DANCING QUEEN

Sarah

At eighteen Sarah started her career as a professional dancer...

I travelled the world dancing, living in some incredible places. I worked on cruise liners, danced in West End-style shows and worked as a Las Vegas showgirl.

I had my little girl when I was twenty-six and went straight back to dancing professionally after just two months off - bikinis, feathers, sequins and all! As a single mum, my daughter was predominantly with my parents while I was dancing evenings, weekends, and sometimes spending days on end away in Europe. I hated leaving her, but obviously with a career such as dancing, you have to travel to where the work is.

I loved my career, but I loved my daughter more. I wanted to be a mum who was always around but who could also provide a really good life for us both, so I decided to look at a change of career.

I was also teaching dance part time at this time just to make ends meet and keep a roof over our heads and this became a real stress on my health. Whilst I do have some existing health challenges, I came across aloe vera from a stranger on Facebook, and so I started using and loving the products and the results I was getting, feeling super healthy and well. I looked into the business model and loved what I saw so began my journey with forever.

I made Manager in just three short months and was able to retire from my professional dancing career within six months. This meant I could be the mum I wanted to be as well as teach dance in the evening which was still a huge passion of mine. I've been on many holidays through the Forever Eagle Manager and Global Rally incentives, including USA, Singapore, South Africa and Mexico.

I'm massively driven by the need to help people achieve their own individual goals. Seeing other people's lives change in the way mine has is so important to me, and seeing families change in the way mine has is just priceless. Not just with the business, but also the products, as they have had a massive impact on my life and my health.

My daughter is a huge inspiration to me. She now dances and trains with The Royal Ballet School, which is funded solely through my Forever business. There is nothing we can't achieve and Forever has taught me not only to be an incredible business woman, but also if you really want something you really can go out and get it.

Forever has definitely changed our lives forever.
