Case No. 2:21-cv-00845-KJM-CKD

Hon. Kimberly J. Mueller

AMENDED CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT

[DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL]

1 Plaintiff RONALD ORTEGA, on behalf of himself and all others similarly situated, complains
2 and alleges upon information and belief based, among other things, upon the investigation made by
3 Plaintiff and through his attorneys as follows:

4 NATURE OF ACTION

5 1. This is a proposed class action seeking monetary damages, restitution, and injunctive and 6 declaratory relief from Defendant Chick-fil-A, Inc. (“Defendant” or “Chick-fil-A”), arising from its 7 deceptive and untruthful promises to provide a flat, low-price delivery fee on food deliveries ordered
8 through its app and website.

9 2. Since the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic, Chick-fil-A has moved aggressively into 10 the food delivery business, exploiting an opportunity presented by Americans’ reduced willingness to 11 leave their homes. To appeal to consumers in a crowded food delivery marketplace, Chick-fil-A has 12 promised its customers low-price delivery in its mobile application and on its website, usually in the 13 amount of $3.99.

14 3. These representations, however, are false, because that is not the true cost of having food
15 delivered by Chick-fil-A. In fact, Chick-fil-A imposes hidden delivery charges on its customers in 16 addition to the low “Delivery Fee” represented in its app and on its website.

17 4. On delivery orders only, Chick-fil-A secretly marks up food prices for delivery orders by 18 a hefty 25-30%. In other words, the identical order of a 30-count chicken nuggets costs approximately 19 $5-6 more when ordered for delivery than when ordered via the same mobile app for pickup, or when 20 ordered in-store.

21 5. This hidden delivery upcharge makes Chick-fil-A’s promise of low-cost, $3.99 delivery
22 patently false. The true delivery costs are obscured, as described above, and far exceed its express
23 representation that its “Delivery Fee” is only $3.99.

24 6. By falsely marketing a quantified, low-cost delivery charge, Chick-fil-A deceives 25 consumers into making online food purchases they otherwise would not make.

26 7. Chick-fil-A misrepresents the nature of the delivery charges assessed on the Chick-fil-A
27 mobile application and the website, by issuing in-app and online marketing materials that fail to correct
28 reasonable understandings of its low-cost delivery promises, and that misrepresent the actual costs of the 1 delivery service.

2 8. Specifically, Chick-fil-A omits and conceals material facts about the Chick-fil-A delivery
3 service, never once informing consumers in any disclosure, at any time, that the use of the delivery
4 service causes a substantial increase in food prices.

5 9. Hundreds of thousands of Chick-fil-A customers like Plaintiff have been assessed hidden 6 delivery charges they did not bargain for.

7 10. Consumers like Plaintiff reasonably understand Chick-fil-A's express "Delivery Fee"
8 representation to disclose the total additional cost they will pay as a result of having their food delivered,
9 as opposed to ordering online and picking up food in person, or ordering and picking up food in person.

10 11. By unfairly obscuring its true delivery costs, Chick-fil-A deceives consumers and gains an 11 unfair upper hand on competitors that fairly disclose their true delivery charges. For example, other 12 restaurants such as Del Taco and El Pollo Loco both offer delivery services through their app and 13 website. But unlike Chick-fil-A, Del Taco and El Pollo Loco fairly and prominently represent their true 14 delivery charges.

15 12. Plaintiff seeks damages and, among other remedies, injunctive relief that fairly allows 16 consumers to decide whether they will pay Chick-fil-A's delivery mark-ups.

17 PARTIES

18 13. Plaintiff Ronald Ortega is a citizen of the State of California who resides in Sacramento, 19 California.

20 14. Defendant, Chick-fil-A Inc. is incorporated in Georgia and maintains its principal business
21 offices in Atlanta, Georgia.

22 JURISDICTION AND VENUE

23 15. This Court has original jurisdiction of this action under the Class Action Fairness Act of 24 2005. Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1332(d)(2) and (6), this Court has original jurisdiction because (1) the 25 proposed class is comprised of at least 100 members; (2) Plaintiff is a citizen of California, making at 26 least one member of the proposed class a citizen of a different state than Defendant; and (3) the aggregate
27 claims of the putative class members exceed $5 million, exclusive of interest and costs.

28 16. Venue is proper in this district pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1391 because Chick-fil-A is

1 subject to personal jurisdiction here and regularly conducts business in this district. Also, a substantial
2 portion of the events or omissions giving rise to the claims asserted herein occurred in this district.

