COACHING

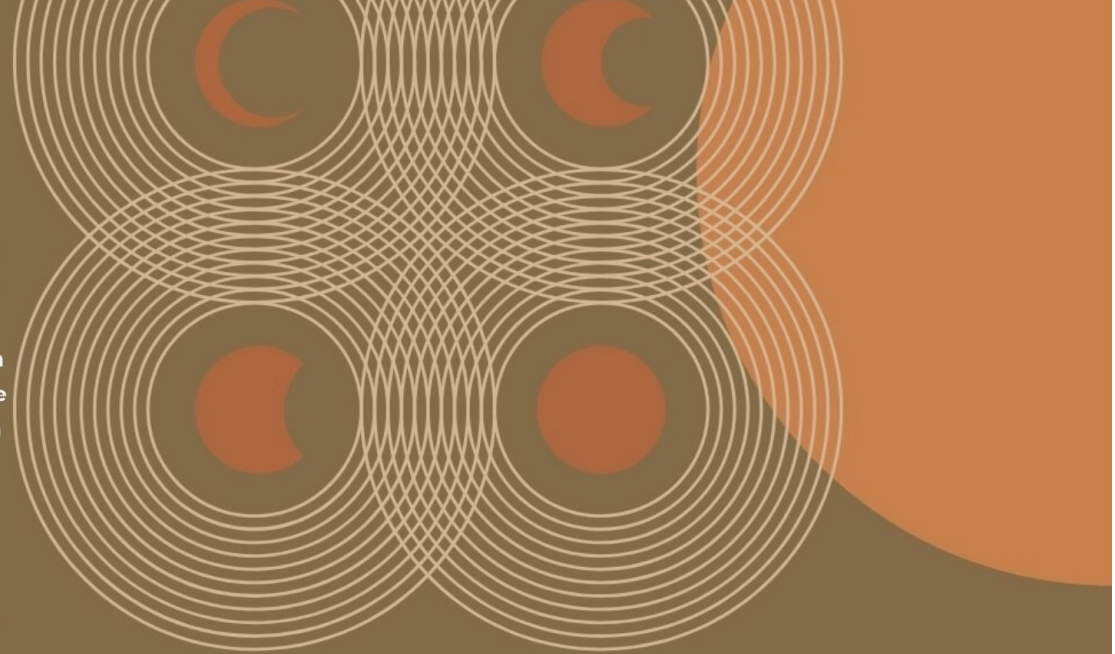

Kangen Water Distributor + Online Business Coach. I started a profitable, sustainable online business and I teach other millennial women how to do the same.

MY METHOD

I think sales feels dirty to a lot of people. Makes sense, many people in sales are selling products they don't care about, and aren't making the world any better. Just making a quick buck off of people for something that is just going to end up in a landfill later anyways. This isn't that. I mentor women in high-ticket sales for a product that can dramatically reduce toxins and single use plastics around the home. It also has a multitude of scientifically proven health benefits.

MY REASON

I went from working at a 9-5, waking up every morning flipping between "how is this helping the greater good" and "how am I going to pay my bills" to owning an online business that I know is helping in my personal mission of sustainability, and doesn't leave me wondering how I am going to pay for things. It feels freeing to be able to structure my life by design without the weight of societal norms but still having a stable income. My wish is for you to feel that freedom as well.
