We spend so much of our time focused on the future, doing what we have to do, chasing goals, and trying to progress.

So let me ask you a question; When do we truly live?

I spent years with the mentality of "I'll sleep when I'm dead" or "celebrate later, work now". I found myself never truly being present. Moments that I prayed for were passing right before me, and I was so focused on what was coming that I lost track of where it was that I was at.

Tomorrow isn't guaranteed, and yesterday is already behind us. The present is truly a present; a gift. So i
