Global Domains International: A Truly Marketable Product

Global Domains International has been around since the year 2000. Michael Starr and Alan Ezeir are the co-founders. Their dated existence is certainly a sign of stability and longevity; both of which are ideal qualities when looking to invest in a business. As with every company, Global Domains International has a product/service line. This unique company sells .WS internet domain properties and an inexpensive website hosting service.

Considering how many new websites sprout up daily, it is safe to say that Global Domains International promotes a marketable product line. A high quality and marketable product is yet another attractive feature of this multi-level marketing company.

Global Domains International: Multi-level Marketing

As I mentioned previously, Global Domains International is a multi-level marketing (also known as network marketing) company. Considering the majority of consumers are essentially immune to traditional advertisements, network marketing and word of mouth are increasingly effective modern marketing methods. This notion is especially true if a multi-level marketer takes the time to learn some proven internet marketing strategies.

For whatever reason, network marketing, or MLM, tends to attract scrutiny wherever it is mentioned. Because there is a widespread concern for potential Ponzi and/or pyramid schemes, potential consumers are often weary before investing in the business or purchasing a product.

After further review of the company's makeup and history, I feel confident in saying that Global Domains International is definitely not a scheme or scam. Given proper commitment and marketing methods, it is legitimately possible to build a lucrative business with the company's 5 level network marketing compensation plan.

Using the Internet to build your Global Domains International Business

As I've addressed previously, Global Domains International is an attractive and legitimate business opportunity. Not only does the company offer a product in high demand, but
