I. INTRODUCTION

1. Consumers should be able to trust a company's promises and statements about its products, and companies must keep their promise of cruelty-free products, ensuring that their team performs no animal testing. If companies do not keep their promise, the law holds companies accountable by recognizing that a company's promises and statements are part of the contract between the parties, and consumers deserve protection if the product fails to meet the promises on the label.

2. Defendant Paula's Choice, LLC ("Paula's Choice") was founded on the principle that "Beauty Begins with Truth." One of the "truths" that Paula's Choice tells its customers is that it is "cruelty-free, always." Since 1995, Paula's Choice has publicized and reinforced this sentiment with its customers, always expressly emphasizing that its skincare products were never tested on animals and Paula's Choice never performs animal testing anywhere in the world.

3. Paula's Choice's promise that its products were never tested on animals can be found on its products themselves, as well as in all its other media, publicity, and public relations materials, including advertisements, websites, marketing campaigns, and interviews. Over the years, Paula's Choice's product labels promise that its skincare products are 100% cruelty-free. Those promises include: "Never Animal Tested," and carry the Leaping Bunny certification logo, which tells consumers the company and product are cruelty-free.

4. Yet, despite claiming Paula's Choice was always cruelty-free and repeating that promise for over 28 years, Paula's Choice prioritized its profits over its principles. Paula's Choice has not honored its promises, allowing animal testing on numerous products just to gain access to one of the world's biggest consumer marketplaces, China.

5. Paula's Choice claimed it was always cruelty-free and through its Leaping Bunny certification, that it did not conduct animal tests anywhere in the world. While portraying itself in the United States as always being cruelty-free, Paula's Choice opted to import and sell its products in China where testing on animals was mandatory for companies like Paula's Choice during the class period. See infra.

CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT Case No.

Case 2:24-cv-00342 Document 1 Filed 03/14/24 Page 4 of 52

6. When a company agrees to perform animal testing to gain access to the Chinese market—while claiming the opposite in advertising, to the public, and on every product that it sells—consumers who purchased products with false representations about the characteristics of the products are harmed.

7. Because the marketplace disdains cosmetic products affiliated with animal testing, the members of the Class were damaged at the point of sale by overpaying for cosmetics that were in fact actually tested on animals despite assurances on the product and its packaging stating otherwise.

8. Consequently, Plaintiffs bring this as a class action on behalf of purchasers of any Paula's Choice skincare products. Plaintiffs claim on behalf of the Class that this conduct breached the express warranties given to Plaintiffs and the Class; violated the implied warranties of merchantability given to Plaintiffs and the Class, violated the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act, and violated the Washington Consumer Protection Act.

| 1  | IV. FACTS   |  |
| 2  | A. History of Paula's Choice  |  |
| 3  | 21. Paula's Choice is a manufacturer of professional skincare products, founded by  |  |
| 4  | Paula Begoun ("Begoun").  |  |
| 5  | 22. Begoun began working in the beauty industry in the 1970s, working as a makeup   |  |
| 6  | artist, esthetician, and opening her own cosmetics store.   |  |
| 7  | 23. In 1985, Begoun published her first book, Blue Eyeshadow Should be Illegal , which   |  |
| 8  | gained Begoun national attention and multiple appearances on the Oprah Winfrey Show.  |  |
| 9  | 24. Begoun also began writing a syndicated column where she provided advice on  |  |
| 10 | beauty products.  |  |
| 11 | 25. In 1992, Begoun wrote Don't Go to the Cosmetics Counter Without Me.   |  |
| 12 | 26. At the same time, Begoun began working with a team of cosmetic chemists to  |  |
| 13 | develop her own skincare products.  |  |
| 14 | 27. In 1994, Paula Begoun founded Paula's Choice, Inc. in Washington, which later   |  |
| 15 | became Paula's Choice, LLC.   |  |
| 16 | 28. In 1995, Paula's Choice began selling skincare products exclusively online.   |  |
| 17 | 29. Begoun acted as the face of Paula's Choice, being featured in the advertising for the   |  |
| 18 | company.  |  |
| 19 | 30. Paula's Choice is currently only sold at PaulasChoice.com or at authorized retailers,   |  |
| 20 | which include Sephora (online or in-store), Amazon.com, and Dermstore.com.  |  |
| 21 | 31. It is estimated that Paula's Choice has annual revenues of over $300 million per   |  |
| 22 | year.   |  |
| 23 | B. Paula's Choice's "Cruelty-free" Promise  |  |

