bristol.kantor Let's chat confidence for a minute. You know me, I've been very open with my struggles whatever they be and I want you to be okay with it too. We don't have to be perfect and we don't need to shy away from talking about what we struggle with. I think for most women, looks are huge for us. Our hair, our body image, our outfits. One thing that's been on my mind is hair. I've always had thin hair, I've always wanted thick, LUXURIOUS hair. I will sit here + nitpick my hair. It's taken me YEARS to realize that my hair doesn't define me. I have lived far too long thinking I wasn't pretty enough because my hair felt like a twig on my head (twigs are