3 COMMON FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

4 A. Food Delivery Services Increase in Popularity, and then Explode in Popularity During the 5 Pandemic.

6 17. In 2018, the online food delivery industry was an astounding $82 billion in gross revenue
7 and projected to exceed $200 billion by 2025.¹

8 18. US Foods reports that the average American consumer has two food delivery apps
9 installed on their mobile phone and uses those apps three times per month.²

10 19. The online food delivery industry predominately influences the country's most financially
11 vulnerable populations. A nationwide research study conducted by Zion & Zion reveals that the largest 12 user markets for online delivery food services are the young and the poor.³ During a 90-day timeframe,
13 63% of consumers between the ages of 18 and 29 used a multi-restaurant delivery website or app service,
14 followed by 51% of consumers between the ages of 30 to 44.⁴ The study also demonstrated that the "less
15 income a consumer earns, the more likely the consumer is to take advantage of restaurant delivery
16 services," as those earning less than $10,000 per year ordered online delivery the most (51.6%).⁵

17 20. Put plainly, the allure for online food delivery services has historically been based upon 18 pure convenience. A 2019 Gallup study of third-party delivery services companies like GrubHub,
19 DoorDash, and Uber Eats reported 72% of customers order online food delivery because they don't want
20 to leave their house; 50% so that they can continue with their ongoing activities; and 41% to avoid bad

1 weather.⁶

2 21. According to data compiled by Yelp, food delivery orders have doubled since the 3 COVID-19 outbreak began.⁷

4 22. The arrival of the unprecedented COVID-19 pandemic escalated the value of online food
5 delivery services from one of pure convenience to that of a comforting necessity for many consumers
6 who are sick, in a high-risk population group for COVID-19, or simply do not feel safe to leave their 7 homes and venture out into the public to purchase food during quarantine.

8 23. In its 2019 Economic Report conducted by research firm Technomic, DoorDash reported
9 that 86% of customers agreed that DoorDash played an important role in helping them access food 10 during the pandemic and 77% of consumers increased their use of third-party delivery services during 11 this time.⁸ Indeed, amidst the uncertainty of the novel virus, 68% of consumers now view ordering food
12 online for delivery as the safer option.⁹

13 24. The era of COVID-19 undoubtedly caused a significant revenue boom for third party
14 delivery services. SEC filings indicate that the top four U.S. food-delivery apps (DoorDash, Uber Eats, 15 GrubHub, and Postmates) collectively experienced a $3 billion increase in revenue in just two quarters,
16 April through September, following the enactment of shelter-in-place restrictions throughout the 17 nation.¹⁰

18 25. The ramp up in utilization of food delivery services also had a massive positive impact on

1 restaurant owners who were quickly on the brink of facing permanent closures during lockdown: 67% of 2 restaurant operators said DoorDash was crucial to their business during COVID-19 and 65% say they
3 were actually able to increase profits during this time because of DoorDash.

4 26. In the wake of the food delivery surge, Consumer Reports highlighted the need for fee
5 transparency for consumers who use these apps and services.¹¹ A research team investigated food
6 delivery companies and the report measured their compliance with new rules regarding fees enacted in 7 seven US cities aimed at protecting consumers and businesses during the pandemic. It found that these 8 companies continued to not comply with the new ordinances and continued to “employ design practices
9 that obfuscate fees.” They concluded that “[c]onsumers deserve to have informed choices to understand 10 what they are being charged for and how their dollars spent impacts the restaurants they support and 11 patronize in their communities.”

12 B. Chick-fil-A’s App and Website Fails to Bind Users to Any Terms of Service.

13 27. When a consumer downloads the Chick-fil-A app, or uses the Chick-fil-A website, he may 14 create an account in order to place an order for delivery or pickup.

15 28. In order to do so, a user enters in a name and contact information.

16 29. While the account creation screen contains a small hyperlink to view Chick-fil-A’s Terms
17 of Service and Privacy Notice, users are not required to affirmatively consent to such terms, such as by 18 clicking or checking a box.

19 C. Chick-fil-A Prominently and Plainly Represents a Flat $3.99 “Delivery Fee” on its App and 20 Website.

21 30. Beginning in early 2020, Chick-fil-A began prominently featuring low-cost delivery
22 promises on its mobile application and on its website.

23 31. Such representations often are made on the home screen of the app or website, and were 24 always made on the check-out screen of the app and website, prior to the finalization of an order. On that 25 screen, Chick-fil-A promised a flat “Delivery Fee,” usually in the amount of $3.99.