| 25 | Choice's products were cruelty-free or never tested on animals.   |  |

| 6  | 36. Paula's Choice products state on the bottles and packaging that they are "NEVER  |   |  |

| 3  | C. Animal Testing in the Cosmetic Industry   |  |  |
| 4  | 63. Animal testing has been used in the cosmetics industry in the past to ensure that  |  |  |
| 5  | products were safe for consumers to use.   |  |  |
| 6  | 64. Testing performed on animals in the cosmetics industry include various toxicity and  |  |  |
| 7  | irritancy tests.   |  |  |
| 8  | 65. Acute toxicity tests are used to determine the danger of exposure to a chemical by   |  |  |
| 9  | mouth, skin, or inhalation and is usually performed on mice or rats. <sup>15</sup>   |  |  |
| 10 | 66. LD50, also known as Lethal Dose 50, is a type of acute toxicity test where animals   |  |  |
| 11 | are dosed with a test chemical to determine the dose at which half of the test animals die. <sup>16</sup>  |  |  |
| 12 | 67. Fixed dose method is another type of acute toxicity test, but it does not use death at   |  |  |
| 13 | the endpoint. The testing will be stopped when the animal demonstrates signs of ailment or   |  |  |
| 14 | distress. <sup>17</sup>  |  |  |
| 15 | 68. Other acute toxicity tests include the up-and-down procedure and acute toxic class   |  |  |
| 16 | methods. While these tests do not result in the death of the animal, the animals will often endure   |  |  |
| 17 | intense pain, convulsions, loss of motor function, and seizures. <sup>18</sup>   |  |  |
| 18 | 69. The animals are killed when all the testing is complete so a necropsy can be   |  |  |
| 19 | performed to determine internal damage. <sup>19</sup>  |  |  |

| 1  | 70. The Draize test is a test devised in 1944 by John H. Draize and Jacob M. Spines,  |  |  |
|----|---|--|--|
| 2  | toxicologists at the FDA, to assess how chemicals cause eye and skin irritation. The Draize test is   |  |  |
| 3  | generally performed on rabbits, particularly albino rabbits, although the testing can be performed  |  |  |
| 4  | on other animals as well. <sup>20</sup>   |  |  |
| 5  | 71. During the testing a chemical is placed in the eye or on the skin of a conscious and  |  |  |
| 6  | restrained animal, left on for a set amount of time, rinsed off, and its effects then recorded. <sup>21</sup>   |  |  |
| 7  | 72. The animals are then observed for up to fourteen days looking for signs of erythema   |  |  |
| 8  | and edema in the skin or redness, swelling, discharge, ulceration, hemorrhaging, cloudiness, or   |  |  |
| 9  | blindness in the tested eye. <sup>22</sup>  |  |  |
| 10 | 73. The animals are killed after the testing if the test causes irreversible damage to the  |  |  |
| 11 | eye or skin. If the test does not cause permanent damage, the animas are typically used again once  |  |  |
| 12 | all traces of the tested product have dispersed from the testing site. <sup>23</sup>  |  |  |
| 13 | 74. Skin sensitization tests are used to determine if a chemical causes an allergic   |  |  |
| 14 | reaction.   |  |  |
| 15 | 75. One type of skin sensitization test is the Guinea Pig Maximization Test, where a  |  |  |
| 16 | chemical is injected into the guinea pig, along with a chemical adjuvant to boost the immune  |  |  |
| 17 | reaction. Multiple doses are given until the animal develops an allergic reaction. <sup>24</sup>  |  |  |
| 18 | 76. Another skin sensitization test is the Buehler test, which is similar to the Guinea Pig   |  |  |
| 19 | Maximization Test, but no adjuvant is used to boost the immune reaction. <sup>25</sup>  |  |  |

77. In both the Buehler test and the Guinea Pig Maximization test the animals are killed after testing.<sup>26</sup>

Consumers' Attitudes Toward Animal Testing

79. Consumers around the world have called for the end of animal testing for cosmetics.
 Too many consumers are opposed to it.<sup>28</sup>

80. Most U.S. consumers prefer cosmetic products that have not been tested on animals.

81. In a recent poll from 2019, 79% of Americans support a federal law that would end animal testing on cosmetics.<sup>29</sup>

E. Regulations on Animal Testing for Cosmetics in the U.S. and Globally

84. The FDA goes beyond not requiring animal testing, also suggesting that "consideration should be given to the use of scientifically valid alternative methods to whole-animal testing."<sup>32</sup>

85. Because the practice of animal testing is found to be objectionable and cruel by so many, several states and other countries have gone further and banned the practice.

