rachel__ryan Wow yesterday was amazing. I feel so blessed to have picked up my first free car with MARY KAY. When I joined this company, I knew that there was something special about my place in it. I had no idea that I would be picking up a free car a year and a half later with another one already on the way. The personal growth that it took to get here was worth all of the days where I felt like I had no idea what I was doing. The amount of support that I have received by my friends, family, customers, and team has blown me away- even in the beginning, when some didn't understand why I would choose to do this.

In June I went on target for this car and in July I almost fell off target. I decided on the 30th of July that it would be okay if I had to wait longer to earn my car and start over and then woke up on the 31st and thought "what are you doing, figure it out and make it happen". So many of my customers, friends, family, and team members helped make this happen for me and so many of you told me you believed in me. Your support means so much to me.

Swipe for a recreation of our photoshopped picture that I used while trying to earn my car.

I'm so glad God gave us the free will to set our minds to what we wish to