26
27
28 ¹¹ See Consumer Reports, Collecting Receipts: Food Delivery Apps & Fee Transparency, September 29,
2020, accessible at https://digital-lab-wp.consumerreports.org/wp-content/uploads/2020/09/Food-delivery_-Report.pdf, last accessed January 19, 2021.

1 32. Specifically, for supposed “$3.99 Delivery Fee” orders, the order finalization screen
2 states:

3 Subtotal: [representing the cost of the food selected]

4 Tax: [representing sales tax]

5 Delivery Fee: $3.99

6 Tip:

7 Total: [adding up the above]

8 33. In short, there was no way for Plaintiff or other users of the Chick-fil-A mobile
9 application or website to avoid seeing Chick-fil-A’s promises of a flat fee, $3.99 delivery charge.

10 D. Chick-fil-A Omits and Conceals Material Facts About the Costs of the Chick-fil-A Delivery
11 Service.

12 34. But those disclosures were false and misleading, and the delivery charge was not, in fact,
13 $3.99.

14 35. Chick-fil-A furtively marked up the cost of food reflected in the “Subtotal”—adding a 15 hefty 25-30% to the cost of the food items ordered for delivery. Chick-fil-A did not and does not make 16 similar markups for identical food items ordered via the same app or website, where such items are 17 ordered for pickup instead of delivery.

18 36. Chick-fil-A omitted this material fact from its app and website disclosures, never 19 informing users of this secret markup.

20 37. This secret markup—which Chick-fil-A only applies to delivery orders—is a hidden
21 delivery fee. This alone renders false Chick-fil-A’s promise of a flat, low-cost delivery fee of $3.99,
22 which is made repeatedly in the app and the website, and then again in the “Delivery Fee” line item on 23 the order screen.

24 38. In short, the “Delivery Fee” is not actually $3.99. The actual “Delivery Fee”—the extra
25 charge for having food delivered as opposed to picking it up—is the listed “Delivery Fee” plus the 26 hidden food markup applied exclusively to delivery orders.

27 39. Chick-fil-A does not inform consumers the true costs of its delivery service and it 28 misrepresents its “Delivery Fee” as $3.99, when in fact that cost is actually much higher.

1 E. Other Restaurant Industry Actors Disclose Delivery Fees Fairly and Expressly.

2 40. By unfairly obscuring its true delivery costs, Chick-fil-A deceives consumers and gains an
3 unfair upper hand on competitors that fairly disclose their true delivery charges. For example, other
4 restaurants like Del Taco and El Pollo Loco both offer delivery services through their app and website.
5 But unlike Chick-fil-A, Del Taco and El Pollo Loco fairly and prominently represent their true delivery 6 charges.

7 41. For example, Del Taco does not mark-up food charges for delivery orders through its app.
8 Instead, for delivery orders its ordering screen presents the following:

9 Subtotal:

10 Tax:

11 Delivery Charge:

12 Tip:

13 42. All line-item amounts are identical for delivery and pick-up orders, except for the plainly
14 and fairly disclosed delivery charge—allowing consumers to understand the true cost of the delivery
15 service.

16 43. Similarly, El Pollo Loco does not mark-up food charges for delivery orders through its 17 app. Instead, for delivery orders its ordering screen presents the following:

18 Subtotal:

19 Delivery Charge:

20 Tax:

21 44. All line-item amounts are identical for delivery and pick-up orders, except for the plainly
22 and fairly disclosed delivery charge—allowing consumers to understand the true cost of the delivery
23 service.

24 45. Lastly, although Instacart, the grocery delivery service, does mark-up item charges for 25 delivery orders made through its app, it provides an express warning to consumers that the item prices
26 listed on its app are “higher than in-store prices.” Instacart’s clear disclaimer is made visible to 27 consumers before they place their orders and allows consumers to understand that they are paying a 28 higher price for utilizing the delivery service, as opposed to what they would pay had they purchased the

1 same items in-store.

2 F. Plaintiff's Experience

3 46. Plaintiff used the Chick-fil-A app to make a purchase of food on January 29, 2021, in the 4 total amount of $28.51.

5 47. When using the app, and prior to placing his order, the Chick-fil-A app stated that the 6 Delivery Fee was $3.99.

7 48. However, the cost of the food ordered by Plaintiff bore a hidden delivery fee markup. To 8 illustrate, Chick-fil-A charged Plaintiff $20.39 for a 30-count of Chick-fil-A nuggets.