86. In 1988, the United Kingdom was the first country to ban animal testing on cosmetics.

87. The European Union also banned animal testing on cosmetics in a phased approach that was completed in 2013.

88. Other countries including Israel, India, Turkey, Brazil, New Zealand, and Norway also have bans on animal testing.

89. Eleven states have passed laws that ban or limit the sale of cosmetic products tested on animals, including Virginia (Va. Code Ann. § 59.1-572), California (Cal. Civ. Code § 1834.9.2), Louisiana (La. Stat. Ann. § 51:772), New Jersey (N.J. Stat. Ann. § 4:22-59), Maine (Me. Rev. Stat. tit. 10, § 1500-M), Hawaii (Haw. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 321-30.4), Nevada (Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 598.993), Illinois (410 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 620/17.2), Maryland (Md. Code Ann., Health-Gen. § 21-259.30), New York (N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law § 399-AAAAA), and Oregon (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 646A.009).

90. The legislative history of some of these laws reveals public support for banning animal testing.

91. Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 598.993 prohibits the sale of cosmetics that have been tested on animals on or after January 1, 2020.

92. The legislative history of Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 598.993 shows that the motivations for the bill were, in part, to meet the demand of and protect consumers: "Consumers overwhelmingly are starting to reject products tested on animals. Statistically, businesses that have

93. Cal. Civ. Code § 1834.9.5, prohibits manufacturers from selling cosmetics in California if the cosmetic was tested on animals on or after January 1, 2020.

94. The legislative history of Cal. Civ. Code § 1834.9.2 (S.B. 1249) shows that over 4,000 individuals contacted the legislature to voice support of the bill. California Bill Analysis,
S.B. 1249 Sen., 8/28/2018. In contrast only four entities (and no individuals) voiced opposition to the bill. Id.

95. The bill analysis also provided: "The bill has received an intense groundswell of support from concerned citizens, animal welfare groups, and many companies in the cosmetic industry that are strongly committed to a vision of a truly "cruelty-free standard" for cosmetic products sold in California. The bill is also supported by a coalition of approximately 80 cosmetic companies who attest that they are proof that a company can be profitable but also committed to manufacturing products without any reliance on animal testing whatsoever." California Bill Analysis, S.B. 1249 Assem., 6/26/2018 (emphasis added).

96. That analysis further noted: "The Committee has received over 6,500 letters in support of the bill from individuals providing a California address, and has taken note of an online petition signed by more than 150,000 persons from around the world, voicing support for this bill."

99. More than half of Chinese cosmetics consumers prefer foreign brands over local ones.<sup>35</sup>

100. The market size of cosmetics in China was more than 455 billion yuan in 2021, equivalent to over $63 billion USD at the current exchange rate.<sup>36</sup>

101. According to the United States Department of Commerce in 2016, China is the 10th largest market for U.S. personal care and cosmetics exports" and "China is expected to become the largest market for personal care and cosmetics products globally in the next five to ten years."
Excerpts from the Asia Personal Care & Cosmetics Market Guide, 2016, United States Department of Commerce, International Trade Administration, Exhibit 1 at 10.

105. Starting in 1990, the NMPA required all imported special and non-special use cosmetics to be tested on animals in Chinese designated and certified laboratories before they could be approved for importation and distribution in the Chinese market.

106. From 1990 to the present, all foreign-produced special use cosmetics need to be registered with and approved by the NMPA before they could be imported and sold in China.

107. From 1990 to November 7, 2018, all foreign-produced non-special use cosmetics needed to be registered with and approved by the NMPA before they could be imported and sold in China.

108. After November 7, 2018, non-special use cosmetics only require a premarket registration and can be imported after registration has been completed. That premarket registration requires the same animal testing as the earlier registrations but changes the timing for when a product can be imported into China.

