- 73. On March 25, 2019, the United States District Court for the Central District of California certified a class action against one of Defendants' highly visible competitors involving nearly identical claims and products under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23. See Escobar v. Just Born, Inc., Case No. 2:17-cv-01826-BRO-PJW (C.D. Cal. Mar. 25, 2019).
- The Class is so numerous that their individual joinder herein is 74. impracticable. On information and belief, members of the Class number in the millions throughout New Jersey, New York, Florida, Michigan, Illinois, North Carolina, and Texas. The precise number of Class members and their identities are unknown to Plaintiffs at this time but may be determined through discovery. Class members may be notified of the pendency of this action by mail and/or publication through the distribution records of Defendants and third-party retailers and vendors.
- 75. Common questions of law and fact exist as to all Class members and predominate over questions affecting only individual Class members. Common legal and factual questions include, but are not limited to:
 - a. The true nature and amount of product contained in each Products' packaging;
 - b. Whether the marketing, advertising, packaging, labeling, and other promotional materials for the Products are deceptive;
 - c. Whether Defendants misrepresented the approval of the FDA, United States Congress, and New Jersey Legislature that the Products'

packaging com	plied with federal	l and New Jersey	slack-fill regula	tions and statutes;

- d. Whether the Products contain nonfunctional slack-fill in violation of 21 C.F.R. Section 100.100, et seq.;
- e. Whether Defendants' conduct is a deceptive act within the meaning of New Jersey Statues 56:8-1, et seq.;
- f. Whether Defendants' conduct is a false advertising within the meaning of New Jersey Administrative Code Section 13:45A-9.1, et seq.;
- g. Whether Defendants' conduct is a deceptive act or practice within the meaning of New York General Business Law Section 349, et seq.;
- h. Whether Defendants' conduct is a deceptive act or practice within the meaning of New York General Business Law Section 349, et seq.;
- i. Whether Defendants' conduct is an unfair and deceptive act or practice within the meaning of Florida Statutes Section 501.201, et seq.;
- j. Whether Defendants' conduct is an unfair and deceptive act within the meaning of Michigan Compiled Laws Section 445.901, et seq.;
- k. Whether Defendants' conduct is a deceptive and unfair act or practice within the meaning of Illinois Compiled Statutes Chapter 815 Section 505/1, et seq.;
- 1. Whether Defendants' conduct is an unfair and deceptive act or practice within the meaning of North Carolina General Statutes Section 75-1.1, et seq.;
- m. Whether Defendants' conduct is a false, misleading, and deceptive business practice within the meaning of Texas Business and Commercial Code Section 17.41, et seq.;
- n. Whether Plaintiffs and the Class paid more money for the Products than they actually received;

- o. How much money Plaintiffs and the Class paid for the Products than they actually received;
- p. Whether Defendants were unjustly enriched at the expense of Plaintiffs and the Class members;
- g. Whether Defendants committed common law fraud; and
- r. Whether Defendants breached an implied warranty to Plaintiffs and Class members.
- Plaintiffs' claims are typical of the claims of the Class, and Plaintiffs 76. will fairly and adequately represent and protect the interests of the Class. Plaintiffs have retained competent and experienced counsel in class action and other complex litigation. Plaintiffs' Counsel prosecuted the largest slack-fill nationwide class action settlement in 2018. Plaintiffs' Counsel also was the first law firm to successfully certify a slack-fill lawsuit involving theater box candy confectioners (twice in 2019 and 2020, respectively).
- Plaintiffs and the Class have suffered injury in fact and have lost money 77. as a result of Defendants' false representations. Plaintiffs purchased the Products because of the size of the box and the product label, which they believed to be indicative of the amount of candy product contained therein as commensurate with the size of the box. Plaintiffs relied on Defendants' representations and would not have purchased the Products if they had known that the packaging, labeling, and advertising as described herein was false and misleading.
- A class action is superior to other available methods for fair and 78. efficient adjudication of this controversy. The expense and burden of individual litigation would make it impracticable or impossible for Class members to prosecute their claims individually.
- 79. The trial and litigation of Plaintiffs' claims are manageable. Individual litigation of the legal and factual issues raised by Defendants' conduct would increase delay and expense to all parties and the court system. The class action device presents far fewer management difficulties and provides the benefits of a single, uniform adjudication, economies of scale, and comprehensive supervision by a single court.