9 49. Upon information and belief, the same item would have cost Plaintiff 25-30% less than 10 what he paid had he picked it up from the Chick-fil-A location instead.

11 50. Plaintiff would not have made the purchase if he had known the Chick-fil-A delivery fee
12 was not in fact $3.99.

13 51. If he had known the true delivery fee, he would have chosen another method for receiving
14 food from Chick-fil-A or ordered food from another provider.

15 CLASS ALLEGATIONS

16 52. Pursuant to Federal R. Civ. P. 23, Plaintiff brings this action on behalf of himself and a 17 Class of similarly situated persons defined as follows:

18 All persons who, within the applicable statute of limitations preceding the 19 filing of this action to the date of class certification, ordered food delivery
20 through the Chick-fil-A mobile app or website, and were assessed higher delivery charges than represented.

21 53. Excluded from the Class are Defendant, any entities in which they have a controlling 22 interest, any of their parents, subsidiaries, affiliates, officers, directors, employees and members of such 23 persons' immediate families, and the presiding judge(s) in this case, and their staff. Plaintiff reserves the 24 right to expand, limit, modify, or amend this class definition, including the addition of one or more
25 subclasses, in connection with his motion for class certification, or at any other time, based upon, inter
26 alia, changing circumstances and/or new facts obtained during discovery.

27 54. Numerosity: At this time, Plaintiff does not know the exact size of the Class; however,
28 due to the nature of the trade and commerce involved, Plaintiff believes that the Class members are well

1 into the thousands, and thus are so numerous that joinder of all members is impractical. The number and
2 identities of Class members is administratively feasible and can be determined through appropriate
3 discovery in the possession of the Defendant.

4 55. Commonality: There are questions of law or fact common to the Class, which include,
5 but are not limited to the following:

- 6 a. Whether during the class period, Defendant deceptively represented Delivery Fees
7 on food deliveries ordered through the Chick-fil-A website and mobile app;
- 8 b. Whether Defendant's alleged misconduct misled or had the tendency to mislead 9 consumers;
- 10 c. Whether Defendant engaged in unfair, unlawful, and/or fraudulent business 11 practices under the laws asserted;
- 12 d. Whether Defendant's alleged conduct constitutes violations of the laws asserted;
- 13 e. Whether Plaintiff and members of the Class were harmed by Defendant's 14 misrepresentations;
- 15 f. Whether Defendant breached its contract;
- 16 g. Whether Plaintiff and the Class have been damaged, and if so, the proper measure 17 of damages; and
- 18 h. Whether an injunction is necessary to prevent Defendant from continuing to 19 deceptively represent low-price, flat delivery fees on food deliveries ordered 20 through the Chick-fil-A website and mobile app.

21 56. Typicality: Like Plaintiff, many other consumers ordered food for delivery from Chick-
22 fil-A's website or mobile app, believing delivery to be the flat fee represented based on Defendant's
23 representations. Plaintiff's claims are typical of the claims of the Class because Plaintiff and each Class
24 member was injured by Defendant's false representations about the true nature of the delivery fee.
25 Plaintiff and the Class have suffered the same or similar injury as a result of Defendant's false, deceptive
26 and misleading representations. Plaintiff's claims and the claims of members of the Class emanate from 27 the same legal theory, Plaintiff's claims are typical of the claims of the Class, and, therefore, class
28 treatment is appropriate.

1 deceptively representing that it provides a flat “Delivery Fee” of $3.99 on food deliveries ordered
2 through its website and mobile app violates each of the statute’s “unfair,” “unlawful,” and “fraudulent”
3 prongs.

4 64. The UCL imposes strict liability. Plaintiff need not prove that Chick-fil-A intentionally or 5 negligently engaged in unlawful, unfair, or fraudulent business practices—but only that such practices
6 occurred.

7 65. A business act or practice is “unfair” under the UCL if it offends an established public
8 policy or is immoral, unethical, oppressive, unscrupulous, or substantially injurious to consumers, and 9 that unfairness is determined by weighing the reasons, justifications, and motives of the practice against 10 the gravity of the harm to the alleged victims.

11 66. A business act or practice is “fraudulent” under the UCL if it is likely to deceive members 12 of the public.

13 67. A business act or practice is “unlawful” under the UCL if it violates any other law or 14 regulation.

15 68. Chick-fil-A committed unfair and fraudulent business acts and practices in violation of 16 Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200, et seq., by affirmatively and knowingly misrepresenting on its website
17 and mobile app that it provides a flat $3.99 “Delivery Fee” for food orders, when, in reality, it hides
18 delivery charges through hidden food markups by 25-30% applied exclusively to delivery orders.