109. To receive NMPA registration on foreign-produced special or non-special use cosmetics, a company must appoint and register a domestic responsible agent in China.

110. The domestic responsible agent must file an application with the NMPA on behalf of the company that includes an examination and testing report issued by an NMPA-designated examination and testing institution.

111. All NMPA-designated testing institutions are in China.

112. This means the domestic responsible agent must hire a laboratory in China to perform the required testing. These laboratories are designated and certified by the Chinese government.

113. The examination and testing report is governed by Chinese specific regulations, with standards issued in 2002, updated in 2007, and updated again in 2015.

114. From 2007 to 2014, China's Hygienic Standards for Cosmetics (2007) dictated the required examination and testing report. A translation of those standards is attached as Exhibit 2.

26 115. Those standards provide that the examination and testing report include multiple 27 skin irritation tests for cosmetics used daily, acute skin irritation tests for cosmetics rinsed after 28 use, and acute eye irritation tests for products that may come into contact with eyes.

116. The specifications for those tests are described in detail in the Hygienic Standardsfor Cosmetics.

117. The acute skin irritation test includes applying the test substance to the shaved skin of the animal, leaving the product on for 2 hours or longer, and then observing skin reactions at 1, 24, 48, and 72 hours after the product is removed. Ex. 2, Part II at 107.

118. The multiple skin irritation test includes the same procedure as the acute skinirritation test, but the product is applied to the animal every day for 14 days, shaving the animal'sskin before each application. Ex. 2, Part II at 107.

119. The 2007 Standards note regarding the skin irritation tests: "Animals should be humanely executed if they show signs of severe depression and distress at any stage of the test."Ex. 2, Part II at 105.

120. The acute eye irritation test involves applying the test substance in the conjunctival sac of one eye of the animal and not rinsed for at least 24 hours, but the substance is only rinsed if deemed necessary. The eyes are examined at 1, 24, 48, and 72 hours after the substance is applied. If no irritation is found, the test is terminated. If irritation is found, the test continues, and the eyes of the animals are examined again at 4 and 7 days. Ex. 2, Part II at 113–14.

121. The 2007 Standards note regarding the acute eye irrigation test: "Animals that show signs of severe depression and distress at any stage of the test should be humanely put to death and the subject evaluated appropriately in the light of the test. Animals that show corneal perforation, corneal ulceration, corneal 4 points for more than 48h, lack of light reflex for more than 72h, conjunctival ulceration, gangrene and decay, which are usually signs of irreversible damage, should also be humanely executed." Ex. 2, Part II at 111.

122. Since 2015, the examination and testing report is governed by the Safety and Technical Standards for Cosmetics (2015). A translation of those standards is attached as Exhibit 3.

123. Those standards provide that the examination and testing report must include the acute dermal irritation test and the acute eye irritation test.

124. The specifications for those tests are similar to the 2007 tests and are described in detail in the Safety and Technical Standards for Cosmetics, but they include placing the product to be tested in the eye of the animal or on the shaved skin of the animal, leaving that product in the eye or on the skin, and observing its effects at 1, 24, 48, and 72 hours after application. Ex. 3 at 20–35.

125. Those regulations also provide: "If animals show severe depression and pain at any stage of the trial, they should be executed humanely." Ex. 3 at 22, 28.

126. If a product is deemed special use because it contains UV protection, a skin phototoxicity test must be performed, which requires shaving off four patches of hair from a white rabbit or albino guinea pig, as shown in the following diagram (Ex. 2. Part II at 125):

127. The UV product is then applied to patches 1 and 2, with patches 3 and 4 left bare. Aluminum foil is then taped to the animal to cover patches 1 and 3, while patches 2 and 4 are irradiated with UV light. Ex. 2, Part II at 123–26.

128. The animal's skin reactions are then observed and scored at 1 hour, 24 hours, 48 hours, and 72 hours after UV exposure. Id., Part II at 125.

129. This test is identical in the 2007 and 2015 Standards. Ex. 3 at 44–49.

133. Through 2021, a company would have had to provide a copy of the NMPA registration when going through customs, along with other information required under Chinese law.<sup>37</sup>

134. An imported cosmetic must include a product label, which must list themanufacturer, the domestic responsible agent, and the NMPA registration number.

