I usually have a million thoughts going on in my head at once. It gets so bad that sometimes I feel stuck, not knowing what to tackle first. This strip quiets down all the noise in my brain and helps me focus on one thing at a time. It also just makes me "smiley", if that's even a word! LOL. Cool, calm and focused! I can finally get things done!

I have always suffered from major stress throughout my life that has decreased my motivation to do almost nothing. My mind always feels shut down yet always on overdrive. As of a few months ago, I've also started to experience moments where my stress was so bad it was hard to breath, almost like I could never actually catch my breath! These strips have made me feel like my mind has done a complete 360! No more racing thoughts, I feel more at ease and not always trying to catch my breath, and more importantly I feel focused and motivated during the day. It feels so good to be able to tackle simple daily tasks without even thinking about it or forcing myself! I have noticed that I'm not letting laundry pile up, I'm making dinner and enjoying it rather than it feeling like chore, and things are just getting done around the house! I finally feel like myself again!

I'm a special needs mom with LOTS of stress. I have a very hard time keeping my brain calm, and my thoughts tend to race all day long. When I first tried the strip, I couldn't believe how fast my thoughts calmed down! It was like someone flipped a switch for me to be able to think clearly, focus on what I need, and stay motivated to get it done!

The first time I tried Axis Klarity, I was at the hospital with my family. My mom just had emergency surgery and I wasn't sure if she would be okay. I spend over a month at that hospital, day after day crying & praying my mom would make it out of there. I took this product and within 5 minutes I felt an immense calmness come over me. I even started to laugh, something I hadn't done in a month. I was shocked! I knew in that moment, that this little strip was going to make a huge impact on everyone who tried it!