- 80. Defendants have acted on grounds generally applicable to the entire Class, thereby making final injunctive relief and/or corresponding declaratory relief appropriate with respect to the Class as a whole. The prosecution of separate actions by individual Class members would create the risk of inconsistent or varying adjudications with respect to individual members of the Class that would establish incompatible standards of conduct for Defendants.
- 81. Absent a class action, Defendants will likely retain the benefits of their wrongdoing. Because of the small size of the individual Class members' claims, few, if any, Class members could afford to seek legal redress for the wrongs complained of herein. Absent a representative action, the Class members will continue to suffer losses and Defendants will be allowed to continue these violations of law and to retain the proceeds of their ill-gotten gains.

COUNT ONE

Violation of New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act, N.J.S.A. § 56:8-1, et seq.

(By Plaintiff Iglesia against Defendants)

- 82. Plaintiff Iglesia repeats and realleges the all allegations of the previous paragraphs, and incorporates the same as if set forth herein at length.
- 83. This cause of action is brought pursuant to New Jersey Statute Annotated Section 56:8-1, et seq., the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act ("CFA"), on behalf of a Class consisting of "All persons who purchased the Product in the State of New Jersey for personal use and not for resale during the time period of six years prior to the filing of the complaint through the present. Excluded from the Class are Defendants' officers, directors, and employees, and any individual who received remuneration from Defendants in connection with that individual's use or endorsement of the Product."

- The CFA, N.J.S.A. § 56:8-2 deems "...[a]ny unconscionable 84. commercial practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, or the knowing, concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale or advertisement of any merchandise ... whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby ... is declared to be an unlawful practice..."
- In violation of the CFA, Defendants have affirmatively misrepresented 85. material facts with the intent that consumers rely upon such concealment and deception in connection with the amount of product that is contained in each Products' packaging.
- 86. If a person suffers "any ascertainable loss of moneys or property, real or personal, as a result of the use or employment by another person of any method, act, or practice declared unlawful under" the CFA "may bring an action . . . therefor in any court of competent jurisdiction" for "legal or equitable relief" "sustained by any person in interest," pursuant to N.J.S.A. § 56:8-19.
- 87. The practices described herein, specifically Defendants' labeling, advertising, and sale of the Products, were intended to result and did result in the sale of the Products to the consuming public and violated and continue to violate the CFA by (1) engaging in an unlawful practice using deceptive representations in connection with the Products; (2) resulting in an ascertainable loss to Plaintiff and the Plaintiff's Class; and (3) the unlawful conduct created the ascertainable loss.
- 88. Defendants' conduct, as set forth above, constitutes unfair, fraudulent and/or deceptive trade practices prohibited under the CFA.
- 89. Defendants fraudulently deceived Plaintiffs and the Class, and intentionally misrepresented and concealed material facts from Plaintiff Iglesia and the Class. Said misrepresentations and concealment were done with the intention of deceiving Plaintiff Iglesia and the Class and depriving them of their legal rights and money.

- 90. Defendants knew or should have known, through the exercise of reasonable care, that the Products were consistently underfilled by one-third to onehalf with nonfunctional and unlawful slack-fill.
- 91. Defendants' actions as described herein were done with conscious disregard of Plaintiff Iglesia's rights and Defendants were wanton and malicious in its concealment of the same.
- 92. Defendants' packaging, labeling, and advertising of the Products were a material factor in Plaintiff Iglesia's and the Class's decisions to purchase the Products, as they indicated the amount of product contained in the Products' packaging would be commensurate with the size of the box. Defendants' packaging and labeling were intended to, and did, induce Plaintiff Iglesia and members of the Class to rely upon Defendants' representations that the Products' packaging would be adequately filled with candy product. These representations were a substantial factor in causing Plaintiff Iglesia and the Class to purchase the Products.
- 93. Based on Defendants' advertising of the Products, Plaintiff Iglesia and the Class reasonably believed they would receive boxes that contained a greater amount of candy product.
- 94. At the time Plaintiff Iglesia and the Class purchased the Products, they were unaware of the fact that the Products contained significantly less product than indicated by the product packaging, specifically one-third to one-half less.
- 95. Had they known that Defendants were making misrepresentations about the Products' quantity, Plaintiff Iglesia and the Class would not have purchased the Products.
- Plaintiff Iglesia and the Class have suffered injury in fact and have lost 96. money as a result of Defendants' false representations.