135. Up until 2018, a registration for non-special use cosmetics with the NMPA lasted four years, meaning that every foreign-produced cosmetic sold in China would have to be registered every four years and undergo animal testing every four years.

136. After 2018, non-special use product registrations do not expire, but starting on January 1, 2022, the registrant must provide an annual report to the NMPA. If an annual report is not filed, the NMPA may cancel the registration.

137. Registrations for special-use cosmetics only last for four years, meaning that every foreign-produced special use cosmetic sold in China would have to be registered every four years and undergo animal testing every four years.

138. In addition to the pre-market animal testing, all foreign-produced special and nonspecial use cosmetics can be subjected to post-market safety testing by Chinese authorities. This post-market testing includes animal testing.

139. On February 26, 2021, the NMPA promulgated the Administrative Provision for Cosmetics Registration and Filing Documents ("2021 Provision"), which allows foreign manufacturers of non-special use cosmetics to receive an exemption from animal testing. Starting on May 1, 2021, as a guarantee of safety, the NMPA can accept a specified certification and product safety assessment from the country of manufacture, instead of requiring animal testing.

| 1  | 178. In 2012 Paula's Choice registered twelve products with the NMPA in China, each   |  |  |  |  |  |
|----|---|--|--|--|--|--|
| 2  | requiring animal testing. Paula's Choice's NMPA registrations, Ex. 4.   |  |  |  |  |  |
| 3  | 179. In 2013, Paula's Choice registered six products with the NMPA in China, each   |  |  |  |  |  |
| 4  | requiring animal testing, and all of them were registered after PETA reported that Paula's Choice   |  |  |  |  |  |
| 5  | was not selling in China. Id.   |  |  |  |  |  |
| 6  | 180. If Paula's Choice was only selling in Hong Kong, it would not have needed to   |  |  |  |  |  |
| 7  | obtain the NMPA registrations in China in 2012 and 2013.  |  |  |  |  |  |
| 8  | 181. In 2014, Begoun was interviewed for the blog "In My Bag," which reported: "Paula   |  |  |  |  |  |
| 9  | [Begoun] informed me that if a brand is sold in China, it's compulsory that it has to have been   |  |  |  |  |  |
| 10 | tested on animals That is the reason, according to Paula, that she has taken the (financially   |  |  |  |  |  |
| 11 | challenging) decision not to sell her range there."48   |  |  |  |  |  |
| 12 | 182. In 2014, Paula's Choice registered four products with the NMPA in China, each  |  |  |  |  |  |
| 13 | requiring animal testing. Paula's Choice's NMPA registrations, Ex. 4.   |  |  |  |  |  |
| 14 | 183. In 2015, Begoun gave another interview where she was quoted as saying: "We were  |  |  |  |  |  |
| 15 | on the cusp of setting up in China and then we heard about the animal testing and we pulled out.  |  |  |  |  |  |
| 16 | We said 'No'. It's a billion people market. It's a big deal. But 'No.'"49   |  |  |  |  |  |
| 17 | 184. From 2015 to 2016, Paula's Choice registered nine products with the NMPA, each   |  |  |  |  |  |
| 18 | requiring animal testing. Paula's Choice's NMPA registrations, Ex. 4.   |  |  |  |  |  |
| 19 | 185. In 2017, Paula's Choice represented on its beautypedia.com website that it did not   |  |  |  |  |  |
| 20 | test on animals and included the following statement about sales in China: "IMPORTANT NOTE  |  |  |  |  |  |
| 21 | ABOUT COSMETICS IMPORTED TO AND SOLD IN CHINA: The Chinese government   |  |  |  |  |  |

186. But there is no blanket exception for online sales in China. All cosmetics that are imported and sold commercially in China require registration with the NMPA, including the required animal testing, regardless of whether they are sold online or in a physical storefront.

196. In 2021, Paula's Choice began bottling its products in China under the 2014 domestic manufacturing exemption, which allowed Paula's Choice to stop having its non-special use products tested on animals.

197. That same year Paula's Choice stopped registering its products with the NMPA and cancelled several of its NMPA registrations.

