about anything in particular since the wedding planning was over (except my husband of course-haha.

Two weeks later my new Instagram friend drove 6 hours to meet me (a complete stranger) and we had my "debut party". I sold over $600 and I couldn't believe it. That lit a spark in me.

2 years. 2 years! Now I'm here... I've earned two free cars. I'm making at least 3x more than I did at my previous job, and I'm just happy! I love what I do. So I don't say all of this to sound "braggy". I say it because hard work combined with passion will get you farther faster and I encourage everyone to find something they love to do and find joy doing. It makes so much more of a difference. And it doesn't even have to take 2 years for you! It could have to take 2 years for you! It could take less!

So here we are, 2 years after I messaged a stranger on Instagram because I thought it was SoOoOo cool that she drove a pink car and now my Unit and I will be earning our own by the end of next month.

Today is also Mary Kay Ash's birthday and Jamie told me that one day it will probably mean a lot to me that I signed my agreement on her birthday. It sure does feel extra special this year. Thanks Mary Kay for never giving up on your goals and dreams and for believing in every single woman in the world. You truly have made a difference in my life in only 2 short years 💕.

And if any of you out there want to