COUNT TWO

Breach of Express Warranty,

N.J.S.A. § 12A:2-313, et seq.

(By Plaintiff Iglesia against Defendants)

- 97. Plaintiff Iglesia repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in the preceding paragraphs, and incorporates the same as if set forth herein at length.
- 98. This cause of action is brought on behalf of a Class consisting of "All persons who purchased the Product in the State of New Jersey for personal use and not for resale during the time six years prior to the filing of this complaint, through the present. Excluded from the Class are Defendants' officers, directors, and employees, and any individual who received remuneration from Defendants in connection with that individual's use or endorsement of the Product."
- 99. Plaintiff Iglesia and each member of the Nationwide Class formed a contract with Defendants at the time they purchased the Products. The terms of such contract included the promises and affirmations of fact made by Defendants on the Products' packaging, including the amount and quantity of candy product contained therein. This labeling, marketing, and advertising constitute express warranties that became part of the basis of the bargain, and which are part of the standardized contract between Plaintiffs and members of the Nationwide Class and Defendants.
- 100. Defendants purport, through their advertising, labeling, marketing, and packaging, to create an express warranty that the Products' packaging contains an expected certain amount of candy product therein.
- 101. Plaintiff Iglesia and the Nationwide Class performed all conditions precedent to Defendants' liability under this contract when they purchased the Products.
- 102. Defendants breached express warranties about the Products and their quantities, because Defendants' statements about the Products were false and the Products do not conform to Defendants' affirmations and promises, as described herein. S	pecifically, the	he Products'	boxes contain	one-third to	one-half less	candy product t	han consume	ers expect to	receive.

103. Plaintiff Iglesia and the Class were injured as a direct result of Defendants' breach because (a) they would not have purchased the Products if they had known the true facts; (b) they paid a premium due to the mislabeling of the Products; and (c) the Products did not have the quantity that was promised.

COUNT THREE

Violation of New York Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act, N.Y.G.B.L. § 349, et seq.

(By Plaintiffs Fertel, Rosenberg, and Yd against Defendants)

- 104. Plaintiffs Fertel, Rosenberg, and Yd repeat and reallege the allegations of the previous paragraphs and incorporate the same as if set forth herein at length.
- 105. This cause of action is brought pursuant to New York General Business Law Section 349, et seq., on behalf of Plaintiffs Fertel, Rosenberg, and Yd, and the Class consisting of all persons residing in the United States and/or State of New York who purchased the Products for personal consumption and not for resale during the time period of four years prior to the filing of the complaint through the present.
- 106. New York General Business Law Section 349 provides that "deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce or in the furnishing of any service in this state are . . . unlawful."
- 107. Defendants, in their advertising and packaging of the Products, make false and misleading statements regarding the quality and characteristics of the Products, particularly that the Products' packages are filled with candy product when they are not. Such misrepresentations appear on the label and packaging of the Products, which are sold at movie theatres and retail locations nationwide, point-of-purchase displays, as well as Defendants' website and other retailers' advertisements which have adopted Defendants' advertisements.

- 109. Defendants do not have any reasonable basis for the claims about the Products made in Defendants' advertising and on Defendants' packaging or label because the Products' packages are underfilled by one-third to one-half.
- Defendants knew that the misrepresentations it made and continues to 110. make about the Products are false and misleading.
- 111. The above-described practices employed by Defendants, whereby it advertises, promotes, and markets its Products as being full of candy, are unfair, deceptive, misleading, and are therefore unlawful acts in violation of New York General Business Law Section 349.
 - 112. The foregoing deceptive acts and practices were directed at consumers.
- 113. Pursuant to New York General Business Law Section 349, Plaintiffs Fertel, Rosenberg, and Yd seek injunctive relief in the form of an order enjoining the above-described wrongful acts and practices of Defendants, including, but not limited to, an order enjoining Defendants from continuing to make the representations set forth above that the Products' packages are filled with candy product.