198. In total, from 2009 to 2020, Paula's Choice registered 60 products with the NMPA, with multiple registrations each year, all requiring animal testing. Paula's Choice's NMPA registrations, Ex. 4. The distribution of these registrations is as follows:

H. Plaintiffs

199. Plaintiff Jesse Vargison purchased Paula's Choice products between 2018–2021.

200. Vargison currently resides in Seattle, Washington.

201. Vargison was first introduced to Paula's Choice through a friend who used to work in their marketing department. Before making his first purchase of Paula's Choice products he investigated and researched whether Paula's Choice products were cruelty-free, as the claim was a "selling point at the time of purchase."

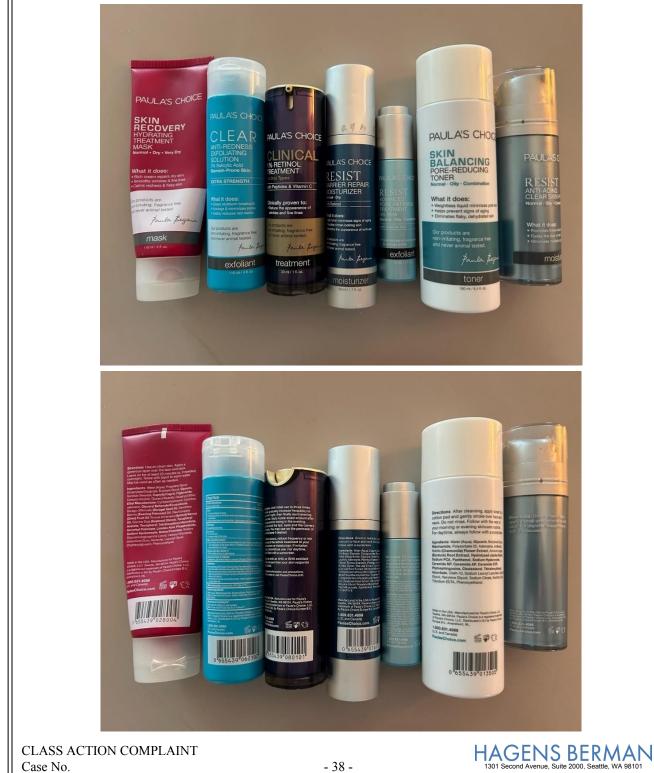

202. Vargison saw the "no animal testing" claims on the Paula's Choice website and marketing and relied on those claims in purchasing Paula's Choice products.

203. Vargison has purchased approximately 30–40 products since 2018.

Vargison would not have purchased Paula's Choice products had he known they 204. were tested on animals.

| 12     | 236. Typicality . Plaintiffs' claims are typical of the claims of the other members in the                              |  |  |  |  |  |  |
| 13     | Class, as they arise out of conduct of the Defendant that is common to the Class, meaning each                                 |  |  |  |  |  |  |
| 14     | Class Member will rely on the same evidence and actions to prove their claims, and such conduct is                             |  |  |  |  |  |  |
| 15     | uniform, standard, and pervasive. Thus, the claims of each Class Member are based on the same                                  |  |  |  |  |  |  |
| 16     | legal theories and challenge the same practices of Defendant. Plaintiffs and all Class Members                                 |  |  |  |  |  |  |

| 21     | products were cruelty-free and never animal tested.  |  |  |  |  |  |  |
| 22     | 237. Adequacy. Plaintiffs and their counsel will fairly and adequately represent the   |  |  |  |  |  |  |
| 23     | interests of the Class Members. Plaintiffs have no interests antagonistic to, or in conflict with, the                         |  |  |  |  |  |  |

| 25     | lawyers are highly experienced in the prosecution of consumer class actions and complex  |  |  |  |  |  |  |

238. Superiority. A class action is superior to all other available methods for fairly and 2 efficiently adjudicating the claims of Plaintiffs and the Class Members. Plaintiffs and the Class 3 Members—many of whom are unaware of their rights—have been harmed by Defendant's 4 misrepresentations. Litigating this case as a class action reduces the possibility of repetitious 5 litigation relating to Defendant's wrongful actions and provides an efficient mechanism for 6 adjudication for Class Members, whose claims are too small to warrant individual litigation and 7 Defendant has concealed the truth, thereby preventing Class Members from recognizing and 8 evaluating their rights and claims.

Injunctive and Declaratory Relief. Paula's Choice has acted or refused to act on 239 grounds that apply generally to the Class and final injunctive relief, or corresponding declaratory relief is appropriate respecting the Class as a whole.