19 69. Defendant’s acts and practices offend an established public policy of fee transparency in 20 the marketplace, and constitute immoral, unethical, oppressive, and unscrupulous activities that are 21 substantially injurious to consumers.

22 70. The harm to Plaintiff and the Class outweighs the utility of Defendant’s practices. There
23 were reasonably available alternatives to further Defendant’s legitimate business interests, other than the 24 misleading and deceptive conduct described herein.

25 71. Defendant’s conduct also constitutes an “unlawful” act under the UCL because, as 26 detailed in Plaintiff’s Second Claim for Relief below, it also constitutes a violation of sections 1770(a)(5)
27 and (a)(9) of the California Consumer Legal Remedies Act (“CLRA”), Cal. Civ. Code § 1750, et seq.,
28 infra, in that Chick-fil-A deceptively represents that it provides a flat, low-price “Delivery Fee” for food

1 orders made on its website or mobile app; in reality, however, this marketing message is false because 2 Chick-fil-A's use of the delivery service causes a substantial increase in food prices.

3 72. Chick-fil-A's business practices have misled Plaintiff and the proposed Class and will 4 continue to mislead them in the future.

5 73. Plaintiff relied on Defendant's misrepresentations about the falsely advertised cost of 6 delivery in choosing to utilize the Chick-fil-A food delivery service in ordering food from Defendant's
7 website or mobile app.

8 74. By falsely marketing the true costs of food delivery, Chick-fil-A deceived Plaintiff and 9 Class members into making online food purchases they otherwise would not make.

10 75. Had Plaintiff known the truth of the delivery service fee, i.e., that Chick-fil-A's hidden
11 food markups were in all reality "delivery fees," he would have chosen another method for receiving
12 food from Chick-fil-A or ordered food from another provider.

13 76. As a direct and proximate result of Chick-fil-A's unfair, fraudulent, and unlawful 14 practices, Plaintiff and Class members suffered and will continue to suffer actual damages. Defendant's
15 fraudulent conduct is ongoing and present a continuing threat to Class members that they will be 16 deceived into ordering food for delivery under the false belief that delivery was $3.99.

17 77. As a result of its unfair, fraudulent, and unlawful conduct, Chick-fil-A has been unjustly
18 enriched and should be required to disgorge its unjust profits and make restitution to Plaintiff and Class
19 members pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17203 and 17204.

20 SECOND CLAIM FOR RELIEF

21 Violation of California's Consumer Legal Remedies Act ("CLRA")

22 Cal. Civ. Code § 1750, *et seq.

23 78. Plaintiff re-alleges and incorporates the preceding allegations by reference as if fully set
24 forth herein.

25 79. This cause of action is brought pursuant to the Consumers Legal Remedies Act (CLRA),
26 California Civil Code § 1750, et seq. Plaintiff and each member of the proposed Class are "consumers"
27 as defined by California Civil Code § 1761(d). Defendant's sale of food products to consumers for 28 delivery ordered through its website and mobile app were "transactions" within the meaning of

1 California Civil Code § 1761(e). Defendant’s online delivery service utilized by Plaintiff and the Class is 2 a “service” within the meaning of California Civil Code § 1761(b). The food products purchased by 3 Plaintiff and the Class are “goods” within the meaning of California Civil Code § 1761(a).

4 80. Defendant violated and continues to violate the CLRA by engaging in the following
5 practices proscribed by California Civil Code § 1770(a) in transactions with Plaintiff and the Class which 6 were intended to result in, and did result in, the sale of Chick-fil-A food orders for delivery:

- 7 a. “Representing that goods or services have . . . characteristics . . . that they do not 8 have” (a)(5); and
9 b. “Advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised” (a)(9).

10 81. Specifically, Chick-fil-A advertises to customers that use of its delivery service is a flat,
11 low-price charge, such as $3.99, but this is false because Defendant imposes hidden delivery charges to 12 consumers by secretly marking up food items applied exclusively for delivery orders by 25-30%.

13 82. At no time does Chick-fil-A disclose the true nature of its delivery fee to consumers;
14 instead, it repeatedly conceals and misrepresents this material information at several steps of the 15 transaction process.