Such misrepresentations appear on the label and packaging of the Products, which are sold at movie theatres and retail locations nationwide and on Defendants' website.
- 118. Defendants' claims about the Products lead reasonable consumers to believe that the Products' packages contain an amount of candy product commensurate with the size of the box.
- Defendants do not have any reasonable basis for such label and 119. advertising claims.
- 120. Defendants knew or should have known that their misrepresentations are false and misleading.
- 121. Plaintiffs Fertel, Rosenberg, and Yd would not have purchased the Products but for the representations by Defendants that the Products' packages were adequately full of candy product, i.e., filled commensurate with the size of the box.
- 122. Plaintiffs Fertel, Rosenberg, and Yd, and the Class have suffered injury in fact and lost money as a result of and in reasonable and detrimental reliance upon Defendants' false representations.

- Defendants fraudulently deceived Plaintiff Ferguson and the Class. In 182. doing so, Defendants intentionally misled and concealed material facts from Plaintiff Ferguson and the Class, specifically by misrepresenting and advertising that the Products' boxes are sufficiently full of candy product when, in fact, they are underfilled by one-third to one-half. Said misleading statements and concealment were done with the intention of deceiving Plaintiff Ferguson and the Class, and depriving them of their legal rights and money.
- Defendants' claims about the Products led and continue to lead 183. consumers like Plaintiff Ferguson to reasonably believe that the Products' packages contain a quantity of candy product commensurate with the size of their boxes.

Unjust Enrichment

(By Plaintiffs against Defendants)

- 189. Plaintiffs repeat and reallege the allegations set forth in the preceding paragraphs, and incorporate the same as if set forth herein at length.
- As a result of Defendants' wrongful and deceptive conduct, Plaintiffs 190. and the Class have suffered a detriment while Defendants have received a benefit.
- In purchasing the Products, Plaintiffs and the Class conferred a benefit 191. upon Defendants by paying a premium price for the purchase of each Product. Plaintiffs and the Class paid for the Products with the expectation that they would receive packages that were full of candy product, as indicated by the labeling, advertising, and marketing of the Products.
- 192. Defendants have been unjustly enriched in retaining the revenues derived from Plaintiffs' and the Class' purchases, which retention under these circumstances is unjust and inequitable.
- Defendants should not be allowed to retain the profits generated and 193. profits realized from the sale of the Products that were unlawfully marketed, labeled, and promoted.
- 194. Allowing Defendants to retain these unjust profits is inequitable and would offend traditional notions of justice and fair play and induce companies to misrepresent key characteristics of their products in order to increase sales.
- Because Defendants' retention of the non-gratuitous benefit conferred 195. on it by Plaintiffs and the Class is unjust and inequitable, Defendants must pay restitution to Plaintiffs and the Class members for its unjust enrichment.

Common Law Fraud

(By Plaintiffs against Defendants)

- 196. Plaintiffs repeat and reallege all of the allegations contained in the preceding paragraphs and incorporate the same as if set forth herein at length.
- Plaintiffs bring this cause of action individually and on behalf of the 197. members of the Class against Defendants.
- 198. Defendants have willfully, falsely, and knowingly filled and packaged the Products in a manner indicating that the Products are sufficiently filled with an amount of candy product commensurate with the size of the container. However, the Products contain one-third to one-half less candy product than required and instead contain a substantial amount of nonfunctional and unlawful slack-fill. Defendants have misrepresented the quantity of candy product contained in the Products.
- 199. Defendants' misrepresentations are and were material (i.e., the type of misrepresentations to which a reasonable person would attach importance and would be induced to act thereon in making his or her purchase decision), because they relate to the quantity of candy product contained in the Products.
- 200. Defendants knew of, or showed reckless disregard for, the fact that the Products contained a substantial amount of nonfunctional slack-fill.
- Defendants intended for Plaintiffs and the Class to rely on these 201. representations, as evidenced by Defendants' intentional manufacturing of packaging that is substantially larger than necessary to hold the volume of the contents contained therein.
- Plaintiffs and the Class have reasonably and detrimentally relied on 202. Defendants' misrepresentations when purchasing the Products and, had they known the truth, they would not have purchased the Products or would have paid significantly less for the Products.

