A little over a year ago I watched a TV interview that was just a random click on YouTube when I was done watching mindset stuff. I watched 6 teenage girls explain why they wished they grew up in the 80s. They explained that it looked like it was a more simpler time. They didn't have the pressure of social media.

After the interview, the host dropped the stats that 30% of teenagers have a form of mental illness. What was even more shocking was 50% of adult women have a form of mental illness. 😬

I was inspired and wanted to create a supplement that could support people to feel more present with their life, family, and themselves! Help them to stop and smell the roses. I never imagined that inspiration would become Axis Klarity on a oral mouth strip in Elomir a year and half later!

Our product is not white labeled! We had a say in every ingredient we used to create Axis Klarity! Our products are formulated with our consumers satisfaction in mind and done at the highest quality of cleanliness and integrity! The buzz of Axis Klarity is REAL.

Everyone at manufacturing is in hyper overdrive for Elomir. Our team has 3 shifts manufacturing 20 hours a day to prepare for one of the biggest launches NWM will see. There are 2 additional strip machines already purchased and en route so that by 90-120 days from now our scale ability will support $10 million in revenue a month! This type of investment has never been done for any other company and we are in complete shock of the belief everyone has in Elomir to make all of this happen!! ❤️😬

July 5 will be one for the books!!