16 83. Pursuant to § 1782(a) of the CLRA, Plaintiff’s counsel notified Defendant in writing by 17 certified mail of the particular violations of §1770 of the CLRA and demanded that it rectify the 18 problems associated with the actions detailed above and give notice to all affected consumers of 19 Defendant’s intent to act. If Defendant fails to respond to Plaintiff’s letter or agree to rectify the problems 20 associated with the actions detailed above and give notice to all affected consumers within 30 days of the 21 date of written notice, as proscribed by §1782, Plaintiff will move to amend his Complaint to pursue
22 claims for actual, punitive and statutory damages, as appropriate against Defendant. As to this cause of 23 action, at this time, Plaintiff seeks only injunctive relief.

24 THIRD CLAIM FOR RELIEF
25 Violation of California’s False Advertising Law (“FAL”)
26 Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17500, *et seq.

27 84. Plaintiff re-alleges and incorporates the preceding allegations by reference as if fully set
28 forth herein.

1 85. California’s False Advertising Law (“FAL”), Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500, states that 2 “[i]t is unlawful for any ... corporation ... with intent ... to dispose of ... personal property ... to induce
3 the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or 4 disseminated ... from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or 5 any advertising device, or by public outcry or proclamation, or in any other manner or means whatever,
6 including over the Internet, any statement...which is untrue or misleading and which is known, or which 7 by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading....”

8 86. Defendant’s material misrepresentations and omissions alleged herein violate Bus. & Prof.
9 Code § 17500.

10 87. Defendant knew or should have known that its misrepresentations and omissions were 11 false, deceptive, and misleading.

12 88. Pursuant to Business & Professions Code §§ 17203 and 17500, Plaintiff and the members
13 of the Class, on behalf of the general public, seeks an order of this Court enjoining Defendant from 14 continuing to engage, use, or employ their practice of misrepresenting their delivery fees.

15 89. Further, Plaintiff and the members of the Class seek an order requiring Defendant to 16 disclose such misrepresentations, and additionally request an order awarding Plaintiff restitution of the 17 money wrongfully acquired by Defendant by means of said misrepresentations.

18 90. Additionally, Plaintiff and the Class members seek an order requiring Defendant to pay 19 attorneys’ fees pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code § 1021.5.

20
21 FOURTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
Breach of Contract

22 91. Plaintiff repeats and re-allege the above allegations as if fully set forth herein.

23 92. Plaintiff and Chick-fil-A have contracted for food delivery services, as embodied in the 24 representations made in the Chick-fil-A app and website.

25 93. No contract provision authorizes Chick-fil-A be able to imposes hidden delivery charges
26 on its customers in addition to the “delivery charge” represented in its app and on its website.

27 94. Chick-fil-A breached the terms of its contract with consumers by charging an additional 28

1 10% more for “delivery” than the contracted-for “delivery charge.”

2 95. Plaintiff and members of the Class have performed all, or substantially all, of the 3 obligations imposed on them under the contract.

4 96. Plaintiff and members of the Class have sustained damages as a result of Defendant’s
5 breach of the contract and breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing.

6
7 FIFTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
Unjust Enrichment

8 97. Plaintiff repeats, realleges, and incorporates by reference each of the foregoing paragraphs 9 as if fully set forth herein.

10 98. This Count is brought solely in the alternative. Plaintiff acknowledges that the breach of 11 contract claim cannot be tried along with unjust enrichment.

12 99. To the detriment of Plaintiff and the Classes, Defendant has been, and continues to be,
13 unjustly enriched as a result of its wrongful conduct alleged herein.

14 100. Defendant unfairly, deceptively, unjustly, and/or unlawfully seized and accepted said
15 benefits which, under the circumstances, would be unjust to allow Defendant to retain.

16 101. Plaintiff and the Classes, therefore, seek disgorgement of all wrongfully obtained fees
17 received by Defendant as a result of its inequitable conduct as more fully stated herein.

18 PRAYER FOR RELIEF

19 WHEREFORE, Plaintiff on behalf of himself and the Class seeks judgment in an amount to be 20 determined at trial, as follows:

- 21 (a) For an order enjoining Defendant from continuing the unlawful practices set forth above;
22 (b) For declaratory and injunctive relief as set forth above;
23 (c) For an order requiring Defendant to disgorge and make restitution of all monies it
24 acquired by means of the unlawful practices set forth above;
25 (d) For compensatory damages according to proof;
26 (e) For punitive damages according to proof;
27 (f) For reasonable attorneys’ fees and costs of suit;
28

1 (g) For pre-judgment interest; and

2 (h) Awarding such other and further relief as this Court deems just, proper and equitable.