- Plaintiffs bring this cause of action individually and on behalf of the 205. members of the Class against Defendants.
- 206. Defendants, as the designer, manufacturer, marketer, distributor, and seller of the Products, impliedly warranted that the Products contained an adequate amount of candy product for containers of their size.
- 207. Defendants breached the warranty implied in the contract for sale of the Products because it could not pass without objection in the trade under the contract description, the goods were not of fair average quality within the description, and the foods were unfit for their intended and ordinary purpose because the Products' packages do not contain an adequate amount of candy for containers of their size. As a result, Plaintiffs and Class members did not receive the goods as impliedly warranted by Defendants to be merchantable.
- 208. Plaintiffs and Class members purchased the Products in reliance upon Defendants' skill and judgment and the implied warranties of fitness for the purpose.
- 209. The Products were defectively designed and unfit for their intended purpose, and Plaintiffs and the Class did not receive the goods as warranted.

Intentional Misrepresentation

(By Plaintiffs against Defendants)

- 211. Plaintiffs repeat and reallege all of the allegations contained above and incorporate the same as if set forth herein at length.
- Plaintiffs bring this cause of action individually and on behalf of all 212. members of the Class against Defendants.
- Defendants have filled and packaged the Products in a manner 213. indicating that the Products are adequately filled with candy product. However, the Products contain one-third to one-half less candy product than requried and instead contain a substantial amount of nonfunctional slack-fill. Defendants misrepresented the quantity of candy product contained within the Products' packaging.
- Defendants' misrepresentations regarding the Products are material to a 214. reasonable consumer, as they relate to the quantity of product received by consumers. A reasonable consumer would attach importance to such representations and would be induced to act thereon in making his or her purchase decision.
- 215. At all relevant times when such misrepresentations were made, Defendants knew or should have known that the representations were misleading.
- Defendants intended for Plaintiffs and the Class to rely on the size and 216. style of the Products' packaging, as evidenced by Defendants' intentional manufacturing, marketing, and selling of packaging that is significantly larger than is necessary to contain the volume of the contents within them.

they known the truth, they would not have purchased the Products or would have purchased them at significantly lower prices.

218. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' intentional misrepresentations, Plaintiffs and members of the Class have suffered injury in fact.

(By Plaintiffs against Defendants)

- 219. Plaintiffs repeat and reallege all of the allegations contained above and incorporate the same as if set forth herein at length.
- 220. Plaintiffs bring this cause of action individually and on behalf of the Class against Defendants.
- 221. Defendants have filled and packaged the Products in a manner indicating that the Products are adequately filled with candy product. However, the Products contain one-third to one-half less candy product than required and instead contain a substantial amount of nonfunctional slack-fill. Therefore, Defendants have misrepresented the amount of candy product contained in the Products.
- 222. Defendants' misrepresentations regarding the Products are material to a reasonable consumer, as they relate to the quantity of product received by the consumer. A reasonably consumer would attach importance to such representations and would be induced to act thereon in making his or her purchase decision.
- 223. At all relevant times when such misrepresentations were made, Defendants knew or should have known that the Products were not adequately filled with candy but instead contained a substantial amount of nonfunctional slack-fill.
- 224. Defendants intended for Plaintiffs and the Class to rely on the size and style of the Products' packaging, as evidence by Defendants' packaging that is significantly larger than is necessary to contain the volume of the candy product therein.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ATTORNEYS COMPLETING CIVIL COVER SHEET FORM JS 44

Authority For Civil Cover Sheet

The JS 44 civil cover sheet and the information contained herein neither replaces nor supplements the filings and service of pleading or other papers as required by law, except as provided by local rules of court. This form, approved by the Judicial Conference of the United States in September 1974, is required for the use of the Clerk of Court for the purpose of initiating the civil docket sheet. Consequently, a civil cover sheet is submitted to the Clerk of Court for each civil complaint filed. The attorney filing a case should complete the form as follows:

- I.(a) Plaintiffs-Defendants. Enter names (last, first, middle initial) of plaintiff and defendant. If the plaintiff or defendant is a government agency, use only the full name or standard abbreviations. If the plaintiff or defendant is an official within a government agency, identify first the agency and then the official, giving both name and title.
- (b) County of Residence. For each civil case filed, except U.S. plaintiff cases, enter the name of the county where the first listed plaintiff resides at the time of filing. In U.S. plaintiff cases, enter the name of the county in which the first listed defendant resides at the time of filing. (NOTE: In land condemnation cases, the county of residence of the "defendant" is the location of the tract of land involved.)
- (c) Attorneys. Enter the firm name, address, telephone number, and attorney of record. If there are several attorneys, list them on an attachment, noting in this section "(see attachment)".
- II. Jurisdiction. The basis of jurisdiction is set forth under Rule 8(a), F.R.Cv.P., which requires that jurisdictions be shown in pleadings. Place an "X" in one of the boxes. If there is more than one basis of jurisdiction, precedence is given in the order shown below.

 United States plaintiff. (1) Jurisdiction based on 28 U.S.C. 1345 and 1348. Suits by agencies and officers of the United States are included here.

United States plaintiff. (1) Jurisdiction based on 28 U.S.C. 1345 and 1348. Suits by agencies and officers of the United States are included here. United States defendant. (2) When the plaintiff is suing the United States, its officers or agencies, place an "X" in this box.

Federal question. (3) This refers to suits under 28 U.S.C. 1331, where jurisdiction arises under the Constitution of the United States, an amendment to the Constitution, an act of Congress or a treaty of the United States. In cases where the U.S. is a party, the U.S. plaintiff or defendant code takes precedence, and box 1 or 2 should be marked.

Diversity of citizenship. (4) This refers to suits under 28 U.S.C. 1332, where parties are citizens of different states. When Box 4 is checked, the citizenship of the different parties must be checked. (See Section III below; NOTE: federal question actions take precedence over diversity cases.)

- III. Residence (citizenship) of Principal Parties. This section of the JS 44 is to be completed if diversity of citizenship was indicated above. Mark this section for each principal party.
- IV. Nature of Suit. Place an "X" in the appropriate box. If there are multiple nature of suit codes associated with the case, pick the nature of suit code that is most applicable. Click here for: Nature of Suit Code Descriptions.
- V. Origin. Place an "X" in one of the seven boxes.

Original Proceedings. (1) Cases which originate in the United States district courts.

Removed from State Court. (2) Proceedings initiated in state courts may be removed to the district courts under Title 28 U.S.C., Section 1441. When the petition for removal is granted, check this box.

Remanded from Appellate Court. (3) Check this box for cases remanded to the district court for further action. Use the date of remand as the filing date.

Reinstated or Reopened. (4) Check this box for cases reinstated or reopened in the district court. Use the reopening date as the filing date. Transferred from Another District. (5) For cases transferred under Title 28 U.S.C. Section 1404(a). Do not use this for within district transfers or multidistrict litigation transfers.

Multidistrict Litigation – Transfer. (6) Check this box when a multidistrict case is transferred into the district under authority of Title 28 U.S.C. Section 1407

Multidistrict Litigation – Direct File. (8) Check this box when a multidistrict case is filed in the same district as the Master MDL docket.

PLEASE NOTE THAT THERE IS NOT AN ORIGIN CODE 7. Origin Code 7 was used for historical records and is no longer relevant due to changes in statue.

- VI. Cause of Action. Report the civil statute directly related to the cause of action and give a brief description of the cause. Do not cite jurisdictional statutes unless diversity. Example: U.S. Civil Statute: 47 USC 553 Brief Description: Unauthorized reception of cable service
- VII. Requested in Complaint. Class Action. Place an "X" in this box if you are filing a class action under Rule 23, F.R.Cv.P. Demand. In this space enter the actual dollar amount being demanded or indicate other demand, such as a preliminary injunction. Jury Demand. Check the appropriate box to indicate whether or not a jury is being demanded.
- VIII. Related Cases. This section of the JS 44 is used to reference related pending cases, if any. If there are related pending cases, insert the docket numbers and the corresponding judge names for such cases.

Date and Attorney Signature. Date and sign the civil cover sheet.
